Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

STILL too busy for anything but brevities, we'll have to go to the pocket file again today . . . There's a battered dump truck working on the city street repair job, across the rear of which someone has chalked the words: PRIDE OF THE WEST . . . Are Klamath people above-average believers in life insurance, or are insurance men around here above-average experts in the art of selling? . . . That's a question that has often given us pause as we have noted time after time how our insurance men have gotten into the "top clubs," etc., and are always going off to conventions at Victoria, Banff, etc. . . . We went along with Martin Swanson of NY Life to one of those affairs at Victoria once, and can well believe that the boys come home fired up to give everybody the works on insurance . . . They certainly get an indoctrination at conventions . . . For an access road to a national monument, and one that deserves a lot of public interest and visitation, the west side Tulelake road into the Lava Beds is pretty rough and dusty . . . We hear that there's going to be some oiling inside the monument, the first to be undertaken there . . . Arthur Schaupp, Klamath attorney and highway commissioner, missed this week's meeting because he was "on vacation" . . . He says it's the first commission meeting he hasn't attended . . . Schaupp divides his time between highway commissioning, raising barley on his Poe valley ranch, and practicing law in Klamath Falls—with a little fishing thrown in . . . Klamath Indians have gotten their notices of the council meeting to be held at the Agency July 31 . . . The liquidation issue hearing, to be held here in August, will be the main and possibly exclusive topic of discussion . . . Among Klamath places which were named for animals is Altamont, named for the famed race horse . . . Keno was named for a dog which in turn was named for the card game . . . Those Boy Scouts who are building an immense sign on the side of Hogback mountain will have to push along if they get the project done by the close of the fire season, when nature will undertake the job of keeping Klamath green.

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S new special envoy, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, has got into action on his old stamping grounds in China to carry out a fact-finding mission which is calculated to provide Washington with material for an overhauling of its policy of assistance for this important but war-battered member of the Big Five.

Without waiting to hear from the general we know that he is finding this vast nation in far worse condition politically, economically and militarily than he ever has seen it before. Untold millions of its half-billion people are hungry unto death. Inflation is fantastic and the economy of the country is wrecked. The nationalist government at Nanking is trying to ride a whirlwind.

* * * *

Bloody Fighting

THE civil war is producing widespread and bloody fighting. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's fresh offensive to try to deliver a knock-out blow to the red armies finds the communists not only holding their own but on the initiative generally, with Manchuria and great reaches of Northern China largely in their hands. And Nanking says that the Chinese reds are receiving aid from the Russians.

As one surveys this chaos, and the elements which are contributing to it, there would seem to be only one way out for Chiang Kai-shek and his government, and it is this:

1. To fling enough military force against the communist armies to cripple them and hold them down, and then,

2. To do a thorough job of house-cleaning in the Nanking government, and inaugurate sweeping reforms attractive enough to win back that portion of the Chinese population which has forsaken Nanking to chase communistic rainbows.

Of these two essentials, the first obviously presents an obstacle which may be unsurmountable. The financing of an all-out war by Chiang's armies against the Chinese communists would run into countless billions of dollars, a sum which would stagger the imagination of the only nation in the world capable of producing it—the United States. Not only would there be the huge military expenditures, but meantime the economic machine of the country would have to be kept running full tilt.

* * * *

Who Backs Reds?

SUCH an operation might easily last for years and the outcome would be problematical, for there are intangibles involved. The most important of these is whether Nanking has the right information in saying that Moscow is backing the Chinese reds. If Russia is giving such assistance, the situation looks grim indeed.

There is a school which holds that the Chinese communists aren't the same brand as the Russians—that the Celestials are just discontented Agrarians. As a matter of fact General Chou En-lai, one of the top Chinese communists, told me in 1943 at Chungking that there was no connection between Moscow and Chinese communism. However, there are many observers who think otherwise, and they don't overlook the fact that the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Chinese republic, called in several Russian communists as advisers and that the formation of a communist party resulted. It doesn't take much imagination to believe that Chinese communism and Russian communism aren't far apart.

According to a late blurb, Sunday, July 27, will be the 40th anniversary of the AAF. A program commemorating this occasion has been planned, highlighting the peacetime activities of the AAF, and is called "The Winged Samaritans." This program may be heard over KFLW from 10 to 10:30 a. m.

