Keno

Harvey Denham, principal of the Keno grade school, is ill with the flu and Mrs. Denham is pinch-hitting for him.

The Calvary Baptist church of Klamath Falls as sponsor of the Keno Baptist mission was requested to send their deacons, trustees and other officers to a conference with the Baptist mission. Because of the continued illness of the pastor, C. A. Waterhouse, and his wife, it was decided to dispose of the mission building. However, until further notice, Sunday school and church services will be continued as usual. Sunday school, 10 a. m., and preaching service, 11 a. m.

Ethel Puckett, teacher in the Keno school, has been ill for several days. Mrs. Earl Scheer has been substituting for her.

Harvey Denham, principal, informs us that this grade school basketball team won eight games and lost two during the past season. His team played two games each with Jefferson and Altamont, and won one and lost one to each team.

A building project now under way in Keno is reminiscent of the old-time pioneer days.

The Keno Gospel Center, after holding services several years in small dwellings, decided to build. They secured a lot a block west of the Atcheson store. Instead of the ox team and sled, the pastor, Melvin Griffith, purchased an old truck for $100 and after quarrying out the rock, he hauled it to the building site. A man with a bulldozer dug out the basement instead of the old harder way of pick and shovel. The pastor went to work and levelled the ground and squared up the walls and then proceeded to build the rock walls and put in the cement floor. He worked practically single-handed most of the summer and fall to get the basement ready for use the past winter. They have been using the basement for several months but now he has the frame and wall sheathing of the main auditorium up. The building is 24 by 40 feet and will have a small nursery upstairs and the Sunday school classrooms will be in the basement which will be reached with an inside stairway. During this time, the pastor worked part-time, as the membership is small and is unable to pay a full living salary. And we want to repeat the pastor did most of this work single-handed.

Mrs. C. A. Waterhouse is still confined to her bed with serious illness.

Earl Johnson made a trip over from Medford Tuesday for a load of potatoes. Mrs. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Waterhouse, accompanied him and visited at her parents' home. They returned to Medford Wednesday. Johnson is in partnership with his father and brother in the wholesale produce business in Medford.

Mercy Pilot And Plane

Bud Arnold, local pilot, is pictured here standing beside the plane he used in flying two doctors deep into Steele swamp in an airborne rush to save the life of Mrs. Herman Vowell, stricken at the snowed-in ranch. The plane is a 90-horsepower Cub owned by Jack Friesen and his son, Bob. The pair loaned the plane to Arnold for the occasion.

The Ghostwriting Scare Is With Us Again ...!

WASHINGTON, 6p.—President Daniel Marsh of Boston University has been scared by a ghost.

This ghost is a little man who lurks behind typewriters. He builds speeches or articles to be spoken or signed by someone else. He is the ghostwriter.

In a recent speech Dr. Marsh tore into the man who hires a ghost. "Dishonest . . . morally threadbare," said the doctor. "Too lazy or dumb to write his own speeches and messages . . . the public is not justified in putting any confidence in what he says."

Ghostwriters get around to all kinds of places. Take sports. A baseball player hits a home run every three days and hence becomes a very important person.

Naturally everyone everywhere yearns to know what he has to say. But he has nothing to say, or a reasonable facsimile.

Writer Hired So a writer is hired to help him say it. Enough sports writers have been Babe Ruth to start a baseball team, or maybe even a fourth team. Ghosts aren't only sports minded. Actresses bubble all in their autobiographies, written by their press agents.

Businessmen speak out on vital issues, through the busy mouths of their public relations counselors. Radio comedians work furiously cracking their writers' jokes.

And 15 years ago one Fred Baer advertised in New York papers: Ghostwriters Bureau Any topic, any purpose, any length. We write it. YOU sign it. But it's here in Washington that the ghost has grown great.

Public officials are busy men. Yet they are asked for an astonishing number of speeches and articles on an astonishing number of subjects.

Easiest Way The easy thing is to give it up to the ghost.

There are some things to be said in favor of ghosts—and I'll say them later in another of these literary masterpieces.

Right now I'd like to point out that ghostwriters have frightened many people besides Dr. Marsh. The late Raymond Clapper summed up their feelings in an article in Forum magazine ten years ago.

Klamath News

Midland

Midland home extension unit met March 16 at the home of Mrs. Fred Milani, 2733 Crest, with foreign cookery the project, led by Mrs. Milani and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joe Milani.

Ten dishes served in American style represented China, Russia, Japan, France, Germany, Italy, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland.

Mrs. A. W. Schmeck presided at the business meeting with roll call responded to with suggestions for projects to be studied next year.

The group voted for foreign cookery, interior decorating and studies of women and the law. Due to the success of the footstool workshop the group would like to continue with a workshop on re-upholstery of furniture.

The next regular meeting will be held April 27 at 10:30 a. m. at the home of Mrs. A. N. Schmeck, 1654 Mitchell, on parent-adolescent relationship.

Fort Klamath

Another meeting on textile painting will be held Friday, April 9, it was decided at the March 19 meeting of Fort Klamath home extension unit. Each woman attending should bring a sack lunch. The place will be announced later.

The meeting was held at the Loosley ranch south of Fort Klamath with Mrs. Raymond S. Loosley as hostess and Mrs. Fred L. Pope and Mrs. A. E. Coplan assisting with a demonstration on foreign cookery.

