

Dodger String Snapped; Chesnes Has Ailing Arm

Cardinal Downfall Stopped

By The Associated Press
Brooklyn's 13-game win spree is the latest casualty of baseball's "heartbreak week" which also saw the end of Cincinnati Ewell Blackwell's 16-game string and Pittsburgh Frank Gustine's 21-game hitting streak.

Add to these disappointments the collapse of the Boston Red Sox who went into a four-game losing tailspin after seven straight victories and the end on Monday of the New York Giants' consecutive game home run streak at 15.

Although the St. Louis Cardinals pulled out of their downward plunge by thumping the Phillies last night, 6-1, it might very well be that the Red Birds' pennant hopes also died during the week in three straight defeats at the hands of the Dodgers.

Chicago ended the Brooks' longest success story since 1924 with a 10-8 triumph engineered by Catcher Clyde McCullough's two-run homer in the ninth inning.

Joe Hatten, an old Cub-lander from way back with eight consecutive wins over Chicago to his credit in a two-year span, was rested and ready to hang up the Dodgers' 14th triumph. But he was not around at the finish when Hugh Casey threw the home run ball to McCullough to end a stormy afternoon.

The Cubs knocked out Hatten in the sixth and finally tied the score in the seventh inning of a free-hitting contest.

Dave Koza was in superb form as he left-handed the Giants to a 3-1 edge over Pittsburgh, striking out Hank Greenberg three times. In fact, Koza, en route to his 12th success, whiffed Ralph Kiner, Greenberg and Wally Westlake in succession in the second and ninth.

Murry Dickson and Whitey Kurovski teamed up on the Falls to assure St. Louis of a 4-1 edge. Dickson allowed only five hits and singled home the winning run in the fifth. Kurovski homered off Schoolboy Rowe in the second and after he was dumped into the dirt by an inside pitch in the eighth, blasted Rowe's second delivery into the left field seats with Evr Dusak and Chuck Diering on base.

Boston lost ground in the race, splitting two with Cincinnati. Johnny Sain hurled the Braves to a 4-2 edge in the opener with the help of Bob Elliott's two-run homer in the first inning. Another homer by Elliott with a man on failed to decide the finale which went to Cincy in 12 innings, 3-2, on a single by Clyde Volmer, an error by Frank McCormick and Bobby Adams' game-winning single.

In the American league, after the New York Yankees had opened the door by bowing to Cleveland in a day game, 4-3, the Detroit Tigers knocked off the Boston Red Sox in a night game, 3-1, leaving the Yanks 12 games ahead.

Freddie Hutchinson, pitching for Detroit, drove in all the Detroit scores with a triple.

One bad inning, the eighth, when St. Louis scored twice, ruined Philadelphia's Dick Fowler, who struck out eight men but bowed to the Browns' Bob Muncie, 4-1. Vern Stephens' single to left was the payoff blow, driving home Johnny Berardino and Paul Lehner.

Washington did some straggling of its own, scoring its first home win of the year over Chicago, 8-1, behind the seven-hit pitching of Early Wynn, who registered his 12th victory. Mark Christman led the Senators' 12-hit attack on Joe Haynes and Bob Gillespie with a double and two singles.

The Wrong Pitch

Hugh Casey, veteran pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, just happened to fling a home run ball to Clyde McCullough, Chicago catcher, yesterday and the Brooklyn win streak was snapped.

Shoot Time Sharply Cut This Season

California and Oregon will have a split waterfowl season of 28 days this fall and winter, with a daily bag limit of four ducks and possession limit of eight.

The early part of the season will run from October 21 to November 3. The second half from December 23 through January 5.

It was more than apparent last winter that the U. S. fish and wildlife service intended to drastically reduce the shooting this year, but the reductions were even more drastic than most hunters here dared think about.

The latter half of the season, December 23 through January 5, is much too late for the Klamath-Tulelake country, but should fit the Sacramento valley like a size 37 suit.

