

Break Seen In Weather Over Nation

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Cold weather lingered in parts of the Midwest and East today, increasing the heating-fuel problem, but rising temperatures were on the way to many sections of the central, southern and mountain states.

Shortages of fuel still affected scores of communities and became more acute in some areas following the several recent cold snaps. Industries across the country forced to close because of the curtailment of gas supplies have made idle more than 250,000 workers.

Today's coldest weather was in scattered sections of the country, with below zero temperatures reported in the Dakotas, Michigan, Northern New York and parts of New England.

A fresh mass of cold air over Lake Superior moved into Michigan, spread across the Middle Atlantic states and into New England. Sautee Ste. Marie, Mich., reported a low of -17 while marks of below zero prevailed in Northern Lower Michigan.

Heavy snow showers below zero temperatures hit Northern New York after a blizzard swept the area with a snowfall measuring from 10 to 12 inches in Watertown. The mercury dropped to -14 at Canton, N. Y., early today.

Lower temperatures also were forecast for New York City, where the early morning reading was in the low 30's. The thermometer in Burlington, Vt., and Caribou, Me., dipped to 11 below and fair and colder weather was the general forecast for the New England area today.

New York City's fuel shortage prompted the state fuel coordinator to request oil companies to regulate deliveries, with home owners, public institutions and food producers to have priority over non-essential users.

Many homes in the metropolis are without heat and public buildings and hospitals are running low on oil. Residents in some apartment houses faced with fuel shortages have moved into hotels.

Summit Road Opened Up

CASCADE SUMMIT, Jan. 30 —Enterprising souls who care to risk it will find the road open into Cascade Summit. Bud Clark, the Caterpillar man, worked several days until midnight to clear a road way and succeeded in doing so. Some local residents have made use of it and report it satisfactory if the autolast uses chains and drives carefully. Snow has not piled as high this winter as it did two winters ago when the Caterpillar tractor operator lost his way and plowed the shingles off the roof of one telegrapher's woodshed.

The extremely high winds which knocked over several trees in the Summit area were in part responsible for the cancellation of some reservations at Odell Summit lodge this last week. Low temperature combined with the wind made it almost impossible to walk on the road and skiing was difficult. Communication was completely over in some instances and linemen worked day and night repairing wires and cutting trees off the lines.

Conversation With Kids Is A Wonderful Thing

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Where can you buy a freckle?

I need one bad. I'm in a jam. If I don't find one soon a little girl is going to be mad at me. She said I took it and haven't brought it back.

Other people's kids—they get me in more odd predicaments. But I don't have any children of my own, so I have to play with those that belong to other people.

Children do for me what music, books, movies, golf or gambling does for many grownups—that is, they lift me out of the world of worry and the high cost of living.

Critics who complain the modern world has lost the art of conversation must never talk to children. If you try to talk down to them, they quickly find you out and shut up. But if you can take the anchor off your imagination—what a wonderful realm you enter with them. Common sense is nonsense, and nonsense is common sense and every sentence holds a surprise.

Someday it will be a penitentiary offense to put a rein on the fancies of children, who are born poets and die—well, something less than poets.

Get In Dutch
My games with children, however, usually put me in dutch with their parents, who complain later: "It took us two hours after you left to quiet Junior and get him to go to bed. You get him over-excited."

I am in bad standing now at one household which has a small boy who wants to become another Thomas Edison. This young mechanical genius asked me about Heaven, and I did my best to explain to him all about this place where I hope some day to go. My mail. I answered all his questions with the latest information I have.

But the other day his father reproached me bitterly: "What ideas are you putting in my son's head anyway? He has informed his mother he never wants to go to Heaven because it doesn't have an escalator. He says he would rather go to a department store."

The only deal with the younger generation I have come out ahead in recently concerns the purchase of a dog by two children of some friends in Indianapolis. The kids earned the money themselves. But I made a small contribution to the fund, and another friend later put in some, too.

Bought Dog
The kids bought a Dachshund. It was so long they decided it needed two names. So they named the front end "Hal" for me—and generously named the back half "Charley" in honor of the last contributor.

Now, about that freckle. I playfully pretended to pluck it off the nose of this five-year-old girl after a visit a month ago. Last week I called again, and she crept up behind me and whispered in my ear: "Please, I want my freckle back. I think it is lonesome for me."

"I am taking awfully good care of it," I replied.

"Do you take it out for a walk every day on a leash?" she asked.

Some what flabbergasted at the mental picture of a freckle out for a stroll I hemmed and hawed and she said very solemnly:

"I really do want my freckle back. Please mail it to me this week and don't forget."

What happens now? The only thing I can think of is to tell her the freckle changed into a chocolate bar and mail her one.

But this could start a game that would put me in the poorhouse. She has about 1,265,547 freckles now—and growing more every day the sun shines.

Vet Students To Flood Labor Pool

PORTLAND, Jan. 30 (AP)—The veterans administration today reported there would be a heavy influx of veterans from colleges into the Oregon labor pool by 1950.

The VA said that is the year when most of the ex-GI men and women will graduate and that nearly half the 11,780 veterans enrolled in Oregon colleges are sophomores.

Many will withdraw from school earlier, however, and the education benefits of others will expire before 1950.

French OK Franc Recall

PARIS, Jan. 30 (AP)—Both houses of France's legislature approved today the government's bill withdrawing all 5000-franc notes from circulation.

The finance ministry announced that everyone holding the 5000-franc notes will be repaid. The announcement said the operation was not "an expropriation." An official source had indicated yesterday that some of the bills might be confiscated as a blow at the black market if holders could not explain their possession.

Premier Robert Schuman's drastic money program cleared another hurdle when the council of the republic ratified by a vote of 167 to 126 the bill abolishing the 5000-franc note as legal tender. Earlier the national assembly approved the bill 308 to 288 after an all night debate.

The premier had staked the life of his two-month-old coalition cabinet on this program.

About 66,000,000 of the 5000-franc notes were in circulation, valued at $1,540,000,000 at the new rate of 214 francs to the dollar.

"There is not and will not be any withdrawal of other notes of the Bank of France," the finance ministry announced.