* * *

That fine fellow, Bill Wentworth down at KFJI took the hint I put in this column a few days ago and sent me down a blurb. One of the most noteworthy programs he mentioned is the 15-minute commentary every day of Fulton Lewis Jr., broadcast from the nation's capital. It is aired at 4 p. m., and is rebroadcast Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 10 p. m. Bill claims the Friday spot is somewhat indefinite. Sometimes the wrestlers don't decide to go home until after 10.

* * *

Making with the publicity stunt is a character called Johnny Olsen, who is the emcee of a program called "Ladies be Seated." The caption says the little creature nuzzling the microphone is a porcupine, and was donated by a considerate fan.

* * *

If you remember a comment I made on the mighty hunter, Wynant Hubbard, who was going to try to break the bank on the program of the same name last night, you will recall I said it would be a regrettable thing if he were to win. The reason for this opinion was that he planned to spend the money on a wild animal capturing expedition, and I feel for the poor things. Hubbard lost, so it will be my pleasure to inform . . . the wild animals of my acquaintance that one of their oppressers is unable to take the field against them.

* * *

Forgot to include in that last paragraph that the Fulton Lewis spot will be re-broadcast every night that time permits, since it is very popular. The man said that, he did, and it really is the right dope. I have listened to Lewis for many years, and although I disagree with him sometimes, it is my belief he is one of the most competent reporters in the United States—a man of unimpeachable integrity.

Cities Vie For Sewers

MEDFORD, July 26 (AP)—A war assets administration official said today that the Camp White sewage disposal plant would not be sold for off-site use as long as Medford wishes to buy it.

Medford officials had feared the city's plan to purchase the plant might be jeopardized by efforts of Pendleton and the state board of control to obtain the plant machinery for Pendleton.

J. W. Hayes, special assistant from the Portland office of the real property disposal division, WAA, told city officials here today that such a sale would not be considered as long as Medford wants the plant.

Cascade

A young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smizer of San Francisco, have really gone primitive. They are camping in Trapper creek campground without tent or covering over their head. They expect to do this all summer. Mrs. Smizer has come here for her health, hoping to gain some weight. They spend their time fishing and hiking. On Monday Smizer hiked to near the mouth of Trapper creek. Smizer is a retired businessman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Badley and son, Gordon, are expected to arrive at Cascade Summit for the remainder of the week. Gordon has just come out of the hospital.

The Southern Pacific company's house, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Poag, is being moved to Crescent lake where the Poags will reside. The family has already moved. The house which was built at several different times resembles the Winchester house in California, having as many additions as rooms.

One couple who rented a cabin at Summit lodge decided to regain some of the money they were out for renting the place by taking with them the utensils and dishes when they left. Elmer Adkison has also discovered that a carburetor was stolen out of a boat docked near his place. The Adkisons have lost gasoline and 20 pieces of pipe this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Newton of Portland are camping at Trapper creek campground. The Newtons have come to Odell for the past 16 or 17 years. Last week guests from Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tuttle, their daughter, Geraldine, and Tuttle's mother, who is a cousin of Newton, were there. The Tuttles are touring the western states in their car.

Mrs. A. C. Nagel spent several days last week visiting friends in Klamath Falls.

The thermometer dropped to 40 degrees Monday evening, and the natives were looking for a snowstorm.

Jack Meissner was a Eugene visitor over the week-end. He was supposed to go there for business, but rumors have it there are other reasons for his visiting Eugene so often.

Telling The Editor

Letters printed here must not be more than 500 words in length, must be written legibly on ONE SIDE of the paper only, and must be signed. Contributions following these rules are warmly welcomed.

ABOUT THE DOG

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., (To the Editor)—We have just finished reading the letter printed in your Tuesday's edition in regard to the party that lost their dog through the dog catcher.

(Dog Catcher) is right, and we feel the sooner such persons are denied the use of clean Klamath county air the better for all. Of all the dastardly ignoble things for a so-called human to do—this is about the worse. Moreover, who keeps such a person on a payroll, anyhow? And why? That's what many of us here would like to know and expect to find out.

If the person who accepted this little boy's dog and has deliberately refrained from returning him to his rightful owner, has any idea of decency, or what is legal, or otherwise, surely he will act—but soon.