The goose limit is set at five, but not more than two of any combination of the white-cheeked species. In other words, in this country, any geese you get over two must be snow geese. You can get two honkers, or two cacklers, or one honker and one cackler, or one cackler and one speck. The limit is five, but the last three of that five in this country will have to be snow geese.

That interpretation was made by a federal wildlife man stationed in Klamath Falls.

Still further reductions are made in the shooting hours. Opening day of both sections of the split season—October 21 and December 23—the firing will be allowed to begin at 12 o'clock noon. On all other days the shooting begins at sunrise. On all days the closing time is one full hour before sunset.

As in years past, The Herald and News each day will carry the official shooting times, opening and closing, for the next day.

Klamath Men Make Fancy Tuna Catch

Nine Klamath families will be eating canned tuna this winter after a highly successful fishing trip off the Oregon coast this week. The fishermen included Red Bussman, Hank Semon, Chester Enman, Lester Schreiner, Mervin Wilde, Mike Stastny, Arthur Schupp, Jim Kerns Sr., and Charles E. Riley.

They chartered a boat at Newport and left there about 4 a. m. Monday, going out in a northwesterly direction on the Pacific about 100 miles. Fishing that afternoon they caught 16 of the chickens of the sea.

The party just floated around on the ocean that night and came back into Newport the next day to get in a little salmon fishing, but arrived too late for the salmon to be biting good.

The tuna catch was left at a home cannery at Depoe Bay to be put up in cans for future consumption. The tuna averaged about 15 pounds each.

Portland Skids By Seattle

By The Associated Press
Bob Chesnes, the San Francisco Seals' pitching beauty, was still nursing a sore arm today—and a headache to boot after his third shellacking by the Pacific Coast league-leading Los Angeles Angels.

The condition of the young right-hander became a matter of genuine concern as the Angels rapped him for seven hits and four runs in five innings to take an easy 8-2 verdict. It was Chesnes' first start in nearly two weeks and his seventh defeat against 17 wins.

He has beaten the Angels only once. Last night the Seraphs, led by Eddie Sauer's three doubles and two singles in five trips, teed off for a total of 17 hits, including 10 off Lefty Bill Werle, Chesnes' successor. Angel Bill Fleming breezed to victory.

The Angels boosted their lead to five games as Oakland fell, 8-5, before Hollywood. Four unearned runs in the seventh gave the Stars the 'no', their third in four games with the Oaks. Rugger Ardizzone racked up his ninth win, with Gene Bearden the victim.

Herman Reich's two circuit blasts, each with one runner on, presented Portland with a 4-3 squeak over Seattle. The second one came in the ninth and gave Reliever Jack Moody the nod over Walt Duke, who went the distance for the Rainiers. The Beavers took a three-one series lead.

San Diego's rugged righthander, Al Treichel, chalked up his 12th win, mowing down the Sacramento Solons with six hits and fanning five in a 13-1 romp. The Padres' 14-hit attack kayoed both Tony Freitas and First Relief Bill Clemensen, former Pittsburgh Pirate making his initial appearance for the Solons.

Rip Russell's homer was the only run off Treichel.

Sanctioned Dog Trial Will Be Conducted Here In Late October

The Shasta Cascade Retriever club, organized not too long ago among sportsmen and dog handlers here, will get into the big time in October as host to the American Kennel club's sanctioned Pacific Coast trials. It will be the first time the local group has been able to conduct a sanctioned retriever trial.

The date isn't set for sure yet, but probably will come during the first week of the first half of duck season. On September 7 the Shasta Cascade bunch will tune up their own dogs for the big meet with a private unsanctioned field and water trial.

For the Pacific Coast event 20 dogs are expected to be entered from Portland, half that many from Seattle and several from a Vancouver, B. C. dog club.

Some fine retriever animals are now being brought into this area and the breeds locally, Chesapeakes and Labradors, are improving all the time. With bird hunting constantly on the decline, many sportsmen are finding how much more fun they can get out of the sport by having a good dog along, and working a good dog gives the hunter an enjoyable off-season pastime.

