The Red Cross drive got off to a pretty fair start here last Monday with 10 having been donated the first day. The drive is being handled a little differently here this year in that cards have been mailed to each family on the Oregon side, instead of the usual house-to-house canvass. This is considered more effective in that the parties still have their cards and they can donate at their leisure while when contacted in a canvass they may not be at home or have the change of mind or may even resent the postal fashion contact. Around 60 cards were mailed all together with Mrs. Buna Paris handling the town district and Mrs. Pannle Fisher the rural district. The $2 asked in the membership drive can be left at the post office or any contribution anyone wishes to make above the $2 will be greatly appreciated and receipted with a membership card.

The East Side YGA gave as their reason for the hop is that they need more funds to operate on, so come and have a big time.

Private James D. Tucker arrived here from Germany last Sunday with his new young Austrian wife, after serving two years on foreign soil in and near Berlin. He says that although the United States troops occupy Berlin, the Russians are congregated not too far away watching the Americans avariciously. Whenever an American gets over into their territory they put him in a concentration camp. He spent quite a bit of time in Russian concentration camps with his very life threatened at times, only to be saved by the arrival of American troops who brought pressure to bear on the Russian officials in charge. He said that the actions of the Russian soldiers and their treatment and enslavement of the people of their occupied zone was breeding more and more hatred against the American soldiers. Mrs. Tucker is very glad to have come to America.

Members of the telephone committee, prompted by a report or suggestive remarks from Lloyd Snider, propounded a discussion centering on the great need of a farmer's line on the California side. The speakers, Garland Cundiff and Lloyd Snider, urged cooperative efforts with the Davis Creek line and the farmers' line on the Oregon side. Garland Cundiff also reported on the agriculture committee. Three new folding tables, 36 by 8 feet, were secured by members of the executive committee and they will be painted by the Home Ec. ladies.
