Today's Roundup

THE greatest Christmas disaster in the history of the west occurred in neighboring Lake county. It was on Christmas Eve, 1894, that 43 persons were killed in a fire which destroyed a hall at Silver Lake in which the population of that little community was gathered for a Christmas party.

The fire resulted from a man's head striking an oil lamp hanging from the ceiling. The lamp set fire to the building and the people, gathered in the second story, were trapped. A terrible tragedy ensued.

We don't have many oil lamps any more, nor do we burn lighted candles on Christmas trees, another source of many an early day fire. But there is still a major hazard in the home and public meeting places on Christmas decorations, and it is well at this period of the year to call attention to the need for the greatest precautionary measures in our community.

Fire Chief Keith Ambrose regularly issues a list of warning rules which cover the home situation thoroughly, and these should be closely followed.

Danger in Large Crowds

WE have always shuddered at the possibility of a conflagration in a building in which there is a large congregation of people at holiday time, harking back, of course, to the Silver Lake disaster. There are a number of seasonal dances and other events around town which attract large numbers of persons into the upper stories of local buildings. The rooms used are usually decorated with inflammable material. And while there may be no hanging oil lamps or burning candles, there are hundreds of people smoking cigarettes in these rooms.

The hazard in such situations becomes extremely serious. It is well at this time to check on fire escapes, and to take what steps are necessary to lessen the possibility of fire from the use of inflammable decorations and cigarettes. A single spark can be the beginning of disaster.

These Days

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A SYSTEM prevails in the bakery business of consigning stocks of bread to retailers who return unsold bread to the bakery. Much of the unsold bread is waste. Roughly the waste amounts to between 500,000,000 and 600,000,000 loaves of bread a year, 1 a mile long. The trade practice grew up normally in a competitive market, the risk of unsold goods being shifted from the retailer to the manufacturer. Of course, it inevitably goes into the price of the commodity.

The government has in no practical manner dealt with this problem. The Luckman committee dodged

The Doctor Says—

Chronic Hives Long Lasting

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Hives, or urticaria, is a strange condition which is believed to be a type of allergy. Hives usually start suddenly, with the appearance on the skin of reddish, swollen spots of various sizes. There is almost always intense itching which involves not only the red spots, but the entire skin.

Urticaria can disappear almost as fast as it comes, and often lasts but a few hours. In some cases, however, it goes on for days or weeks, and a chronic condition is known which does not disappear after months or even years.

Hives may occur after the eating of some food to which a person is sensitive. It can also develop after a drug or serum has been given, after infection, exposure to heat, furs, insect bites, or many other things. In other words, it is not a simple disease, but a peculiar reaction in a sensitive person.

Urticaria differs from many other kinds of allergy in that a sensitive person does not always show a skin reaction when the offending substance is placed in contact with the skin. Often this failure of the skin to respond (a type of testing used in many allergies) makes diagnosis of the cause of hives particularly difficult. Furthermore, one does not know why red spots should appear on the skin as a sign of sensitiveness.

In spite of the common difficulty in picking out the cause, treatment is most satisfactory when an accurate identification of the offending substance can be made. If strawberries, shrimp, or some particular drug is found to bring on an attack of hives, it is usually easy to eliminate the offender and avoid future difficulty.

Thus, when the cause can be found and eliminated, the problem is solved, unless sensitiveness develops to some other substance. This is by no means uncommon.

DRUGS BRING RELIEF

In chronic cases, when the cause cannot be discovered, the condition is most unpleasant. The skin condition is unsightly, and itching can be quite intolerable. In certain cases, however, the use of drugs which are known as anti-histamine agents—and these should not be taken unless advised by a physician—has brought great relief. These drugs do not cure the underlying cause, but often relieve the itching and cause the disappearance of the skin lesions for several hours at a time.

In many sensitive hives, or urticaria, is still a mysterious condition. The completely unexpected appearance of hives in a person who has never had them before is one of the many problems about this condition which has not yet been solved.

BEST MOTORING HOUR

The hour of the week during which you can drive your automobile with the least chance of having a fatal accident is between four and five Tuesday morning, according to a survey by an insurance company.
