

By Hale Scarborough Pelicans Are Fortunate In Draw Again, Slated For Night Tourney Play

Last year at the state basketball tournament Klamath Falls had the best spot on the daily agenda, playing the final game each night and starting about 9 o'clock. In that way more fans were on hand to see Klamath games than any other. Day contests in spacious MacArthur court drew fair crowds, but the place was packed for the finale each night.

According to the draw this year, Klamath Falls will have almost as good a spot—provided the Pelicans go to the tourney and provided the schedule isn't changed. The way the plan reads now, the Pelicans will play the first game of the evening session to start with. That's on March 16 at about 7:30 p. m. If they win they'll keep the same playing time for the next night, and so on until the championship game is run off as the finale March 20.

The Eugene tourney is a busy affair, eight games being played the first day and eight the second. A couple in the morning, four in the afternoon and two at night. Naturally the morning and afternoon contestants draw their own particular segment of fans and a few others who just like to see a lot of basketball, but the night players perform before the real crowds. And that's half the thrill of getting into the state playoffs.

Playing on the night schedule is a break for the Pelicans. Those boys are getting used to huge crowds here in the Southern Oregon conference and would feel very much at home before 7000 pairs of eyes at MacArthur court.

Exasperating Turn Of Events One of the funniest turns of events we've run across in several months involves the selection of "Pioneers" as the name of the Klamath Falls professional baseball team. Not that it isn't a fine name. So fine, in fact, that the sponsors of the semi-pro team in the Northern California Sunday ball league had already decided to change the name of their team from "Sons" to "Pioneers."

Jack Evans Is Trouble-Shooter Jack Evans, a go-getter and man of all work for Lumbermen Lumber company, is now doing his stuff for Klamath Baseball, Inc., rounding up materials and generally getting the way cleared for construction on the baseball park. Jack is not getting paid by the corporation—no money can be spent for that work. In fact, Klamath Baseball, Inc. can't spend a nickel until the corporation commission for the state of Oregon says it's okay.

Local Gals Didn't Do So Bad Final report of the women's state bowling tournament, held recently in Corvallis, reveals that Klamath Falls rollers did not do too badly in competition with the rest of the state.
