Frances Gilcrist Is Bride Of Late June

In vows solemnized at the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon, June 29, Frances Gilcrist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Gilcrist of this city, became the bride of William Noel Deets. Mr. Deets is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Deets of Klamath Falls.

The couple took their marriage vows before an altar banked with white gladioli and palms with tall white tapers lighting the church. Reading the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Victor Phillips, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

As guests assembled Sheldon Russell sang "At Dawning" and "Because" accompanied by Mrs. John O'Connor, who played the traditional processional from Lohengrin as the bride party entered the church.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of heavy slipper satin with a high rounded neckline of net edged in a dainty trim of embroidery. The softly gathered skirt ended in a full train.

Her satin and pearl tiara was made by her aunt, Mrs. E. E. Hale of Los Angeles, and borrowed from the bride's cousin, Mrs. Victor Doggett. From it fell a long, full veil of fine illusion net.

The bride carried a white Bible with a white orchid and ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Dale Tepper was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown was of light blue chiffon, and in her hair she wore a net headpiece. Her flowers were arranged in a Colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Alfred Clawson, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Fred Floetke were bridesmaids, in identical pink gowns fashioned similarly to that of the matron of honor. Their bouquets and headpieces were of the same Colonial net fashion.

Best man was William Robertson of Ashland, and Wilfred Erickson and Kenneth Larson were ushers.

A reception followed at the church where the young couple cut the first piece of their pretty wedding cake. Mrs. V. A. Quinn served the confection, assisted by Luana Smith. At the punch bowl were Darlene McDaniel and Fern Pennington. Erma Deets, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book. Some 150 friends and relatives were present to extend their wishes to the newlyweds.

Mrs. Gilcrist, mother of the bride, was attired in an afternoon dress of aqua with white accessories. Her corsage was of Rapture roses and agapanthus. The groom's mother wore a suit of gray gabardine with pink accessories. Pinned at the lapel was a corsage of the same flowers.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Deets have returned from a wedding trip on the Oregon coast and are now at home at 2664 Vandergrift.

Out of town guests were Mrs. E. E. Hale of Los Angeles, aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Erickson and children of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hale and child; Mr. and Mrs. I. Q. Williams and Mrs. T. L. Brown, all of Dunsmuir, Calif.

Townfolk Relax In Mid-Summer Lull

Memories of the first mad rush of summer festivities were being quietly tucked away this week, and folks in our neighborhood, those who haven't taken off for vacations, have settled back in their easy chairs to recover from the strained muscles and sunburns of recent more strenuous days.

Brides continued to walk down white carpeted aisles this week furnishing almost the only source of social activity.

Guests at the Myrie C. Adams' home this past week have been Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Bordner of Los Angeles. While in this vicinity the group traveled to Crater lake and other scenic spots. The Bordners left Friday for San Francisco, where they will stop before returning to their home.

Recent visitors in Klamath Falls were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Webb and son, Jimmy. Former residents of this city, they are now making their home in St. Helens, Ore. Jimmy was guest of Tom Schubert of 2527 Bisbee. Mr. and Mrs. Webb stayed with the Robert Elliotts of 1316 California.

A vacation trip to Lake o' the Woods was given a surprise twist by the Ralph Carpenters who, when last heard from, were in Grand Rapids, Idaho. Where they will be next is anybody's guess.

Arriving home this week-end is Sylvia McClelland who has been traveling in Canada for the past two weeks. Miss McClelland accompanied Mrs. Burt Schultz and two daughters. Mrs. Schultz, a former resident of Klamath Falls, is now making her home in San Jose, California.

We find that we are not the only ones who are confused. Mrs. Raymond S. Loosley of Port Klamath has a cactus plant that, if anything, is worse than we are. Seems the plant is a Christmas cactus, widely known for its December blooms. This one, being an individualist, bloomed, of all times, on the 4th of July. The only plausible reason for its peculiar behavior is the unseasonable cool weather recently. At least that's the only reason Mrs. Loosley can find.

Did you know that cranial hair of the male is definitely a disappearing characteristic? That isn't our view—we picked it out of a highly informative pamphlet on coiffures directed our way by the post-man. Just why the above bit of wisdom is placed in a tid bit about milady's hair fashions has us baffled.

Mrs. Delbert Addison of Lakeshore drive is visiting for a time with Mrs. Asahel Bush, formerly of Klamath Falls, in Salem this week.

