Two Women Die After Truck Wreck

ILWACO, Wash., Aug. 13 (AP)—Two Grays Harbor women who had gone "just for the ride" were burned to death late yesterday when a fish truck left the road at the Naselle junction northeast of here, crashed into a culvert and burned.

The victims were Mrs. Norma Dorland, about 24, of Westport, and Betty Brown, 23, of Aberdeen. Deputy Sheriff Peter Maloney said both women were burned beyond recognition as the flames, fed by 16,000 pounds of oil-rich tuna, swept through the truck.

Identity of the victims was not definitely established, he said, until Mrs. Dorland's father, N. P. Morehead of 1408 Day Ave., Aberdeen, recognized personal belongings and dental work.

The driver of the truck, Earl Torbet, 25, employed by the South Bay Trucking company of Aberdeen, was thrown clear of the vehicle as it left the highway, plowed along a shallow ditch for 150 feet and smashed against the culvert.

He was taken to the Dwaco hospital where Maloney said he did not appear to be critically injured, although unable to talk enough to provide details of the accident.

The burned bodies of the women were taken to the Perkins funeral home in Raymond.

Miss Brown was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown of Montesano. Mrs. Dorland's husband, Almond, was at sea on a tuna boat at the time of the tragedy.
