Today's Roundup

THIS department feels considerable concern over the lack of informative effort by the state vocational department on the new vocational school at the former Marine Barracks.

EPLEY

We realize that the school is going to start on slow bell, and it will be some time before the program gets into full swing.

Community Job, Too

THIS undertaking should not only include providing news for the newspapers over the state, but a definite program should be designed to get information directly to prospective students through veterans advisory agencies, high schools, and so on.

Probably the state vocational authorities have these things in mind. We know that Winston Purvine, the director of the school, has been thinking along these lines.

The responsibility is not entirely the state's, as has been pointed out, and the Klamath Falls community, through the chamber of commerce, will publish informative literature about the school.

As for the community here, it is important that local people generally know the school program thoroughly, in order to help create interest and attendance there.

Further, we realize that a lot of responsibility rests on this newspaper, and we will do our best to cooperate in every way in making the school successful and in helping spread information about it locally and over the state.

The Klamath community has as its guests this week-end Oregon members of the Loyal Order of Moose, here for a conference that has been carefully planned by the local Moose. Traditional Klamath hospitality has been extended to the Moose, and it is our hope that they have a grand time while with us.

Eugene Register-Guard had one of the best cracks of the week in a discussion of U. S. Senator Wayne Morse of Eugene, when it said "we're like the boy with the stone bruise, it hurts but we're proud to show it."

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

NOW that the Russian "bloc" of satellite nations in Eastern Europe has been designated clearly we shall find it illuminating if we pause to devote a bit of thought to the meaning of the term "bloc."

A bloc of nations, in its generally accepted sense, is a group which has willingly combined to achieve some objective of common interest. Membership in the bloc is voluntary.

Now in examining the Russian bloc we find an interesting deviation from the ordinary definition. The element of willingness is lacking in much, if not all, of this association, that is, willingness on the part of the people as a whole in the various nations. For examples, Hungary, Romania and Poland were among countries communized over protests by the United States and Britain that strong-arm methods were being employed so the will of the general public was being smothered.

The most recent demonstration—and it has drawn shocked expressions from the western world—is Czechoslovakia's withdrawal from the Paris economic conference on orders from Moscow.

Unwilling Bloc

THE Russian bloc is an unwilling and unhappy one. The mere fact that a communist government may be in control of a country doesn't necessarily mean that it speaks for the population as a whole. It means that the opponents of the government are, for the time being, either afraid to protest or are unable to register a useful opposition.

Moscow had several reasons for creating this bloc. One was to spread communism. Another was to increase the political and economic prestige of the Soviet Union. A third, and very important one, was to extend its sphere of influence westward for military security.

Unstable Barrier

ON first glance the bloc is a formidable one that at first glance would seem to fulfill all the purposes for which it was built. However, when we consider that it is made up of unwilling units we see that it provides a highly unstable barrier between Russia and the western democracies which she distrusts so much.

It is unstable because it cuts across a section of Europe which includes countries that long have been famous for their love of liberty and for their fierce defense of freedom. Among them are sturdy fighting folk like the Bohemians, the Serbs, the Poles, the Czechs, the Slovaks and the Finns.

Can any doubt that Russia will have to sit on the lid of this melting-pot? She herself, better than anyone else, must realize this because many of the populations in her bloc belong to her own Slavic race of fighters who so often have revolted against oppression.

Coercion isn't the right cement to hold a bloc together indefinitely.

"Flying Saucers" Cover Klamath County Area

"Flying saucers" were scattered over various parts of the Klamath county today from an airplane chartered for the purpose by Selby Willys Motor company.

The Selby saucers weren't mysterious and threatened no harm. They were conceived by John Selby, local automobile dealer, as a timely advertising stunt. He bought a batch of paper plates, had them printed with appropriate material, and dropped them over basin towns and the suburbs. He was refused permission to drop any over Klamath Falls.

Saucer finders were advised they could turn them in as part of a down payment on new or used cars at Selby's.

Lakeview Eyes Parking Meters

LAKEVIEW, July 12—The possibility of installing parking meters in Lakeview to relieve the congested daytime parking in the business district was discussed by the town council at its July meeting.

Street Commissioner Shelby Bailey discussed the matter fully, having collected detailed information about the meters, and the council instructed the street committee to invite a representative of the parking meter company to appear before the council and present all phases of the meter installation, said Mayor Lyle North.

Lake To Ask City Mail Service

LAKEVIEW, July 12—A strong recommendation for city mail delivery service in Lakeview will be made to the post office department by Inspector J. A. Eidswich of Medford, who inspected the town with this in view on June 24-26, according to Postmaster Fred Peat.

Eidswich recommended that Lakeview be divided into two main delivery sections, with two mail deliveries five days a week and one on Saturday.

Personnel Job Application Open

SALEM, July 12 (AP)—A lack of applicants has forced the extension of the final filing date for the personnel assistant civil service examination to July 19, the state civil service commission revealed today. The beginning salary is $190 a month.