A busy young lady is Rosalie Hazard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hazard of Sacramento, former Klamath residents, who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. E. O. Foster, and her aunt, Mrs. Elbert Stiles. Rosalie, who, we're told, is not nine years old, but nine-and-a-half, is spending quite a lengthy visit, and has been entertained at party upon party since she arrived. On the 4th she visited a group of young friends to spend the day and stay for overnight.

Afternoon Service Read On Sunday

A June bride was Violet Jean Chinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Chinn of this city, who became Mrs. Ewell J. Richard in a ceremony read at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday, June 29. Double ring vows were exchanged at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in a service read by the Rev. David F. Barnett Jr.

Setting for the nuptials was an altar banked with standards of salmon pink gladioli and stock and white agapanthus. Palms and tapers completed the decorations.

Carl Hagel sang "Always" and "Because" as guests assembled. Traditional wedding music was played. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a gown of French embroidered lace over satin with a full train. Her fingertip veil was of illusion net, held in place by a Juliet cap of seed pearls and carnations. Her white prayer book was topped with a single white orchid and satin ribbon streamers. The veil was borrowed from Mrs. Al Beuchamp, friend of the bride. Mrs. John Schubert made a dainty blue garter for the "something blue" worn by the bride. Her only jewelry was a pair of rhinestone earrings, the "something old." Matron of honor was Mrs. Earnest Pelot of Everett, Mass., twin sister of the bride. Her gown was of orchid nylon brocade. In her hair she wore carnations of white and orchid shades and a short orchid veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet.

IN SALEM ON JUNE 21, Jean Ostendorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ostendorf of Klamath Falls, became the bride of Allen Aldrich of this city. St. Mark's Lutheran church in the valley city was the scene of the nuptials. The new Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich are at home in Klamath Falls. —Kennell-Ellis, Salem.

Garden Tour

The annual garden tour of the Klamath Falls Garden club was an event of last Monday, July 7, when members of the group enjoyed an afternoon of visiting lovely mid-summer gardens with luncheon later in the day.

The group gathered at the home of Mrs. Earl Redman on Front street, later going to the homes of Dr. and Mrs. Dean Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. George Myers, and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Geist.

Luncheon, followed by a business meeting, was enjoyed at the Geist home. Mrs. Will Wood and Mrs. George Orzelle of the garden club recently returned from the state garden club meeting at Bend.

Klamath Falls visitors this past week were Judge and Mrs. Claude McCulloch of Portland. They were entertained Tuesday evening at a small dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wright, 635 Alameda. The McCullochs, former residents of Klamath Falls, visited many friends while they were here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seavey of Manzanita street and their two daughters left Friday morning for Portland for the Elias national convention. Mr. Seavey is exalted ruler of the Klamath Falls lodge. From Portland the Seaveys will go to Cannon Beach for a month's vacation.

Club Holds Last Summer Session

The last meeting until September of the Klamath Falls Soroptimist club was held at the Pelican party room Thursday noon, with a luncheon meeting.

Rita Whisnant was elected junior delegate to the northwest regional convention to be held in October at Helena, Mont.

An interesting speaker at a July meeting was C. W. Burningham, who is with the bureau of reclamation in this district. Mr. Burningham is a graduate in civil engineering from the University of Utah, and has been connected with irrigation projects for a period of 25 years.

He gave a history of irrigation. Earliest reference to irrigation was taken from the Bible in the Book of Genesis. A very interesting source of early information is taken from the codes and history of Hammurabi, a Babylonian king who reigned about 2000 B. C. His codes of water control and neighbor consideration could be used as a basis of good neighbor relations in irrigation projects of today, to a very good advantage, said the speaker.

Entertained

Two delightful affairs have been events of recent days when Mrs. Joseph Peak and Mrs. Kenneth Klaha entertained for friends at informal teas at the Peak home on Huron street.

On Wednesday this past week Mrs. Marvin Lucas and Mrs. Louis Soukup presided at the lovely tea table, which was centered with an attractive arrangement of Cecil Bruner roses and violas in an old-fashioned butter dish.

Assisting were Dorothy Riggs, Mrs. C. J. Cox, Mrs. F. W. Peak and Mrs. Lloyd Goble.

The previous week the two were also hostesses for tea when Mrs. Elmer Hosking and Mrs. Harold Teale poured during tea hours. Assisting were Mrs. Greer Drew, Mrs. Ira Orem, Mrs. E. A. Thomas and Mrs. Cecil Whitby.