All I can say is—its fortunate for the so-and-so it wasn't OUR dog—we have talked to no less than 80 home owners here since the letter was published and I am expressing the feelings of each and all of them.

But in much more "retained" language, I assure you.

I sincerely trust some kindly person with a sense of fairness, and of the welfare of children in his heart will return this little boy's dog. "A child and a dog lover."

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., (To the Editor)—What is the matter with them? A good many of them fail to realize the old saying, "The Paths of Glory Lead But to the Grave."

Men have been elected to high offices; even to the presidency, and are forgotten after they are gone. A majority of people would not know the names of the by-gone presidents.

Even members of Congress fail to realize that their days are numbered. The average age of them is far below my age (77). Why don't they vote with the sense God gave them? The average man is given two senses, common sense and horse sense. Some won't even use horse sense.

I am neither a Republican nor Democrat, but I think Truman is trying to use common sense.

The new deal (not Democrat) saddled heavy unnecessary expense on the nation. Now the Republicans are trying to put things right by cutting down expense too soon. The reduction of taxes should be only on old people who are over 65 and making $1000 or less. The tax should remain on large income groups. Truman realized this and vetoed the bill. It took courage on his part.

If members of Congress had the courage of the three clergymen who went down with the ship in the North Atlantic during the last war, there might be different laws enacted. These three clergymen, a priest, a rabbi and a protestant pastor, refused to be rescued when there were only enough life savers for the rest of the crew. They stood arm in arm and went down with the ship. Their bravery and integrity will be written in the annals of history.

Why can't men in high office follow their example? Why can't they vote right in spite of fear of re-election?

Truman vetoed the labor bill because it was faulty, you can not and should not do away with the labor unions. They need some control, but should not be done away with, years ago before the labor unions the common man was getting only an existance. The country was making millionaires, what good is a million? You can eat only so much, you can wear only enough clothes to cover your nakedness. You can enjoy only so many ligitimate pleasures.

When the common man makes good money it is soon spent. Dollars are put in circulation, business is good and people have homes, cars and a decent living.

Congressmen want big wages. Why not let common people have fair wages?

I live better, make more money because of the unions. The government only recognizes dentists belonging to the association (union). A dentist can get no government work unless he belongs to the association. Insurance companies give liability insurance only to association members.

Do I work? Yes, even at my age I work every day. I do more than my share.

Dr. W. P. Taber,
4060 Shasta way.

Congress Dislikes Paying Cash For Civil War Horses

By HAL BOYLE

WASHINGTON, (AP)—During the Civil war a man in Missouri loaned a horse and wagon to the Union army.

He now has finally decided the government ought to give him back the horse and wagon or else pay him for them.

He is one of thousands of American citizens who have a direct interest in room 345 of the house office building, which is known as "the department of human misery."

This is where a majority of the bills originate to grant relief to people who feel they have a financial claim against the United States.

Most go through Walter R. Lee of Jackson, Miss., clerk of the house judiciary committee's subcommittee on claims.

"And it looks now like every human being wants something from the government," he said.

* * *

Unfortunately, it is pretty hard to get money from the government. And it's getting more difficult.

"So most people put in a claim for about twice what they really expect to get," said Lee.

Before the reorganization bill was signed last August congress used to have to handle 3000 or more bills each session from people wanting the government to pay them for things like army trucks running into their cars on curves or tanks ruining their tomato crops during maneuvers.

Now most of these personal injury and damage cases are supposed to go to the federal district courts for settlement if they date from January 1, 1945.

But there are still from 1000 to 2000 private claims cluttering up the congressional calendar and distracting the attention of statesmen from major legislation.

Just as a working principle the house judiciary committee automatically rules out all claims prior to 1932 unless they are brought up for consideration by a two-thirds vote. This means the elderly citizen from Missouri will probably never get his Civil war horse back unless he can locate the man who borrowed it and settle the issue with him beard to beard.

* * *

Despite the congressional "streamlining" bill of last year, however, there are still some 33 classes of private claims that go to congress instead of the federal courts.

They include cases as diverse as the relief of widows of FBI agents killed in the line of duty, to the reimbursement of a man for a camera he checked with capitol police—who lost it.

All these private claim bills—one was for $32 a North Dakota farmer wanted back for filling out the wrong (and for him, more expensive) income tax blank—have to pass the house, senate and White House, just like a major appropriation bill.

