In answer to a number of inquiries about the October 7 election: The sales tax and the cigarette tax are the two important state measures on the ballot for that election.

SP Strike and Congress

The recent short-lived strike of S. P. locomotive engineers received some attention in congress that may have been overlooked in the excitement.

A telegram was sent by the delegation to President Truman urging settlement through an emergency board or through an arbitrator, and similar sentiments were voiced in telegrams to Frank P. Douglass, chairman of the National Mediation board.

The telegrams from the Oregon delegation make perfectly clear to the officials of the Railroad Brotherhood that it is the opinion of the Oregon delegation that there is absolutely no justification whatever for a strike at this time.

Let me say, as the senator from California knows, my position in this instance is the consistent position I have always taken in labor disputes. I shall never condone resort to strike action when peaceful procedures are available to labor for the settlement of their disputes.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Mr. Truman's midyear economic report did not set any play, because about all it said was: "Everyone should work better."

Only a relatively small portion of the general picture which Mr. Truman is talking about. On the general picture, he wants industry to do the economic job. His program in this respect is undated—merely to "increase productivity."

Lewis Settlement Problem

But he says that every effort should be made to absorb the increased coal wage and prevent an increased coal price by "increased productivity." He does not propose to do it. We want the industry to do it, presumably the operators and miners.

Now the Lewis settlement provides a day less of base work a week, and an hour less a day, and an increase of $1.20 an hour to the miner for this much less work.

But the library of congress, after retaining the secret Abraham Lincoln papers for 28 years, released them at a spot news conference, forcing reporters to scramble for telephones just as if Lincoln were still alive and had issued a dramatic announcement.

The reason: Many boy friends, content to court a government girl, indefinitely as long as she was on the payroll, are now coming through with wedding rings.

An encore in the top spot is accorded today to Boris Karloff.

All joking aside, many Klamathites have expressed to me their appreciation of this chilling half hour and have rapped my knuckles severely for the gentle chiding I have given Karloff's presentation.

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The vital part which coal production is playing in the European economic crisis, and consequently in the turbulent political situation, was well emphasized by two developments during the week-end—

Without Tools "My God, working men and women," he cried, "this is the first labor (socialist) government you have got to let it fail, for the sake of generations to come."

That's strong and most unusual language to come from a cabinet minister, but it doesn't exaggerate the dangers of the situation in which the government finds itself as it struggles with England's first all-out experiment in socialism.

Germany and Britain—in the order named—are by far the most important coal producing countries in Europe. Both England and the continent of course are in dire need of an increase in many kinds of industrial production, but virtually all manufacturing depends on the power produced by coal.
