

Norway Asks Special Meet

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 26 (AP)—Norway suggested Wednesday that a special session of the United Nations assembly be called to reconsider the Korean problem.

Finn Moe, Norwegian delegate, told the UN little assembly that if the world organization attempts to press its present Korean plan over Russian opposition, it may run into another situation like the Palestine problem.

Moe asserted that if either the United States or Russia was to withdraw forces from Korea, "there might be a civil war, and the United Nations would be faced with the problem of sending a force to maintain peace."

Meanwhile, the Philippines, India, the Dominican Republic, the Netherlands and Britain joined in the support for a United States proposal advocating immediate elections in Korea. They would be held in the face of a Russian boycott.

The little assembly is debating the American proposal that the UN Korean commission be advised to go ahead with elections wherever possible in Korea.

Flu Cases Double In Oregon

PORTLAND, Feb. 26 (AP)—The number of influenza cases in Oregon doubled again last week, with 635 new cases in the state, the board of health said Wednesday.

A total of 1316 cases have been reported this year—the largest number for any of the last six years except 1944.

Drought Area Info Asked

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26 (AP)—An appeal for information on available ranges in the 16 western states for drought stricken California livestock was made Wednesday by the California Wool Growers association.

Reports also were asked on available alfalfa hay or other feed.

"The sheepmen and cattlemen of the San Joaquin valley and other sections of Central and Southern California are facing the worst drought conditions, not only of their own generation, but in the entire recorded history of the state," the association said.

"They rapidly are running out of feed and have no place to go with their ewes with lambs at side or their cattle."

A Fresno livestock authority said last week that some San Joaquin valley cattle already had been moved to Oregon and Idaho.

Drought already has wiped out a potential $25,000,000 profit from grains and hay in the San Joaquin valley, Glenn Hill, secretary of the J. D. Hill company, Fresno, estimated.

Third Party Wives Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Henry A. Wallace and Mrs. Glen H. Taylor met for the first time Wednesday.

The wives of the third party presidential and vice presidential candidates were introduced at the home of Mrs. Elinor S. Gimbel who heads the national women for Wallace committee.

A grey-haired, smiling matron, Mrs. Wallace said she believes "women are going to have a greater influence in this campaign than ever before because they are so interested in peace and want their children and grandchildren to live in a world of peace."

Mrs. Taylor, slender, dark haired mother of three boys, said she thought it was "important to have a third party."

"It's healthier for the United States," she asserted.

Both women indicated they would take only quiet parts in the forthcoming presidential campaign.
