

Chronic Drunk Study Made

SEATTLE, March 4 (AP) — Do chronic alcoholics suffer from an allergy to alcohol?

University of Washington researchers are trying to find the answer.

Dr. Walter L. Voegtlin, of the university's physiology and biophysics department, is directing the research in cooperation with the new medical school.

The main goal of the study is to determine if there is something about the blood of a person that puts them in the "chronic alcoholic" class while others take the same amount of alcohol and keep themselves under control. The doctor defines a chronic alcoholic as one "whose drinking incapacitates him for normal daily life."

The hope of the researchers is that their study may lead to the discovery of a serum for use against chronic alcoholism similar to inoculations for hay fever and other allergies.

Phone Girl Plays Hero

FITCHBURG, Mass., March 4 (AP) — A telephone operator was credited Wednesday with talking a man into saving his own life and that of seven others, including his four children, after they were overcome with gas.

Police reported that Miss Helen Whitney, 32, gave instructions to Leon J. Berube, 37, on opening up his gas-filled house and "kept after him" until he did so.

When her switchboard flashed, police said, Miss Whitney heard Berube gasp "doctor," and then, "gas."

Continuing to hold Berube in conversation, she summoned police and firemen.

She urged him to open all windows and doors and when he said, "I can't make it," Miss Whitney encouraged him to try.

Rescue squads found Berube had succeeded.

Democracy To Be Advertised

PORTLAND, March 4 (AP) — Organized advertising will be used to educate Americans in the advantages of the economic freedoms of democracy.

Don Belding, native of Oregon and graduate of the university, here on a nationwide speaking tour, told the Oregon Advertising club today that a three-point program has been adopted to combat infiltration of communism. Under sponsorship of business, labor and advertising groups, the program calls for plant and community educational activities to demonstrate how the American economic system works; a nationwide advertising campaign; and a long-range educational plan for use of forums and public meetings.

Belding is chairman of the board of Foote, Cone & Belding Advertising agency of Los Angeles.

UN Background For Students Urged

College students should be given a thorough knowledge of the workings of the United Nations in the opinion of Prof. Olav Paus-Grun of Norway.

The chief of the educational liaison department of public information for the UN was keynote speaker last night in opening sessions of the Pacific Northwest College congress.

A concentrated, world-wide educational program on work of the international organization would, he said, be one of the main stepping stones to international understanding.

Enforcement of U. N. decisions and the Marshall plan are principal discussion topics for today.

The conference, which will run throughout the week, has attracted more than 100 students and faculty representatives from 37 colleges and universities in the United States, Alaska and Canada.

Truman Signs Bill To Up Pensions

KEY WEST, Fla., March 4 (AP) — President Truman signed a civil service retirement bill Saturday night which increases pensions of approximately two million government employees.

The measure, which covers about 125,000 persons already retired, was signed at the temporary "White House" in the commandant's house at this seaport base.

The president acted a few hours after bills had been flown here from Washington by a special naval courier plane.

It is estimated that about 3000 negroes served in the American revolutionary armies.