SIDE GLANCES

STATIC

By VAN HEMERT

Ready for a blizzard is Helen Lewis, tennis player on "This Is Your FBI." Had to blow the dust off this mat, so it might really have been made around Christmas time. Seriously now, what has this got to do with your FBI?

Incidentally, this is as good a time as any for me to explain another type of blurb. The best way to illustrate this is to demonstrate. For instance, this quotation was lifted bodily from an advertisement agency blurb: "A demonstration of how to fry chicken so that it's juicy and succulent will highlight the 'Betty Crocker Magazine of the Air,' Tuesday, July 15, over (ABC) Betty Crocker will also give clever housekeeping tips from the 'All you have to do department.' I would call this the Jimmy Fiddler or Luella Parsons type of blurb, in that it gives little personal highlights and tends to dramatize the shows. As you can see, though, even fewer people would read this column than presently, if I were to resort to such stuff in describing a program.

Here is a program for the serious listener, and especially those who happen to be firemen. On Sunday, July 13, "Exploring the Unknown" will present a dramatic explanation of many revolutionary new fire fighting techniques. Most of these were developed during the war. It comes your way at 6 p. m. over KFJL.

Also on Sunday, this time for the early listener—it goes on at 10 a. m.—is a program called "Warriors of Peace." It's put on by the army and ABC. This Sunday the army will describe "Task Force Furnace." Apparently it is about desert training. So fix up a cool glass of milk and listen in.

FLAG PROPRIETIES

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor)—It's in the constitution, Mr. and Mrs. K. Falls. Public law 623 passed by the 77th congress, 6th session, states that during the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag, or when the flag is passing in parade all persons present should face the flag, stand at attention and salute. Men (civilians) salute by removing their hat and holding it against the left breast over the heart; women (civilians) salute by resting the right hand on the left breast over the heart.

That's what it says but did you notice how many people recognized their flag during the parade on the 4th of July?

During grade school and then in high school we drill flag salutes, etc. But when we leave school and become successful business women or men or even ditch-diggers, we kind of forget that old flag of ours. That flag is a symbol of our country, our democracy, our freedom.

So next time a flag passes during a parade or when the time lets us try to remember our small debt to our stars and stripes.

Thank you, MARY LOU BATES

THE WHEEL

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor)—Where did the first inhabitants of the American continent come from?

A prominent religious sect in a book which they append to the Bible narrates a history in which two tribes of Israel migrated to the American continent long ago and are the progenitors of the Indians.

It tells of two tribes existing; a light tribe and a dark tribe. The dark tribe killed off the light tribe and the Indians are descended from the dark tribe. Question, what did they do with the wheel?

The wheel which made the cart or wagon possible, existed as long as the Jewish race has existed. No nation which had the wheel ever discarded it. Nowhere on the American continent was the wheel in existence when first found.

This book is a masterpiece in literature, especially to be written by an unlettered man. It reads good, but it is lacking in the absence of the wheel which disqualifies it as authentic.

Even the civilized Moays of Central America had no vehicle with wheels. Then, too, the people of the American continent were not Indians. Even though they were called Indians, there were different races among them. For instance, the Esquimaux were not Indians.

If the denizens of America came from the eastern hemisphere it was not long before the wheel was discovered. DR. W. P. TABER, 4060 Shasta way.

Monthly Pay Figure Up

SALEM, July 12 (AP)—During the first three months of this year the average monthly pay of Oregon workers was $225.80, compared with $194.14 a year ago, the state unemployment compensation commission reported Saturday.

The current year's figure is almost double that of the 1937-38 average monthly wage paid in the early part of 1939.

The total wage income of the state during the first quarter of this year was virtually on a par with the war years, the $188,846,492 figure being only $3,000,000 less than that achieved in 1945, the commission stated.

The lumbering, trucking, warehousing and communications industries set new records for wages paid during the first quarter of a year, the commission said.

The back-swimmers, common bus of our lakes and ponds, swim upside down. They lie on their backs, and use their legs for oars.

Zipper Bra Packs 'Em In At Inventors Exposition

HOLLYWOOD, July 12 (AP)—Pianos you can play in bed, giant soap bubbles for staging movie spectacles and a zipper bra are packing in the curious at the world inventors exposition.

Biggest crowds gather around the zipper bra booth, where Inventor-Showergirl Evelyn West personally models her braasier between matinee and evening shows.

Evelyn says she's all set to market her invention which she describes as very handy when "you're in a hurry like when you're sometimes in changing costumes."

The bedtime pianos were developed during the war for wounded veterans. Now they have been commercialized for children and invalids.

A man named Johnny Miller of Long Beach was doing a rousing business at his "Radio Snakbar" where he sold hotdogs—electronically cooked—for 25 cents a bark.

Inventive genius ran the gamut from legless tables to a traffic light that shows how long you have to wait before the signal changes but the most popular exhibits were of girls—and more girls—all borrowed from movie studios as models for the occasion.

