

Self-Ration Bid Made By Truman Men

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The administration made a bid today for nationwide self-rationing of food to cope with the cost of living.

To get it under way, the agriculture department called an afternoon meeting (2 o'clock EST) of 18 groups representing food producers, traders and consumers.

The department predicts there will be a serious meat shortage in the spring. Congress, however, has turned down proposals that it be rationed by law.

For this reason, the department was expected to ask the groups to beat down hardest on ways to curtail the use of meat.

Meanwhile, congressional committees continued working on proposals to tackle inflation by legislative action.

Senator Flanders (R-Vt.) said he thinks chances are "reasonably good" that congress will decide President Truman should have the right to say how much grain distillers may use for whiskey and industrial alcohol.

Flanders is chairman of a house-arrange economic subcommittee and a senate banking subcommittee which decided to hold combined hearings on the question today. (13 a. m. EST).

Park Reports Fresh Snow

Crater Lake National park rangers late this morning said it was snowing at Annie Spring and 9 inches of new snow fell yesterday with one- and one-half inches of fresh snow this morning at 10 a. m. The depth on the level is 63 inches, somewhat below normal for this time of the year.

Skiing should be good after the trails are broken but at the present time they are poor because of more than a foot and a half of powder snow on top the heavy pack. By this week-end, if there is no more snow, skiing should be excellent. It was 5 above at the park early this morning and the sky was "high broken overcast."

New York Seeks Navy Oil Supply

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—New York, harassed by biting cold and a new all-day snowstorm, continued negotiations with the navy today for a loan of fuel oil to ease out its critically-scarce supply.

The storm, accompanied by strong winds which whipped the flakes into sizable drifts, dropped a 5.1-inch carpet on the metropolitan area before it ceased at midnight last night.

The navy's offer, announced Tuesday, to channel some of its oil

Julius Huehn Sings Here To Appreciative Audience

An appreciative audience last night heard Julius Huehn, young American baritone, and his piano accompanist, Galen Lurwick, in the second of a series of concerts presented on the Pelican theatre stage by the Klamath Community Concert Association.

Mr. Huehn opened the program with the singing of the aria, "Zion Is Captive Yet" from "Hera Novissima," a work which won renown for its composer, Horatio Parker. This was followed by the favorite aria of many, "Se Vueli Ballare" from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro." It was after these two numbers that Huehn seemed to "warm up" and he had his audience with him from that point on. One of his encores, "Home on the Range" really established him in the hearts of his Klamath listeners.

Galen Lurwick was an instant favorite and he was as generous with his encores as time allowed. There was not the large crowd that has featured other Klamath concerts but weather had a great deal to do with that.

A miner in a vain search for a fabulous lost mine discovered one of the world's greatest scenic treasures in June, 1853, when his sure-footed donkey stopped at the very brink of Crater Lake. The lake, resting in the crater of an ancient volcano, is six miles across, 2000 feet deep, surrounded by crater walls 2000 feet high. A national park since 1902, this area is being visited by tens of thousands of visitors during 1948, Oregon's territorial centennial year.

The navy's technical trade schools of today are the same ones which accomplished near-wonders during the past war in navy training.
