A quieter-than-usual KUH S passed through its second day of final exams today, with students taking their second and third period exams. All other classes and home-rooms have been suspended for the "duration," and students are to be seen in various corners doing last-minute cramming.

For those who come out on top scholastically as a result of these exams and previous work, the Honor Society is giving a small reward. A free movie and part-day holiday will be offered to every student whose name reaches the semester honor roll, that is, who has a semester grade average of 1.5 or better. The date of this spree is tentatively set for Friday, January 30. The Honor society committee working on refreshments and other plans is composed of Doris Ethridge and Betty Butler.

After long hours of debate and discussion, the senior selection committee has finally agreed on a pattern for the graduation announcements. The company offering the winning announcement is Master Engravers, who sent a salesman to peddle their wares last fall. The pattern is on oak-grain paper, with a crimson and gold KUH S seal in the upper left-hand corner surrounded by a simple design. Order blanks for the announcements will be passed out to seniors within the next month. Supplied free to everyone buying announcements and cards, is a senior memory book, with places for pictures and autographs.

For car windows, lockers and books, the Girls' Ski club will soon be selling KUH S decals for 10 cents apiece. The stickers are printed in red and white, with large-lettered KLAMATH, small-lettered Pelicans, and a pert pelican at the left. This idea should prove a successful one with the KU population.

Sari's will be the location of the annual traditions committee banquet next Monday night. The 10 members and advisor, Charles Carlson, plus guests will make the company for the evening. Pat Williams is chairman of the traditions committee, the members are Pat McMillan, Cheri Mahan, Carol Monteith, Maudie Thompson, Dorothea Cogdill, Jack Kennett, Tom Edwards, Bob Loper, Don Zarosinski and Bill Southwell.

CAP Practices Air Drops

CASCADE SUMMIT, Jan. 21—According to Robert W. Pfeiffer of the civilian air patrol, extensive plans are being whipped into shape by the patrol for the continuance of experimental dropping by plane, in order that the organization may render expert aid in the future to any lost persons. The summit territory is considered excellent for the simulation of emergency conditions. Last July the Observians trekked up Diamond peak and received dropped parcels from a CAP plane. Results were so encouraging that the civilian air patrol is very enthusiastic regarding further experiments under adverse weather conditions.
