Mad Pianist Still Buried In Quiet Halls Of Asylum

DETROIT, March 8 (AP)—Out at lonely Eloise, the delicate music of the mad pianist still echoes through quiet corridors.

Maestro X still is a patient two years after he started the music world with his beautiful piano playing.

Dr. T. K. Gruber, superintendent of Wayne County General hospital at Eloise, said he still is completely mad in everything except his music.

"We noted improvement for a time," Dr. Gruber said. "But the improvement has stopped. He just sits or stands and vegetates."

The maestro, whose name never was revealed by the hospital, was a brilliant student of music. He was committed to the asylum a decade ago, suffering a split personality.

As Dr. Gruber describes it, he withdrew from life into a world of his own twisted thoughts. For many years, the musician was unable to walk, feed himself or perform simple acts.

Then, in the search for a means to bring him back to reality, the hospital turned his attention back to his music.

He appeared before a national education conference. He amazed recognized teachers of music with the beauty and clarity of his piano artistry.

Later he performed in public. Millions heard him play Mozart's difficult "Concerto in D Minor" on a national radio broadcast. Then he returned to Eloise and the obscurity of the insane.
