

Valentine Buyers Flock To Store For Tender Cards

True Valentine sentiment seems to be ringing the bell with buyers this year over the comical greeting, and the fancier cards are more popular.

Valentine buying seems to be better than last year in the stores featuring the heart-fancy cards where designated messages to certain members of the family and special persons are pretty well picked over today.

People seem to be almost more in the spirit of giving now than at Christmas time, clerks in downtown stores remarked, as Valentine gifts from lingerie to suits and dresses are being purchased. At one store "sated" panties were a popular Valentine buy—seven pair of panties each marked with a day of the week.

Baby Valentine gifts are also popular, little newcomers seeing their first February 14, embellished with new garments, toys and dainty bed covers.

For greeting cards, more care in coloring, design and material is shown this year and for the first time in several years, pretty cards are to be had for five cents.

Some windows, too, are dressed for the occasion with beautiful, lace-trimmed, sparkling heart-shaped to attract the eye to heart-shaped compacts and jewelry, red dresses, coats, suits and accessories.

Candy heart boxes in all sizes are seen again this February 14, in the ever-popular crimson red with fancy floral designs. Almost any type and quantity of candy now on sale shows the trend of the times almost more than the other items, erasing memories of sugar-ration days.

Contractors To Vote On Union Law

DALLAS, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Associated General Contractors of America today will vote on a labor union official's plan for settlement of jurisdictional disputes.

The plan was submitted yesterday by Richard J. Gray, chief of the building and construction trades department of the American Federation of Labor.

Under the plan all jurisdictional disputes not settled locally within 30 days would be referred to a five-man board in Washington.
