Speculation Probe May Go Deeper

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) said today his senate committee investigating commodity speculation wants to know more about conversations Edwin W. Pauley had with two cabinet members about the time he completed a profitable market deal last August.

The committee probably will call Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and Robert E. Hannegan, until recently postmaster general and head of the democratic national committee, to tell of their talks with Pauley at his Hawaiian estate, Ferguson told a reporter.

He said no date has been set for reopening the Pauley angle.

Harold E. Stassen, the former governor of Minnesota now campaigning for the republican presidential nomination, told Ferguson's appropriations subcommittee yesterday that administrative insiders including Pauley—have been in the markets to the extent of about $20,000,000 and have profited by approximately $4,000,000 since the end of the war. He said Pauley alone made $1,000,000.

Stassen said he has information on about 11 big traders in the administration or closely related to it. "I will not name them until I am ready to back it up with positive proof," he said.

Stassen said congress should pass a law barring all government employees from buying stocks, bonds or commodities of a speculative nature.

There is nothing illegal about such activities under present law. Stassen declined to name the government employees who, he said, gave him the first "crucial information" which led him to name Pauley, now a special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall, as a speculator.

Although Pauley was not in the government last August, Stassen said, he was not only an insider but was "in the very center of the inside." Pauley took the army department job September 3.

Russia Still Fears Bomb

BRYN MAWR, Pa., Jan. 10 (AP)—The only reason Russia has not seized the Dardanelles and the Arabian oil fields is because the United States has possession of the atomic bomb, says John M. Hancock, general manager of the U. S. atomic energy commission.

He told a meeting sponsored by Bryn Mawr and Haverford colleges last night that "we don't dare do less than to make as many bombs as we can."

Hancock said he realized "these are brutal statements" but added that he thought his point of view "realistic."

He pointed out the impasse created by Russia's refusal to agree to a system of international inspection of atomic energy plants and declared:

"If we can't get worldwide control, we must get a system less than world wide, guaranteeing every nation signing the agreement not to use the bomb unless armed troops cross their border."

He said atomic bombs will be used unless they are outlawed by a wide system and administered.

"We shouldn't see preparations for war going on and wait until it is too late—we should recognize the fact early and hit early."

He added that "as of this date there is no reason for the United States to be concerned about the discovery of any quantity of uranium in territory we don't control."

He expressed the belief "no other nation can build the bomb for years and years."

Historical Group Wins Award

The Klamath Historical society has been granted an award certificate by the American Association for State and Local History, the citation recognizing distinctive contribution by the Klamath group to local historical interest and knowledge.

The particular incident which drew the award was a point tour of the Modoc battlefield in May, 1946, with the Siskiyou County Historical society.

Grower Offers Navajos Work

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—A Gresham, Ore., berry packer said he would establish a work camp near Gresham for 200 to 300 Navajo Indians if they could be obtained for the May-October picking season.

A. W. O'Connell told a reporter that he had conferred yesterday with William E. Warne, assistant secretary of the interior, on the plan. He added that James Stewart, Navajo reservation superintendent, would take the matter up with the tribal council in the next few months.

Details of the private life of Tito and his family do not appear in print here. Government officials who could be reached said they did not know of the birth. There was no information on the first name of the new grandson.

WAA Freezes Explosives

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 10 (AP)—All undelivered orders of surplus army explosives were frozen today by the New York region of the war assets administration and the New Jersey and New York state police had confiscated from 125 to 135 tons of explosives which they said had been gathered by Zionists for illegal shipment to Palestine.

Police said the remainder of a 199-ton consignment of explosives still was missing.

Three trucks containing 67 tons of highly-explosive cyclonite blocks were seized late yesterday in Ulster county, N. Y. This seizure followed discovery of a cache of 59 tons of explosives in a warehouse here and in a farmhouse in nearby Wall township Thursday night and yesterday.

Some 5200 combat knives originally made for the U. S. navy and a quantity of first-aid kits also were found in the warehouse.

The freeze order was described by John R. Campbell, WAA regional director, as a "precautionary measure" against "any possible illegal handling of explosives, in cooperation with the normal police power of local and federal governments."

The uncertainty in the exact number of tons seized arose when state police and Monmouth County Prosecutor J. Victor Carton placed the total confiscated here at 59 tons and navy public relations authorities said the batch weighed 68 tons when it was unloaded at the Earle ammunition depot in Leonardo for safe-keeping.

Wool Growers Eye Future

PORTLAND, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Oregon Wool Growers' association went into the second day of its annual convention here today with talk of the future dominating the meeting.

Delegates heard yesterday of a national decrease in the size of sheep flocks and were told by C. M. Jones, secretary of the National Wool Growers' association, that Oregon's decrease of 63 per cent was the heaviest of any state.

Jones said, however, that research in new wool processes may halt the downward trend. He cited studies on shrink-proofing, moth-proofing, grease resistance and better usage of wool by-products.

Ira D. Starks, state president, asserted wool was the key to the sheep industry's success—without it, sale of sheep would be unprofitable.

Willamette valley growers accepted his proposal to contribute a fee of 75 cents a carload of lambs to finance a national publicity campaign on lamb as meat.

Sen. Wayne L. Morse in his speech blamed industry for inflation, and asked reinstatement of federal controls.

"Industry's increase in prices consistently have been about double that needed to meet wage increases," he said.

Farmers Day Set Jan. 24

The 14th annual Farmers and Stockmen's Day will be held Saturday, January 24, at the Oregon Vocational school with the noon banquet in the mess hall.

Registration will start at 11 a. m. at OVS, Secretary-Treasurer Lee S. McMullen of Klamath Production Credit association, announced. The program which will embody the annual financial report, election of two directors for terms of three years each, and an address by J. W. Bradley, secretary for the Production Credit corporation of Spokane, Wash.

