

Spangler's Bid Takes Bly Timber

LAKEVIEW, July 24—The Spangler Lumber company of Klamath Falls was high bidder Wednesday with an offer of $140,470, on some 11,000,000 feet of timber located in the Whiskey springs country near Bly, in the forest service's sale here. Final decision on awarding the bid will be made by the forest service regional office in Portland.

The minimum bid set by the service on the 10,000,000 feet of Ponderosa and sugar pine, was $12.42 per thousand feet, with the lumber company's bid, $12.95.

The company offered $3.27 per thousand for white fir in the area, which was the minimum forest service figure. There is an estimated 1,000,000 feet of white fir in the timber stand.

Also included in the Spangler bid was 28 cents per 1000 feet to cover seeding and replanting costs after the area is cut over and 42 cents per 1000 for slash disposal. Both figures were set by the forest service.

Other bidders were Ivory Pine company and Weyerhaeuser Timber company, both of Klamath Falls. Merle Lowden, supervisor of Fremont National forest, conducted the sale.

"Here's an interesting item, Pet—it says we shouldn't keep a dog cooped up in an efficiency apartment—it isn't fair to the dog!"

Neighbors Worried About Berry Farmer's Lion Cub

VASHON ISLAND, Wash., July 24 (AP)—Although tabbed with a traditionally feline name, Felix is no common house cat—just ask the neighbors of Frank Brown, owner of an island berry ranch.

Obtained by Brown at the Point Defiance zoo in Tacoma when two days old, Felix is a tawny lion cub now a year and a half old with—and causing—a grown up roar.

Neighborhood worry over what would happen if Felix should escape from his unroofed six-foot high pen has prompted Deputy Sheriff Robert E. Graham to serve notice he will "shoot on sight" if he catches the 200-pound animal roaming loose.

Brown, a grinder in a Tacoma foundry, scoffs at his neighbors' fears.

"I'm more afraid of some of the dogs around here than I am of Felix," he said.

Raised on the same formula, bottle fed, on which Brown fed his own six children, Felix now does away with two pounds of horsemeat a day.

Each night Brown and the cub have a romp in the pen.

"Lions have an attraction to me," Brown claims in explanation of his unusual taste in pets. "At the Tacoma zoo the keepers let me in the cage to play with the big ones. Even strange lions play with me."

Brown said Felix roamed freely around the farm until a month ago but with his owner in Tacoma most of the day, now is constantly penned. Despite this assurance, however, his neighbors have indicated they won't take it "lion" down.

Girl Held In Death Case

TILLAMOOK, July 24 (AP)—Marilyn Jean Colwell, 13, was in the sheriff's custody today awaiting a delinquency hearing in juvenile court as a result of the gun-shot death of her stepfather, John Nahlen, 36.

The delinquency charge was filed because of her age. District Attorney Warren A. McMinnis said, in reporting that she had signed a confession saying she shot her stepfather as he lay in bed because he had mistreated her, her mother and other members of the family.

Nahlen was shot through the head with a .22 caliber bullet early Tuesday and he died without regaining consciousness.

The district attorney said the eighth grade girl showed no remorse when told her stepfather was dead.

SEATTLE, July 24 (AP)—A double wedding ceremony here Saturday will unite the Armstrong girls and the Bogardus boys, climaxing a romance which started a little over six months ago.

'Queens' Go On Pack Trip

Royalty will again invade Klamath Falls when a second "Queen For a Day" arrives here August 2. Accompanying the queen, who is to be chosen on the July 30 "Queen For a Day" program, will be Guy Williamson, a former queen, who was feted by this city in May.

Both queens will be the guests of Andy's Guide service, and highlight of the visit will be a month's pack trip over the sky line trail from Lake o' the Woods to Mt. Hood national park. Miss Williamson is returning to Klamath Falls to join the tour, which was offered her during her previous visit to Klamath Falls as queen for a day.

The two contestants will be escorted by the Klamath County Sheriff's posse and Klamath Saddle Club.

The first night, August 2, will be spent at Lake o' the Woods where the queens will be guests of the lodge. The trip will get under way August 3 and the itinerary includes such scenic points as Four Mile lake, Island lake, Seven lakes, Crater lake, Diamond, Crescent and Odell lakes. On August 5, the group will be guests of the park service at Crater lake and the evening of the 9th will be spent at the Diamond lake lodge. The Bend chamber of commerce and the Isaac Walton league will welcome the queens, August 20. End of the trail trip will be swim, on the Mt. Hood loop highway cut-off.