Oldest Solon Dies In Hospital

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Rep. Joseph J. Mansfield (D-Tex.), the oldest member of congress, died today at the Bethesda, Md., naval hospital. He was 85.

Complications brought on by age and various ailments caused him to be taken to the hospital April 9. Until a few days before he went to the hospital, he had shown up regularly at the capitol.

Despite his age and paralysis which forced him to use a wheel chair, he had a keen interest in congressional affairs.

The voters of his district, which skirts along the Texas Gulf coast and includes Galveston, reelected him last fall for the 16th consecutive term.

Government Troops Battle Greek Communists; Heavy Losses Said Inflicted

ATHENS, July 12 (AP)—Greece's fugitive communist leader called today for the "creation in free democratic areas of Greece of a free democratic government."

Government troops continued a heavy drive against guerrillas in the Northwest, where the war ministry said insurgents sought to set up a communist state.

The war ministry said loyalist and artillery units were inflicting heavy casualties on leftist guerrillas on Mount Grammos, near the Albanian border.

Albanian border. Greek War Minister George Stratos said yesterday the insurgent objective in that sector was ultimately to set up a separate state.

Nicholas Zachariades, communist chief-in-fact, said in a signed article in the Athens communist newspaper Rizospastis that the communists had come to an open break with non-sympathetic political parties.

The article said the "material break" could be effective only with the creation of a "free democratic government."

Rizospastis said Zachariades, who has been in hiding more than two months, returned to Athens last week. Athens police said if he had it was to take part in a communist uprising.

Unconfirmed press dispatches said an international brigade unit of 120 members had appeared in action on the guerrilla side in the Kosane region east of Mount Grammos. The communist press throughout Europe has been predicting the formation of such an outfit for some time.

In Washington yesterday Dwight Griswold, chief of the American aid mission to Greece, said that military supplies valued at $35,000,000 were en route to equip loyalist forces in Greece on an "anti-bandit" basis. Griswold said the equipment was largely from U. S. army and navy surplus.

Scout Camp Said Ready

Robert H. Lamont, regional Scout executive, announced today that preparations for the Sunday opening of Camp Makualla, on Crescent lake, are virtually complete.

A brand new canoe and two brand new row boats are ready and waiting for the arrival of the first contingent of Scouts. For additional fun this summer, the camp has acquired two seven-man and two one-man collapsible rubber life rafts.

The troops scheduled to open the camp Sunday are Troop 8 from Klamath Falls and Troop 34 from Sprague River. Herb Landis, troop committee man, will go with the Scouts from Troop 8 as their leader for the first half of the week.

C. O. Olson, Scoutmaster, will take over in the middle of the week and will act as leader until the boys are safely home. The troop will lead for camp Sunday at 8:30 a. m. in front of Altamont Junior high school.

The truck which will carry the boys to camp is to be driven by Harold B. Ashley, former Scoutmaster of Troop 8, at present leader of Explorer Post 34.

The truck will pick up the Sprague River troop at about 9:45 a. m. at Chiloquin. Troop 34 will be led by Bob Claus, Scoutmaster, and former Sprague River Boy Scout. The troop is sponsored by the American Box company at Sprague River. Bob is a worker at the company's mill.

Troop 8 is sponsored by the Peace Memorial Presbyterian church.

Registration Figure Grows

Registrations for the state convention of the Loyal Order of Moose in Klamath Falls Friday, Saturday and Sunday were only about half in by noon Friday, and numbered 350, W. C. Hooper, secretary of the local lodge advised.

Applications for class initiation to be held in the hall at 8 p. m. Friday totaled 66.

Delegates from Tillamook, Astoria, Portland, Salem, Eugene, Redmond, Bend and Merrill arrived all Friday and put up at the Winema and Willard hotels.

Wocus To Get Bi-Weekly Bus Service To Klamath

WOCUS—Arrangements for bus service twice a week to Klamath Falls were made at the third meeting of Wocus community, held Friday night at the Silver Dome.

All residents of Wocus can now arrange their shopping tours in town on the days the bus calls, which are Tuesdays and Fridays. The bus will pick up passengers along the old highway in front of each house at 10:30 a. m. and make the return trip to Wocus at 3 p. m., leaving the corner of 4th and Main, Klamath Falls, at that time.

There will also be stops at Spooners Inn and Chiles addition for the benefit of residents living in that area.

The yellow school bus calls each morning at 8:15 to pick up all children who wish to participate in the playground facilities of Pelican bay and the swimming pool. Parents are reminded to encourage their children to use the bus frequently in order to maintain the service of the bus company for the Wocus children.

Hazel Shaver, accompanied by her brother, Danny, on the guitar, entertained with several songs. Lois West led the group in community singing. Refreshments were served by Elaine South, Mrs. Melvin Vanderhoff and Mrs. George Jennings. Jim King turned in the first prize ribbon and check, given by Klamath Falls road committee to the community entering the winning 4th of July parade float.

William Canton, surveyor, will be the guest speaker at the next regular meeting which will be held at the Silver Dome.