The biggest current private claim bill is one recently passed by both the senate and house to relieve disbursing officers of the army and navy of responsibility for $135,000,000 mistakenly paid out during war days. A bill of this type is passed after every American war.

One of the oddest was put in by a young schoolteacher who visited an army camp and suffered considerable burns and embarrassment from a plumbing fixture that had carelessly been linked to a hot steam tank instead of a cold water pipe.

United in chivalry, democrats and republicans in both houses gallantly voted her several thousand dollars without dissent.

Water dripping from a faucet in a stream the size of a pin wastes approximately 150 gallons daily.

Astronomer Asks Direction, And Answers Own Query

By HUGH PRUETT

Astronomer, Extension Division, Oregon Higher Education System

Those of us who are afflicted with a definite "feeling" of direction—it surely cannot be called a "sense" of direction, for we are often wrong—are sometimes terribly worried upon arrival in a new place to find the sun rising in the north or in some other equally ridiculous position. And what is worse, after one good look at our surroundings even if we remain in the new location for a lifetime, we can never "get straight" but are always "turned around" in feelings although we have learned which direction is which.

A university psychologist states that questioning of his students convinces him that about three-fourths of them have this difficulty of overcoming feelings by reasoning; the remainder when in a new place are seemingly satisfied in feelings when they learn the correct directions. Maybe some animals—or more likely birds—have a real sense of direction as they feel it from the spin of the earth.

This leads to the question as to what determines a true direction, as for example north. Some will say, "It is the direction the compass needle points and is thus determined by the magnetism of the earth." The compass does point true north along an irregular line running about through Marquette (Mich.), Cincinnati, Knoxville and Savannah. West of this line it points east of north, the deviation becoming greater as we approach the Pacific. At Seattle it is 23 degrees east of north.

North is roughly defined as the general direction of the earth's north pole. But we cannot see this distant mythical axis pole protruding from the north end of the earth. As the earth turns eastward around its axis, the stars seem to move in the opposite direction. At the general location of the north star, all the stars move in very small circles. At the exact place among the distant stars to which the earth's pole points, there is no daily stellar motion at all.

Almost exactly at this celestial pole—which is true north—there is a very faint star known as Polaris. Polaris, our bright north star, is now about one degree from the celestial pole, so in 23 hours 56 minutes describes a small circle. But as Polaris is once each day exactly above the pole and once exactly below, it is then due north. The times when in such positions are given in the U. S. Nautical almanac. A little calculation is also needed depending upon the observer's longitude and standard time used.

At present, the north star is directly below the pole at about 5 p.m. when too light to be seen. By 11 p.m. it is one degree east of due north. It comes to these positions approximately four minutes earlier each succeeding day.

The Equitable has a plan for your financial happiness.

MOUSE IN CASH BOX

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP)—When Marian Ochsner, 16, a cashier at a stand near the hippopotomus den at Brookfield zoo came to work yesterday and rang up the "no sale" button on the register, she screamed.

Some of the zoo attendants looked to see if any of the "hippos" had escaped.

The cause for Miss Ochsner's alarm, however, was her discovery of a maternal, gray mouse and her five offspring in the cash box.

Director Robert Dean said he didn't believe field mice normally sought out cash registers for confinement.

40 Et 8 Plan Sunday Event

Over 60 couples are expected to attend the annual installation of officers of Paul Bunyan voiture 222, Forty Et Eight, at Matthews Mark on Sprague river Sunday.

The Grand Chef De Guerre, Charlie Eatchell, will arrive Saturday with other dignitaries from Portland to install new officers for the coming year. Paul Otterbein is the in-coming Chef De Guerre of Paul Bunyan Voiture 222, which takes in Klamath Falls, Merrill, Malin, Tulelake and Lakeview. Jack Benner is out-going Chef De Guerre. All members and wives are invited to attend the installation picnic and swimming party.

The Forty Et Eight is an integral honor society of the American Legion. Members of the Cave Junction, Medford and Grants Pass voiture and their wives will be special guests Sunday.

THIS is a curious world.

Few of the things that are GOOD FOR US are worth that much (using "worth" in the sense of what people are willing to pay.) But we seem to be willing to pay almost ANYTHING for the things that aren't good for us.

Human beings, as has often been remarked by philosophers, are funny.
