Campaign For Funds Begins This Week

This week, the American Red Cross began its drive for funds to carry on the work of giving which has made it one of the outstanding organizations of its kind.

Klamath county folk are being asked to contribute $35,000 to help the Red Cross carry on its work.

Biggest single item in the local organization's work is found under home service — welfare work and assistance to veterans and their families.

The Red Cross is widely famed for its help in famine, flood and war, but the lesser publicized projects represent hours of work and planning.

First aid and home-nursing classes, life-saving and water safety, maintenance of highway aid stations and the Junior Red Cross program are a few.

A corps of volunteer workers, all people busy in their own private fields, finds time to assist.

Among women volunteers are Mrs. E. A. Geary, Mrs. Dean H. Osborn and Mrs. Karl Urquhart, only a few of the many others, some of whom are pictured on this page, who give their time and effort to the great number of projects undertaken annually.

Executive director of the Klamath chapter, who has the terrific job of coordinating the program in this area, is Mrs. Frances Palmer.

Shamrocks

Shamrocks and gay decor of green and white will deck the Elks temple March 17 when the lodge entertains for members and their ladies at a St. Patrick's Day party.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Maguire are chairman of the committee arranging the event. They are assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Franey, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Dwyer and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barry.

Dancing will be from 9 to 1 o'clock to music by a Portland orchestra.

The committee promises a store of unique events and special prizes galore. The party will be informal.

Christening

Cynthia Lee, eight-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burness Jr., was christened at the family home on Lowell street at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the Rev. David F. Barnett Jr., of the First Presbyterian church, reading the christening office.

Godmother of the little one is Mrs. Louis R. Mann and her godfather is James M. Hunt. Cynthia Lee wore a lovely old christening robe which has been in her father's family for more than 100 years. She wore a gift of locket and bracelet given by her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Balch of Longview, Washington, who were here for the ceremony. Also at the christening was Cynthia Lee's paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Mary Steele of Seattle. Relatives and a group of close friends attended the christening.

Robbie Is Five

It was a gay afternoon last Thursday, March 4, when young Robbie Muesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Muesen, celebrated his fifth birthday.

A group of Robbie's small friends were invited to the family home at 127 Hillside to join in all the fun and festivity of the birthday party. A fishpond and other games provided entertainment.

Robbie's guests were Johnnie Roberts, Tommy Shaw, Alex Brumbagh, George Pitteraft, Steven Siles, Terry O'Sullivan, Bobbie Thompson and Donnie Drennan.

Friday afternoon, Robbie and his mother and father left for Medford where they will spend several days, returning next week-end.

Wives of Elks are looking forward to the annual crab feed next Thursday night, March 11, at 6:30, in the lodge dining room. There will be the usual lodge session for the men while the wives and girl friends eat, and then a social hour is planned.

VICE CHAIRMAN of the home nursing committee of the Red Cross is Mrs. Naomi Miller, public health nurse. Among Mrs. Miller's duties is keeping a loan cabinet of supplies for use of patients in the home.

Spring Rites

A late spring wedding planned for Saturday, May 15, in San Francisco, is of interest in Klamath Falls. Mrs. Frank Frankford of San Francisco has announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter Vera Thompson to George Dewey Powell of Klamath Falls.

Miss Thompson, who made her home here until 12 years ago, is an assistant booker for Redwood Theatres Inc., with offices in San Francisco. Mr. Powell is manager of the Klamath Falls Elks club and has returned here following extensive military service and was discharged with the rank of colonel.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will return to Klamath Falls to make their home. A number of their friends expect to attend the rites in San Francisco.

February Vows

Friends here have learned of the wedding in Reno, Nevada, on February 18, when Delight Connelly of this city became the bride of Joseph L. Hicks, also of Klamath Falls.

The Rev. Arthur L. Rice, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Klamath Falls, read the service in Reno and attendants of the Klamath Falls couple were Miss Patricia McPadden of this city and Ernest Kofeod of Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, both of whom are well known here, are now at home at 934 Pacific Terrace.

Entertained

Mrs. Scott Milligan of Longview, Wash., was feted at a tea recently when Mrs. H. C. Borgman entertained for her.

Mrs. Milligan visited in Klamath Falls for a few days last week before returning north.

Guests were Mrs. Milligan, Mrs. H. E. Calkins, Mrs. George Stevenson, Mrs. K. G. Klahn, Mrs. Bob Porter, Mrs. William Lorenz, Mrs. Ira Orem and Mrs. Howard Graham.

Leap Year Secret To Get Your Man

Girls — the secret is out. You don't have to look like a glamour puss in the slick paper magazines to keep your man! (Did you see that one in House Beautiful of the babe done up in white satin bed-clothes making out her marketing list?)

The Gallup poll gives out that 47 per cent of the married men questioned give the No. 1 quality in a wife as "the ability to create pleasant surroundings in his home and to be a neat housekeeper and above average talents in the kitchen." Faithfulness, devotion and sex appeal are given a swift kick out the back door. What the boys want is a good girl behind the mop bucket and a sweetie with a way with a rolling pin.

Married men and single said an agreeable and pleasant disposition rated second with faithfulness running third. A poor fourth place went to "cooperative, a partner". Only 11 per cent of the husbands chose patience and understanding as of prime importance and being a good mother was given first place by only 5 per cent. Only 2 per cent wanted intelligence and common sense, and 1 per cent demanded their wives neither smoke nor drink.

