More Mexicans Rounded Up

Ten more Mexican nationals were placed in the bull pen of the county jail last night, making a total of 17, as U. S. immigration officers continued their roundup of aliens here.

Most of the Mexicans are contract laborers who have jumped their contracts and continued to stay in this country after they were supposed to have gone back home. Some are "wet backs," the term used to indicate Mexicans who enter this country illegally by swimming the Rio Grande river.

Those jailed yesterday include: Ramirez Teliz Martinez, 29; Marina Jacio Ruiz, 26; Chavez Isaac Ortiz, 30; Ortiz Cervantes Cefarino, 39; Oroves Davalos Gustarro, 22; Tomas S. Melica, 29; Martinez Victor Gonzales, 20; Ruben Leon Moreno, 39; Daniel Orozco Vasquez, 44; and MacLivia Pallcos Razo, 37.

HARDY DISH
In addition to ancient eggs and birds' nest soup, the Chinese are particularly fond of dogs' flesh, marmalade made from toses, preserved oysters, ducks' gizzards, and canned earthworms.

OVS Offers New List Of Courses

Diesel mechanics, carpenters, bakers, radio repairmen and refrigeration repairmen courses open at Oregon Vocational school on August 25. It was announced today by Winston Purvine, director. Trainees may also enter courses in auto mechanics, body and fender repair and cooks school.

All persons interested may register on or before August 25 whether on the waiting list or not. Arrangements have been made for additional instructors in case a larger number of students register than is expected.

The Oregon Vocational school offers streamlined training for gainful employment. Course offerings will include most occupations not requiring college training. Instruction emphasizes practical experience under the supervision of qualified tradesmen. Equipment is the industrial type of the kind found in privately-owned shops.

The new school is approved for veteran training and admits both veterans and non-veterans. Trainees must be sixteen years of age or over. Adequate housing is available at the school for single students and apartments for married couples.

Other courses scheduled for early opening include: bookkeeping and accounting, business management, business and office training, drafting, electrical appliance repair, electrical wiring, machine shop, photography, salesmanship, welding, agriculture, aircraft engines, electric motor repair, watch and clock repair, dry cleaning, engineering aides, commercial art and design, laundry and cosmetology.

Address of the new state school is Oregon Vocational school, Box 1049, Klamath Falls.

Tulelake Club Burns To Ground

TULELAKE, August 14—The Farmers' club of Tulelake was gutted by fire early Thursday morning. The frame building, located between the Tulelake fire station and bank, was closed at 12:20 a. m. and the fire was discovered by Mrs. Pearl Pidgeon about 10 minutes later. The flames spread quickly from an undetermined origin in the rear of the building.

The structure was owned by Pat Murphy of Klamath River, and the business was operated by August Turner of Tulelake. An estimate of the loss has not been made.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"On second thought, send over an ambulance instead of a patrol wagon!"

Justice Court Clamps Down On Noisy Mufflers

Justice of the Peace J. A. Mahoney said today his office has received so many complaints about noisy mufflers in the past few weeks that it is necessary to warn those whose cars do not have adequate mufflers that they are liable for citation as traffic law violators and subject to the assessment of a stiff fine.

According to Mahoney, the equipment used on a car to act as a muffler must not necessarily be of any one or certain type, but must "prevent excessive or unusual noise," and whether or not a certain muffler on a certain vehicle is operating in conformance to the law is a question of fact, not of type.

Pointing out that some heavy trucks make a great deal of noise which is not preventable due to the inadequacy of mufflers available for this type of vehicle, Mahoney said in such cases it would be recognized the operators are doing the best they can and that only the impossibility of strict conformance prevents them from eliminating all noise. However, he pointed out, those responsible for the most and the worst noisemaking are usually attempting to circumvent the law.

New Plane Shown Here

"Kit" Carson, representative for the Aeronca Aircraft plant in the Western states, was a visitor at the Klamath airport Wednesday, where he demonstrated the latest product of his company, the Aeronca Super Chief.

The new plane, said Carson, was designed especially for private use in mountainous country, with the idea in mind that sportsmen, ranchers and others would find it a handy ship for getting in and out of tight landing fields.

The new ship is powered with an 8' horsepower Continental engine which gives it a cruising speed of 100 miles per hour and a rate of climb of 730 feet per minute.

Carson stressed the point that his company is concentrating on turning out "workhorse" type planes, to be used for training and for general flying in the field, rather than the highly specialized, high speed ships.

The super chief is a two place, side-by-side plane, equipped with a starter and standard flight instruments. The ship is expected to be on display again soon at the Shasta-Cascade flying service.

Calendar Of Events Asked

A proposal for the establishment of an over-all calendar of events was presented at the chamber of commerce board of directors meeting Wednesday. Bill Wilson, representing the 20-30 club, appeared before the board with the suggestion for the establishment of a calendar so that events sponsored by different organizations could be arranged without conflict.

The 20-30 club will contact all organizations to schedule plans on the calendar which will be kept in the chamber offices.

Other business included a report by Charles Stark, manager, concerning the western institute which he attended recently at the University of Nevada. Stark has been elected to the board of governors of the institute and will help compile courses to be given at the next session. This is the third time he has served on the board of governors.

The next meeting of the board of directors will be held August 27. There will not be a meeting September 3 and the board will return to its regular schedule of weekly meetings beginning September 10.

Longshoremen Picket Plant

ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 14 (AP)—The CIO International Longshoremen and Warehousemen union struck and placed several dozen pickets around the Pillsbury mill today.

The union said the men were refusing to work because they had no contract with the company. Pillsbury officials declined to comment. (At Los Angeles, Frank Hearn, union business agent, said five Pacific Coast plants were to be struck, including the one at Astoria, two in Los Angeles and one each in Colton, Calif., and Sacramento.)
