

Loyalty Check May Be Stalled

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—House-passed legislation setting up a system of loyalty checks on federal employees and requiring them to be fingerprinted headed for a possible senate pigeonhole today.

It was a "must" bill on the house docket and won approval there 319 to 81, but senate plans for the last few days of this session make no provision for the measure.

House passage late yesterday followed bitter complaints by opponents.

Rep. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) declared the bill, if finally enacted, might result in a government administered by "robots." And Rep. Marcantonio (AL-N.Y.) claimed it would make many federal workers afraid to think on "fundamental issues."

Chairman Rees (R-Kas.) of the civil service committee contended, however, that the legislation provides "adequate safeguards" for employees and at the same time properly protects the government from disloyal persons.

Kefauver sought unsuccessfully to modify the measure to allow federal court appeals by employees whose loyalty is found wanting by the proposed new five-man review board. His proposal lost by a vote of 248 to 133.

Written by Rees' civil service committee, the legislation follows generally the provisions of President Truman's order last March calling for a commission to check on federal employee loyalty.

Lynn Roycroft, Klamath Falls businessman, was installed as commander of post No. 8, of the American Legion at the Legion's annual feed, held Tuesday evening at Moore park.

Big Crowd At Feed

One of the year's highlights for post No. 8 of the American Legion is the annual Legion feed, held Tuesday evening at Moore park with a large crowd of delegates and guests on hand. Main speakers on the program were Jack Maris, new state department commander of Oregon, of Canyonville, and Fritz Nissen, state department adjutant.

Lynn Roycroft was installed as new post commander, with other officers, Douglas Pence, first vice commander; George Wood, second vice commander; Tom B. Young, adjutant and finance officer. New members of the executive committee are Fred Hellbronner, Bob Odell, Irene Young, Don Everitt, Julian Abbott, and Jerry Thomas. Installing officer was Nissen.

Along with many Klamath Falls people was a large number of visitors from other sections of Southern Oregon, particularly from Grants Pass and Medford.

Jim Murray of the Klamath post received an award for securing 244 new members during the war.

General chairman for the affair was Carl Schubert, assisted by Dr. M. E. Cooper, Les Finley, Paul Otterbein, Tom Young, and Fred Hellbronner.

An abundance of food and entertainment rounded out the evening's activities.

Labor Camps To Close

PULLMAN, July 16 (AP)—Labor camps at Walla Walla, Granger and Yakima will be closed by Sept. 30 because of a curtailment of funds for their budget, Paul R. Spechko, assistant state supervisor of the emergency farm labor program, reported today.

He said Mexican national camps at Burlington and Dixie will probably close soon after Aug. 1.

Spechko said that cuts in labor branch funds also make it extremely unlikely that Mexican nationals will be available for fall harvests this year. He said most of the nationals now in the state will be repatriated by Aug. 1.

On the brighter side, Spechko reported a general labor surplus throughout the state at the present time. Because of the return of the Mexican nationals to their homes, however, he said, it will be necessary for growers to lay plans to utilize all available domestic workers this fall. Assurance of housing for these workers, he said, will be the best means of attracting them.

Mrs. Margaret Roufs of Klamath Falls, accredited in Red Cross life saving, is assistant waterfront director.

Miss Stoner has outlined an excellent swimming program and will use the following plan in maintaining a safe waterfront: Lessons will be given in every type of swimming to all ages. The "buddle board" system of safety, which gives each swimmer a water partner with whom she enters, remains, and leaves the water, will be used and each girl will be required to stay in her "assigned ability" area. Classes will be held in the morning and free swim in the afternoon during which time Miss Stoner, Mrs. Roufs and a staff of junior counselors will be in attendance. A tower has been constructed for better observation.

The Horizon club girl leader of the week is Barbara Swansen who took Mrs. Lawrence French's group to teach them camping songs. Barbara is working for her Torchbearer's craftsman in citizenship.
