The eight students who attended the pre-legislative conference in Ashland Sunday, representing the KU Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y, brought back enthusiastic reports. They heard speeches on parliamentary and governmental procedure and took part in a mock session of congress. Six students were chosen from the entire group to serve as senators at the Salem conference. Three of these were KU students: Tom Orr, Claudette Gleason and Margaret Wedel. The remaining five will be members of the house of representatives.

Gas Co. In New Quarters

California-Pacific Utilities company is the first business firm to move back into the Evans building at 10th and Main, which was badly gutted by fire last February. Office, showroom and repair department were moved this week-end from 120 S. 9th to the space they occupied for a number of years before the fire at 1011 Main.

Quarters for the gas company have been completely redecorated and new fixtures installed, although this room suffered the least damage.

A modernized front for Fyock Appliance company which will move into the large corner room early in March, was installed last week, and completion of the interior is rapidly nearing completion.

The middle storeroom, occupied for many years by Roberts Hardware, has been leased by Richards Fur company, now located at 129 S. 9th, and a large cold storage vault for furs is being constructed by Schortgen and Burkhard, building contractors.

A new office with a 10th street entrance has been added at the rear of the building, utilizing space formerly used for an entrance lobby and balcony storage room. This has been leased by Local Loan company at 412 Main, formerly the Rogers Finance company, which also expects to move the fore part of next month.

All the second floor balconies that jutted out over Main and Tenth streets since the building was first constructed, have been removed, and a stucco trim is replacing the old marble trim across the front.
