Search For Lost Plane Heads North

Stinson with the motor sputtering, which made a circle over White River canyon and disappeared from view. Another man also reported seeing a plane between 12 and 12:30 p. m. Sunday, which he described as grey, flying in a southerly direction over White River canyon. This man admitted little knowledge of planes.

Shotgun Blowup Injures Hunter

A young Malin farmer, Roy Rollins, was recuperating at his home from a painful accident on Christmas Day when a shotgun blew up in his face while on a hunting trip in the Malin sector. Rollins had fired a shot at ducks overhead, then fired a second time. The second shot blew out the breach of the gun and Rollins suffered a badly split nose, facial injuries and severe injury to the right eye. He was treated at Hillside hospital and dismissed.

LENGTHY TRIP

Street cars, trackless trolleys and buses of the United States traveled more than 2,000,000,000 miles last year. That's almost 18 round trips to the sun.

Reports received this morning by civil aeronautics administration that a blue Stinson was seen December 27 just before noon near The Dalles, drew the search for the missing Ellensburg plane from the Bly mountain area today.

The Stinson left Ellensburg, Wash., Sunday, December 21, at 8:21 a. m. with 40 gallons of gas, four passengers and no baggage. There was a radio on board and the number of the plane is MC 8966-K. Nothing has been heard of the plane since it took off.

Rumors that a plane had been heard over Gearhart mountain in the Bly area drew search planes from the army unit at McChord Field Friday. Klamath Air Search and Rescue Unit planes combed the area Friday and Saturday but the flight plans for Sunday had to be cancelled on account of the snow-storm.

Reports from four persons living near The Dalles, Wrentham, Wamie and White River canyon that they had seen a blue Stinson just before and at noon Sunday, December 21, drew the search from the Bly mountains.

A woman whose husband flies a Stinson was sure about the plane she saw flying low. A 14-year-old boy, very interested in flying, was also sure of the type of plane which he said was flying low, making sharp turns. His family verified his statement regarding the plane's behavior.

The third report came from a flying farmer who noticed a blue
