

Second Anniversary Of V-J Day Marked With Talk From General MacArthur

By the Associated Press
The greatest war in history came to an end two years ago today with the surrender of Japan.

The surrender announcement was made in a broadcast by Emperor Hirohito, the earnest little man whose powers have been wiped away in these last years, but whose people still treat him with reverence.

General Douglas MacArthur is in charge now. And from him today came a message to his occupation forces reminding them that "the victorious end of battle became the beginning of an equally vital campaign to secure the peace."

"We now enter the last phase in Japan of this test of our strength," he added. "It is you men and women, military and civilian, who have composed the allied forces of occupation who are bringing this task to a successful conclusion."

The socialist premier of Japan, Tetsu Katayama, noted the anniversary, too. He called upon his countrymen to stress science, labor and an international outlook if they would become a thoroughly peaceful nation.

"We are now living in a war-devastated land," Katayama said in a statement. "We must clean and level up this scorched earth and build upon it an ideal nation based on peace through the united effort of all the people."

The conquered Japan will be opened tomorrow to limited foreign trade, but the peace treaty for which the Japanese yearn is still in the future. Preliminary talks may start shortly, however, at the insistence of the United States.

A call for a prompt peace was made in a V-J Day broadcast by President Manuel A. Roxas of the Philippine republic. He said the peoples of Asia "are clamoring for speedy conclusion" of a treaty and said it "is essential to restoration of mutually beneficial economic relations and will provide a stabilizing influence in this part of the world."

In allied capitals of the world, V-J Day passed quietly. The peace was still to be secured.

NOT SO BRIGHT

All the electric lights in use in the entire United States would illuminate an area of but one square mile as brightly as it is illuminated by sunlight.

MOVING STANDS

Kill Devil Hill, the dune at Kittyhawk, N. C., on which a 150-foot monument was erected in 1933 in honor of the Wright brothers, was found to have shifted 400 feet since the Wrights first flew their plane over it 29 years before.

THEFT

City police yesterday afternoon investigated a burglary at the home of R. A. Webber, 231 N. 9th, in which two wrist watches, one pocket knife and a .22 automatic pistol were stolen.

First report of the crime indicated that a camera and two high-powered rifles were also stolen, but they were discovered in the basement. Entry to the building apparently was made through the basement coal chute.

FLOWER ODDITY

The large, white, funnel-shaped "blossoms" of the calla lily are not true flowers at all, but the outer leaves. The real flowers are tiny, inconspicuous things, crowded together on the club-like spadix, in the center.

Many of the children of Chinese fathers and English mothers in Limehouse, London's Chinatown, are giving up their evenings to learning Chinese.