Representing the unit at the Homemakers Festival April 30, in Klamath Falls will be Mrs. Frank Denton and Mrs. Coplan.

Mrs. R. O. Varnum and Mrs. James F. Van Wormer were appointed on a nominating committee for officers for the coming year and election will be held at the next regular meeting.

Subjects voted on for next year's projects included furniture, refinishing and homemade rugs.

Merrill

The Merrill extension unit held a very interesting meeting on foreign cookery, conducted by the project leaders, Mrs. Paul Lewis and Mrs. Milton Loper. The meal featured Chinese dishes, Oriental steak and Hongkong salad.

Mrs. Milton Loper was elected the new chairman for next year, Mrs. Luther Taber, vice chairman, and Mrs. James Coffelt, as secretary-treasurer.

Donations were made toward the Azalea house to be built at Oregon State college and sponsored by the home extension units of the state.

Mrs. Buford Boyd will be installed as new chairman at the April meeting of the Henley home extension unit. Mrs. J. Shoaf is the new vice chairman and Mrs. Clifford Kelly, secretary-treasurer.

Why Junior does what he does was the theme of the project, parent-adolescent relationship, at the March 18 meeting at Mrs. Albert Keady's home.

Unit hobbies learned during the year will be displayed at the 1948 Homemakers Festival to be held April 30. Henley's special exhibit will be decided by Mrs. Myron Taylor.

Clothing Workshop

An average saving of $10 for each dress made at the clothing workshop sponsored by the home extension service was the figure reported by Helen P. Stine, county home demonstration agent. The workshop was held March 23, 24 and 25 at the Oregon Vocational school.

Enrollments chose patterns requiring set-in sleeves, zipper plackets and bound buttonholes. Time-saving methods in cutting, fitting and sewing were demonstrated by Lucy Lane, clothing specialist from the state extension office.

Those attending the workshop were Mrs. Walter Collins and Mrs. Melita Hall, Chiloquin; Mrs. Paul Lee, Mrs. Kenneth Samson, Mrs. Myra Snyder and Mrs. H. G. Day, Klamath Falls; Mrs. George Reiling, Mrs. William Tubak, Olene-Poe valley; Mrs. O. B. Larson, Pelican; and Mrs. Claude Williams, Mrs. J. R. Pugei from the Shasta-Homedale extension unit.

A Chinese luncheon prepared and served by Mrs. Ernest Graves was featured Thursday at the unit meeting held at the Graves' home.

Due to the heavy snow and postponement of the meeting from two able to attend.

Weeks ago not many members were present at the meeting. Mrs. Ernest Graves appointed Mrs. U. R. Burn and Mrs. Andrew Valdez on the nominating committee for officers for the coming year. The unit voted to make contributions to the Azalea House fund.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent on shellcraft, a hobby.

The next meeting on parent-adolescent relationship will be held April 8, the time and place to be announced later.

Secret Atomic Files Moved NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Secret files of the New York office of the atomic energy commission were moved to new quarters last night under armed guard.

The entire moving operation from the Empire State building to the new headquarters at 70 Columbus avenue was completed under cover of darkness, Manager Wilbur E. Kelley said.

Fire Control Methods Told To Foresters

Progress in forest fire control methods was recounted by Larry Mays at the meeting of the Society of American Foresters in Lakeview Friday night.

Mays, now fire control officer for region 6 of the Rogue River national forest, has just returned from Washington, D. C. He followed the progress of fire control from 1919 in a year by year account up to the present time.

Present fire control methods use fighting from the sky. Mays said, such as water bombing, dropping fire jumpers and sighting fires from the air. He told some interesting points regarding the accuracy of water bombing. A film showing training for fire jumping and bombing was also shown at the meeting, which was presided over by Merle Lowden, chairman of the society.

Present from this area were three representatives of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, C. Borsting, Fred Goeller and Don Hummel. Paul Lawman of Car-Ad-Co, and A. B. Hood, manager of Ralph L. Smith Lumber company, were also present from the Klamath area. There were about 60 persons present in all, representing Alturas, Medford, Ashland and Union Creek besides those from Klamath county.

Henley

Mrs. Clyde Dehlinger left by train Monday to visit her mother in Salem. She had planned to go by plane but due to inclement weather the plane did not stop Monday night.

Among the college students home for Easter vacation are Alden Bruner, Lucille Keady, Bobbie Reeder and Beverly Mack.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Moon have purchased a pair of matched Palmisano. Mrs. Cora West has been ill the past week. Her son, Neil Banta, has been doing her chores. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morley have returned to their home in Sherman Oaks, Calif., after a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Morley's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Marsha.

The following Henley students were on the honor roll for the last six weeks' period: Grand honor roll, senior, Carol George. Honor roll: seniors, Virginia Masten, Bett Skelton, Ada Ruth Perry; sophomores, Sylvia Keady; eighth grade, Sally McMahan; seventh, Richard Roberts, Norman Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Marvin returned Sunday from a trip north. Marvin attended the Oregon Coaches association meeting in Eugene during the state basketball tournament. Both Mr. and Mrs. Marvin visited in Salem with Mr. and Mrs. Carol Howe.

William and Leland Cheyne made a trip to Sacramento last week. While there they purchased a sprinkler system.