The fellow who said the way to a man's heart etc. etc. said a mouthful.

In the meantime, there's a lot of hammering, paper hanging, moving and house planning going on in these parts.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Sharp devote most every week-end and practically every Thursday to their Crystal Springs ranch which is close to Lost River in the Olene district. This week they've been pruning the juniper trees around the big pool. They've left the lovely grove of aspen trees and many of the old lilacs around the ranchhouse which, incidentally, has been completely repaired.

The swimming pool, which is about 30 by 73 feet, has been completed and work is now going on rocking the big pool. That is the summer project. The Sharps are not planning to build their home for some time yet. Crystal Springs ranch is one of the land marks at that section. A short distance from Crystal Springs is Council Springs, where legend has it that the council was held the night before the opening of the Modoc war.

Another big remodeling job is rapidly being completed by Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Goble who bought a place on Homedale road just off South Sixth street some time ago. They hope to be able to move in around the first of April. The interior of the seven-room house, which has been completely done over until there is little of the original house left, is knotty-pine paneled. The house is all-electric including the heating. The Gobles spend a great deal of their time there and this week were welding paint brushes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drew and their two little ones completed moving this week-end into their new home at 1991 Van Ness which they bought from the John Shaws last month. Mrs. Drew's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Moore of Portland, are expected here this week-end en route north from a stay in Arizona. The Shaws write they are comfortably established on Elsie street in Redding.

Greetings to many new arrivals. It was a son, Robert Corwin, for Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Lawson Hunt, on Leap Year Day, February 29th. This is their first child and Robert Corwin and mother expect to leave Klamath Valley hospital the middle of next week to go home to the Hunt apartments, 515 Alameda.

A letter from Elizabeth Dalton this week, describing the charm of her first grandchild, a little girl born to Capt. and Mrs. Robert A. Byrne of Washington, D. C., at the naval medical center, Bethesda, Maryland, on February 15. The little one has her mother's name, Elizabeth Louise. The William C. Daltons left Malin for Washington last month, arriving on February 11, a few days before the blessed event. Mr. Dalton left last week to return home by way of Hartsville, Tennessee, where he will visit with relatives and friends at his old home.

Anne Frances is the name of the daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fulton Van Dusen, (Mary Jane Mahoney), on January 31 at St. Mary's hospital. This is the second child for the Van Dusens, now at home in Astoria.

Betty and Peter Cartwright of Portland have named their Leap Year baby — their third son — Gibbons, a family name on the maternal side of the house. Gibbons was born February 29 at Emanuel hospital and will go home soon to 2056 Montgomery Drive with his proud mother.

It was a son also for Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Tice of 343 Riverside. The young man, Thomas Howard, arrived February 29 at Klamath Valley hospital and is not alone among those who will have a birthday just every four years.

Speaking of the very young — Barbara Johnson Nelson extolls the wonders of little Lauren Sydney from Portland. She and her two little girls are with Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Johnson there until Barbara goes back home to Alameda. She writes that Stuart has at last found a two-bedroom house in Alameda. They have been looking since last October, lived in a hotel for two months and then took a quonset hut on the naval air base where Stuart is stationed.

The Glenn Kents write home of the perfectly wonderful time they're having in the Islands and their plans now include a return trip, sailing from Honolulu around March 10. They have been on several of the islands, including Maui, Hawaii and others and both are "feeling fine" thank you!

Greeted here are Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Krause who are remaining in Klamath Falls for a week or two. They have spent the winter in Pasadena and will return south but expect to be back in their High street home sometime in April.

Packing up for a five months' trip to Europe and wondering just exactly how much of Europe they are going to have the chance to see, are Mr. and Mrs. Torild Kierulff, 630 Pine street. The Kierulffs leave Wednesday and their first stop is Chicago, their second in New York and they will visit friends at both places. They sail on one of the Polish steamers, MS Batory, (pronounced 'battery') for Copenhagen, Denmark. Their longest stay will be in Helsinki, the English equivalent of which is Elisnore, the former home of both Kierulffs. Helsinki is immortalized as the setting of Shakespeare's Hamlet and reeks with ancient lore.

This is the first trip Mr. and Mrs. Kierulff have made back to their old home in many years. They were married in Helsinki — or Elisnore — and both their children were born there. They expect to return home about the first of August and will do as much traveling on the continent as existing conditions permit.

THIS WEEK'S PAGE is turned over to women in Red Cross — the feminine contingent in the corps of volunteer workers who make the local projects of the Klamath Red Cross chapter tick. Each with her own business or home to care for, these women still find time to assist in many ways.

In the top picture are three young people who turned their talents to work for the Red Cross. They are Klamath Union high school students who made prizewinning posters advertising the campaign. From left are Betty Scott, first; Bob Mahoney, second, and Pat Williams, third. Tom Williams, right, represented the Red Cross in presenting checks to the young artists. Fourth place winner, Joyce Ditmanson, is not pictured.

Center are Mrs. Dean H. Osborn and Mrs. Karl Urquhart. Mrs. Urquhart is vice chairman of the board of directors and chairman of the personnel practices committee, and Mrs. Osborn, an active worker, is secretary of the board.

Social welfare aid is the special task of Mrs. Irene R. Miller, below. The welfare aid group is being formed to give volunteer social assistance as part of the Red Cross home service program, one of the biggest jobs of the organization. Mrs. Miller has had wide experience in Red Cross work. She was formerly executive secretary of chapters in Eugene and Phoenix, Ariz. —All pictures by Guderias