There will be music and entertainment during the luncheon and the business will be taken up at its close, McMullen said.

OVS Director Winston D. Purvine is slated to say a few words to the group and accommodations are being made for 500 luncheon guests.

E. A. Geary and Lee Holliday are the two directors whose terms expire this year.

No Wedding For Mihai

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Jan. 10 (AP)—Maj. Jacques Vergotti, aide to ex-King Mihai of Romania, declared today that "for the moment" there is not going to be any wedding for Mihai and Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma.

He said in an interview that the former monarch might "eventually" marry Princess Anne, whom he "really loves" and who is ideally suited to be his wife—but no wedding for the moment.

He hinted broadly that the former monarch's advisers are opposed to the marriage, at least for now.

Vergotti said Michael's unofficial engagement was "another reason" why he was forced from the throne, because the communist-dominated Romanian government wanted to forestall an "upsurge of the king's popularity" which would have followed a royal wedding and make his removal more difficult.

Marriage while he was king would have been in his favor, the aide said, but marriage now would "give the wrong impression."

Princess Anne, who was en route to join Mihai in Switzerland, left her train at Liege, Belgium, this morning and set out by automobile for Luxembourg, where she said she would spend some time to "have a little rest." She gave no explanation of the apparent change in plans.

Passengers Leave Ship

TOKYO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Passengers of the stricken Russian ship Dvina are being transferred to a Soviet destroyer and an escort vessel in the waters off Northeast Japan, the U. S. navy reported today.

The navy said there was no indication how many of the Dvina's 780 passengers had been rescued. The reports, radiated to the navy from Japanese vessels at the scene, said the passengers were being transferred to the Soviet ships via small boats.

The reports did not identify the passengers by nationality, or say whether women and children were among them.

The Japanese vessels—among eight which were standing by the Dvina 150 miles east of the southern tip of Hokkaido—reported calm seas. The Dvina had been lashed by 50-foot waves since her first distress calls Wednesday night.

Earlier today, a Soviet rescue vessel succeeded in putting a pump aboard the leaking and floundering vessel. A spokesman for the Russian mission in Japan said this had greatly improved the prospects of towing the Dvina to port.

This Skunk Was In Tight Spot

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 10 (AP)—A flashing object, shining brightly in the sun and bobbing up and down on a Bismarck airport runway, attracted the attention of Raymond W. Heinemeyer of Bismarck.

It suddenly began moving toward a hangar. Heinemeyer took a closer look, saw what it was, grabbed a .22 caliber pistol and fired.

Stopped in its tracks was a skunk estimated weight at 10 pounds—with its head tightly wedged in a small fruit jar.

Locomotive Upset Injures Eight

BOSTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—At least eight persons were taken to a hospital and more than 50 others shaken today when the locomotive of a Providence to Boston train overturned at the Back Bay station.

First reports from the New Haven railroad indicated 63 persons had been hospitalized but a check showed only eight persons were taken to city hospital.

A railroad spokesman said later the other passengers were not believed injured seriously.

Eighty per cent of the men joining the United States navy are working at full or part-time jobs at the time they enlist.

Lumber Union Officials Meet

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 10 (AP)—CIO lumber union officials met here today to discuss possible wage demands. Their session followed the break-up of wage discussions by AFL negotiators and Western Oregon and Washington fir industry employers.

CIO delegates from Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho and part of Montana were present.

The AFL-employer session ended yesterday after two days in which a union spokesman said "no progress" was made. No future meeting was scheduled.

Under discussion was a November request for a 30-cent hourly wage increase. It would boost the fir industry minimum generally to $1.62 1/2 an hour.

SP Slates Expansion

1948 will be a year of exceptional prosperity for Southern Oregon, according to Roy Linden, territory manager for Union Oil company. The company has an expanded program for development of its service to the motoring public in this area in anticipation of heavy tourist travel this year.

At a banquet Thursday evening at the Willard hotel some 75 dealers and representatives were guests of W. V. Criddle, district manager. The Union Oil company's 1948 sales and advertising program was presented by a group from Los Angeles, headed by C. E. (Ted) Rathbone, sales services, head office, and Mike Corcoran, representing the company's advertising agency, Foote, Cone and Belding. Newspapers particularly will be used to increase tourist travel and colored postcards of scenic Southern Oregon spots will again be available through all Union Oil dealers.

4100 Spud Cars Shipped

Approximately 4100 carloads of potatoes have been shipped out of the Klamath basin up until Friday, with the price still hovering between $3.75 and $4 loaded, same as was being paid last week locally.

The estimated total crop for this current season was between five and six thousand carloads, in contrast to some 12,000 carloads shipped from the Klamath basin in years past.

Klamath 1-A russets were quoted at $5 per hundred pounds on the Los Angeles market today, while No. 1 russets were bringing between $4.80 and $5 on the Portland market. Those figures include shipping, commissions and the like.

Washington Man Said Big Trader

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Edward S. Small of Yakima, Wash., was one of 340 so-called "big traders" in cotton, cottonseed and wool tops futures whose names were made public yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Their market transactions covered a 23-month period ending November 30, 1947.

The list, 11th issued by Anderson in connection with a congressional inquiry on speculators, did not give the market position of the traders, but merely listed their names and addresses. Trading in commodities is not illegal.

Lakeview Bank Deposits Up

LAKEVIEW, Jan. 10.—Both deposits and loans at the Lakeview branch of the First National Bank of Portland showed substantial increases at the end of 1947 over figures of the previous year, it was announced this week by C. F. Snider, manager of the branch.

As of December 31, 1947, deposits totaled $7,621,227.44, Snider said, and loans totaled $1,658,210.98. The deposits represent an increase of half a million dollars, and the loans an increase of $450,000.
