Vet's Mail Bag

As a service to veterans in the community, this newspaper will publish an occasional column of news briefs from the veterans administration. For further information, veterans should contact or write their nearest VA office at Klamath Falls.

Deadline Set On Evidence

Commencing January 1, 1948, medical or dental treatment will not be given to veterans seeking to establish service-connected disabilities until their claims have been adjudicated, the VA has announced.

The ruling stated that prima facie evidence will not be accepted as sufficient proof for veterans to establish service-connection for purposes of treatment after December 31. Hitherto it has been the practice of the VA to treat conditions for which service-connection was claimed, pending adjudication, at the option of the medical officer, and based upon the evidence immediately available.

This ruling in no way affects the year's presumption of service-connection for certain specified conditions, to which all veterans are entitled after discharge. The VA made it clear, also, that the ruling in no way denies veterans any rights they are granted by law, nor does it limit services given to those whose conditions are rated as service-connected.

Applications for treatment received or mailed after December 31 will have to be formally adjudicated under the VA's regulations before other than emergency treatment can be given.

VA Okays Xmas Gifts

Christmas bonuses or certain other gifts made by employers to veterans in training need not be reported as income from productive labor for the purpose of determination of subsistence allowance to be paid trainees, the veterans administration announced this week.

Christmas gifts which are "reasonable" in amount and which are made by firms or business establishments to veterans and non-veterans in the same amount without regard to length of service or the salary paid to the individual employe, need not be construed as income from productive labor.

In the past, such gifts had been considered bonuses and were reportable as earned income. The new ruling makes an exception of Christmas gifts and other gifts subject to the specified conditions noted above. The general rule that all bonuses must be reported as compensation is not altered, the VA said.

Question Of The Week

Q. I have a GI loan, but have recently lost my job. Does the law permit me to get the additional benefit of readjustment allowance?

A. Yes, you are entitled to readjustment allowance, if you meet the eligibility requirements regarding length of service and type of discharge. Your home loan has no bearing on your right to unemployment compensation. Apply to your state unemployment service for information regarding readjustment allowance.