Joe Walcott In Non-Title Fight

Jersey Joe Walcott of Camden, N. J. will be the next ring foe for Champion Joe Louis, but Walcott isn't getting the chance at Louis' title he'd like to have. Their match, November 14 at Madison Square Garden, is called a non-title bout.

The fight is booked for 10 rounds and all championship bouts are billed for 15 heats. However, the National Boxing commission has announced that should Walcott, by some happenstance, land one on Louis' whiskers and win by a knockout, the NBA will consider Walcott the champion.

The New York Boxing commission says the fight is non-title and that means non-title. Ruyard Kipling must be of thinking of the NBA and New York Boxing commission when he said never the twain shall meet.

Walcott, claiming to be just 32 years old, was probably the most eligible of the crown contenders and he got that way by punching out decisions over Joey Maxim and Elmer Ray earlier this year. Both Maxim and Ray had beaten Jersey Joe previously. Gus Lesnevich, the lightweight champ, probably could beat him most any night and certainly not many people are going to bet on Walcott over Louis.

Sons Play Dunsmuir On Local Field

The Klamath Sons, contemplating a comfortable lead in the Northern California Baseball league, will play the Dunsmuir Eagles here on Recreation field Sunday afternoon. In the last meeting of the two teams the Sons slapped the railroad boys around to the tune of 5 to 1. The game starts at 2:30.

Elsewhere around the NoCal circuit Weed has something of a push-over in Redding. Medford plays Yreka and McCloud is at Mt. Shasta. Weed is the No. 1 opponent of the Sons and will be up here a week from tomorrow for a "cross-hair" game.

Cards Have Little Luck At Eugene

The St. Louis Cardinal scouts in their first day of tryouts at Eugene attracted only three young players—none of them from Eugene—and the talent seekers were very unhappy about it. Here at Klamath Falls about 25 youngsters turned out to get looked over. Probably the ground up at Eugene has been plowed a few times too often.

Belcastro's Feud With Ref Costs Pete Nod Over Hager

Pete Belcastro's long, long feud with Referee Wally Moss caught up with him last night and the Belcastro was left standing in the ring without much to say when Wally gave the main event decision to a badly-battered Tex Hager on a disqualification.

All through the three heats the fight was allowed to go last night in the armory. Belcastro took sly pokes at Wally, and in the third round he threw a fist at Moss' jaw over a disputed break.

A moment later, after Pete had tossed Hager out of the ropes, Wally was counting over Tex when Belcastro saw signs of activity left in Hager and went after him. He slammed Wally to the canvas with a body block, the final straw. Wally stepped out of the ring and raised Hager's hand as the winner.

Previously, in the second round, Hager had gained a fall with a droppick and leaping head scissors. Leo Karlinko dumped Buck Davidson unceremoniously two straight falls to win their set-to. The first came in just 20 seconds of the opening round. At the bell Karlinko zoomed over, threw Davidson down on his back, kned him in the throat several times, followed up with a slam and press for the fall.

Buzzsaw Hoag Sub For Brown On Fight Card

Disaster almost struck the forthcoming armory fight card yesterday when Chuck Brown, scheduled to meet Phil Sampson in the 10 round main event Tuesday night, broke his hand while punching a bag in a Portland gym.

He called down to Promoter Mack Lillard to break his Tuesday engagement and for most of yesterday afternoon the situation looked mighty dark.

Finally little Duane (Buzzsaw) Hoag, already winner of two fights locally, called up from Portland and said he'd be willing to come down and do battle with Sampson, so the card now is stronger than ever.

Hoag, nominally a lightweight but crowding the welterweight division, probably will give several pounds to the popular Reno southpaw, but said that it was okay with him. Their fight is billed for 10 heats at the top of the card.

Monte Montgomery, who can swear that Hoag is a jack-hammer puncher, is paired with Chris Gregory of Seattle in the other 10 rounder, lightweight division.

Dick Wolfe of Alturas and Billy Sunday of Chiloquin, who went four rounds to a rather unsatisfactory draw here two weeks ago, are rematched for the five round special event. In their last fight many fans thought Wolfe had won the bout, but others were just as sure that Sunday had won the exciting scrap. They're middleweights.

