Music Show 'Best Ever'

Klamath Union high school's Christmas gift to the public, an elaborate feast of music and art, was witnessed for the second time last night, but between 400 and 500 persons were turned away at the door by the fire marshal and building custodian as the auditorium and balcony already bulged at the seams.

The first night's performance, repeated again last night, played to a packed house and it was "a terrific surprise" that the second audience was even greater than the first, according to Andrew Loney Jr., director of music education in the city schools. All-in-all, approximately 2000 persons, not including the KUHS student body, heard the Christmas program.

Special bouquets go to Mrs. B. B. Blomquist, head of the drama department, Mrs. Patricia Hunt of the music section, John O'Connor, also of the music department, Robert Banister, director of art education, Francis Scapple, who had the stage to design and prepare, and of course to Andy Loney.

One of the hardest working groups was the wardrobe mistresses. These girls aided in the design and made the beautiful angel costumes. Mistresses were Delores Wright, Barbara Perkins, Helen Doege, Della June Michael, Evelyn Rowland and Jackie Baert.

Angels were Cleo Atkins, Helen Doege, Carol Eastman, Jean Hobart, Anita Kennebeck, Darlene Knowles, Minta King, Margie Miller, Della June Michael, Leona Montgomery, Wanda Murray, Ann McLaughlin, Marilyn Olsen, Barbara Perkins, Maxine Pugh, Evelyn Rowland, Ruth Soder, Jessie Swift, Goldina Thompson, Alura Wilkins and Delores Wright.

Visitor—Mrs. E. V. Ayres of Susanville, Calif., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gray Brannon of Henley. Mrs. Brannon left Klamath Valley hospital Monday with her infant daughter born Friday, December 12. This is their second child and the little girl has been named Gayle Lee.

Home For Christmas—Jack I. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Robinson, 1433 Jersey, returned Thursday from Stanford university to spend the holidays at home. He will assist his brother Willis in the City Delivery Service.

Moving—Mr. and Mrs. Adolph "Duke" Zamsky and small son, Steve, are moving this week from the Audley apartments to a home on Lakeshore drive.

Wed In Reno—Ella Burgess and Arnet A. Dyches, both of Klamath Falls, were married in Reno, Nev., December 12. They are at home in this city.

Santa Off To Early Start

Santa Claus protested today that with all he has to do, the kids were rushing him a little too fast.

The "Hello Santa" program, sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce and slated to start Sunday evening, was being unofficially inaugurated by a bunch of the young fry who were getting a little worried about this gift business. Already the chamber of commerce, where "Hello Santa" calls will be taken, was receiv- any number of calls, and they are hard put to explain that Santa Claus hasn't arrived from the North Pole.

He'll be on hand at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and remain on duty until 8 o'clock that night. Santa will be there during the same hours, 4 to 8 p. m., Monday and Tuesday nights, so if you can wait to put in your calls starting Sunday, please do, Santa requests.

Then there was another little matter to be cleared up. Santa gave out the wrong numbers yesterday, but he's so busy that's quite understandable.

Here are the real numbers so write them down in your book:

8119—8118—8110

Don't start calling until Sunday at 4 p. m. because Santa can't possibly get in town before that hour, the Jaycees said today.

One Klamath homeowner, observing the numbe- given out yesterday, was disturbed to see his own private phone number listed. William Frohnmayer, 2504 Eberlein, said his telephone number was given as the one to call on the "Hello Santa" p- ram. Frohnmayer said he didn't mind so much, he just didn't know how to handle the situation. And neither do the chamber of commerce employes. So wait until Sunday!

Minor Accident Smacks Meter

A minor traffic accident on Pine street between 5th and 6th early last night resulted in damage to city parking meter No. 299, police reported.

Otto LeRoy Smith, 1114 Crescent, said he was adjusting his windshield wiper when his car cracked into the back end of a truck and veered off into the meter.

The truck was operated by Finnis Moore, Yuba City, Calif. There was little damage to the automobiles.

AT YOUR CITY LIBRARY

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of brief reviews to be presented weekly by the Klamath Falls city library, telling of new books and those which are creating the greatest demand.)

Elizabeth Abell, "Flow to the Leaf" Publisher, Macmillan

A novel as vital and individual as the members of the Oliver family. In it are the strength, independence and ambition to be found throughout the rolling farm country of the Middle West, embodied in a group of people who are thoroughly alive and convincingly human. You will say "These are people I know and they live in my own country."

Gladys Carroll, "While the Angels Sing," Publisher, Macmillan.

"Every year which has passed since the birth of Christ, whatever it has lost, has retained and added to the magic of light and color against a dark background, to the human capacity for appreciation of chords and bells and melodies, to the sweetness of children's voices, the brightness of children's eyes, the delight of giving, the comfort of receiving, and the ecstasy of renewed hope and faith." So, a grandmother is determined to find once again all the magic delight of the season she loves so well.

Eleanor Estes, "The Echoing Green."

Told with three-dimensional fullness of detail, this book rings true as a fresh, authentic interpretation of childhood and youth. It recreates convincingly a young girl's intense emotional life with all its strange ecstacies, poignant humiliations and great hopes.

Herman Finer, "America's Destiny"

Significant and sober facts are herewith set forth by an author who has been a visiting professor and lecturer at Harvard, Columbia, Princeton and Yale. He received his doctor's degree from the University of London, and is now professor of political science at the University of Chicago.

Professor Finer believes and offers his support to his beliefs, "that the United States is the chief salvation of the world."

Until that time arrives when the Russian people throw off the tyranny of the communist party, the United States, "raised by conscience and poised by charity," must be ready to use force.

Coca-Cola Plant Looted

A marauder who broke into the Coca-Cola Bottling company offices at Main and Spring last night managed to get away with only a few stamps, but left the place in disorder.

The visitor entered through a back window that had been left open by workmen. He pawed through desk drawers and files, and scattered things generally about the office, mainly on the floor.

The loot was small but disorderliness great, Manager Ray Lamb reported this morning. The thief overlooked an envelope containing $135 for the Community Chest. It was knocked off the desk and lay among other papers on the floor.