George Price, Merrill lightweight, comes back again to fight Benny Mitchell of Chiloquin over the four-lap course, while the opener will be a brawl between Daily Lotches and Don Kirk, four rounds.

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at Matt Finnigan's sporting goods store.

Doerr To Get Gift Shower

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—One of the nicest fellows in baseball will be presented enough gifts tonight to stock a store.

The quiet, unassuming Bobby Doerr, star second baseman and oldest veteran in years of active service with the Boston Red Sox, finally is going to be given a "night" prior to the start of the game between the Hose and the Detroit Tigers.

With one gift from Owner Tom Yawkey still a secret, here's what Doerr is going to receive:

A heavy sedan from the ball club, a 16-horsepower outboard motor from his fellow players, a bronze clock and barometer, juke box and records, a chair from the Sox office force, an automatic blanket, a set of mink for his illahs, Ore., ranch, an overseas portable radio from "Lolly" (a woman fan who attends every game armed with a megaphone) and her gal friends, a silver service for 12 from the fans, a leather travel clock from the clubhouse boys, worsted suitings from a Bridgeton, R. I., mill, a portable bowling alley and two other chairs.

SECOND DAY
COOS BAY, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Coos Bay Pirates regatta went into the second day of the annual celebration here today. Featured were sailing races, outboard motor races, parades and a pageant portraying the Spanish Main era.

What'll Ben Do?

Portland Course Made For Hogan

Most newspapers, this day of paper shortage, are loath to use "canon copy" material prepared by publicity agents for one firm or another enterprise and mailed out broadcast—and The Herald and News is no exception. However, the following story actually was canned. It came in through sports promoter sent the tip to us and we being always appreciative of anything that elicits a chuckle beneath let down the bars and print the "canon copy" in its entirety.—Ed. note.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 2—What will Hogan do this time? That's the question the fairway fibbers are pondering among themselves these days as Robert (Hurricane) Hudson charges through multiple preparations for the third annual $10,000 Portland Open golf tournament.

The tournament, scheduled for August 14 to 17 at beautiful Portland golf club, will attract the greatest array in the game today. Hudson has been assured by the tournament bureau of the Professional Golfers Association.

And among the stars who have said they will be here is Ben Hogan, the mighty mite of Hershey, Pa., via Texas.

As one Portland professional put it: "We had better not make any advance announcement about Hogan's entry—the other pros are apt to stay home. Nobody has a prayer against Hogan on the Portland layout."

Hogan, for the information of the uninformed, has played in two tournaments at Portland Golf Club—the 1945 Portland Open and the 1946 PGA match play championship. He won them both easily.

In the 1945 open little Ben carried out a 27 under par 201 to win top cash and also set a new PGA scoring record for 72 holes. Byron Nelson, who finished second, jokingly asked the committee if it was sure Hogan hadn't missed the nine holes somewhere along the way.

Up to 1946 Hogan had never won a national title despite the fact he was the game's leading money winner for several years. Both the National Open and the PGA crown always had escaped him.

When it was announced the 1946 PGA championship would be played at Portland, the wise boys immediately cracked. "This is the time Ben will win a big one." And they were right. The Portland layout is made to order for Ben.

The only question now—"What will Ben do this time?" Hogan will have a big field to compete against. The mages in which Sponsor Hudson stages the Portland Open has prompted the divot mowers to list this tournament as a "must" on their schedule.

Among other things, Hudson provides free caddies, free meals three times a day, plus transportation to and from the club. In addition the so-called "little guys" are treated as royalty as the "big timers."

Elk Nine Whips Reclamation, 11-6
The Elks opened last night's softball docket with a 1-6 win over the Bureau of Reclamation through the pitching of Brownie Myers, veteran Klamath basin softball hurler. At the other end of the field, the VFW took a 6-4 victory from the Rickys boys.

The Four Star Merchant took a decisive 12-4 win from the Moose in the second series of games while Ashleys drubbed the Knights of Columbus, 12-2. Everett Buck pitched for the Merchants and Big Swede Anderson chucked for Ashleys.
