

California Pushes Construction Of New Power Plants

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27 (AP)—Drought, population growth and expanding agriculture and industry have projected California's urgent electric power problem into the national picture.

The state is in the throes of a power shortage never before known in its history.

Industry's wheels are turning slower, or fewer hours, as a result. Farms can't pump all the water needed for irrigation. You can't attach a new electric range or electric water heater to your home.

Whether the state can supply its full share of needed food for the nation's bread basket remains to be seen. Last year it produced $1,411-

503,000 in farm products, more than 10 per cent of the national total. Only Texas approached this figure.

Thousands Aid

To avoid a recurring power lack, and to provide for future growth, thousands of men are at work on public and private projects and millions of dollars are being spent.

The bureau of reclamation is pushing work on the Shasta dam project on the upper Sacramento river and the Keswick dam nine miles below it.

Two generator units at Shasta, rated at a total of 150,000 kilowatts, are operating at over-capacity. The remaining three, the bureau says, will be in operation for the peak of the 1949 season.

Keswick, a much smaller dam which uses the water after it is released from Shasta, will provide another 75,000 kilowatts. It is expected to be ready for the 1949 peak power load. The cost is around $15,000,000.

New Program

The Pacific Gas & Electric company serving most of Central and Northern California which form the critical drought area, is embarked on a six-year $400,000,000 program. The plan is to add 1,400,000 electric horsepower to the company's system by 1951, making a total of 3,800,000. A company official said it will be decided soon whether to add another 200,000.

The company claims this program, on which spending is at the rate of more than $10,000,000 a month,

Mattoon To Carry Star Route Mail

LAKEVIEW, March 27 — Dale Mattoon, operator of the Red Ball Stage line, has accepted the appointment to carry the new star mail route between Lakeview and Klamath Falls which will begin Thursday, April 1.

Postmaster Fred Peat said Mattoon had agreed on the temporary appointment and will arrange his bus schedule to conform with the hours stipulated for the mail runs.

Mattoon said he will operate a bus to carry this mail, and will leave his present schedule as it is leaving Lakeview at 2:30 p. m. and arriving at Klamath Falls at 5:30 p. m. and leaving Klamath Falls at 9 a. m. and arriving at Lakeview at 12 noon.

For the new star route, Mattoon will operate a bus to leave Lakeview at 4:30 p. m. and arrive at Klamath Falls at 9:30 p. m. daily except Sundays. He will leave Klamath Falls at 2:30 a. m. and arrive at Lakeview at 5:30 a. m. daily except Monday.

Both passengers and mail will have faster transportation, for example, to Portland under the new plan. Leaving Lakeview at 6:30 p. m., either can arrive in Portland the following morning around 8 o'clock. Leaving Portland at 5:10 p. m., passengers and mail can arrive in Lakeview at 5:30 a. m. the following morning.

Plenty Snow Survey Shows

"Operation Sno-Cat" hit a snag this week at Crater lake. Park headquarters reported this morning that the seven men who started from Ashland March 19 to measure snow depths along the Cascades, spent most of this week shoveling themselves out of the snow at the park.

The snow surveys, checking measurements to be used for forecasting irrigation water supply, were scheduled to stop at Crater lake only one day, last Sunday, but they didn't get under way until late Thursday.

Destination of the group is Mt. Hood by early April.

Sunday skiing prospects at the park were excellent today, headquarters announced. The sky is slightly overcast, but there seems to be no immediate sign of a storm.

Snow depth is 144 inches with no new snow last night. As soon as trails are packed, skiing will be very good. The ski tow is operating over the week-end.

Roads are open, but chains are required from Annie Springs to the rim.

Hospital Fund Gets Okay

ALTURAS, March 27—Application for funds by Modoc county to the state, for the erection of a county hospital here, has been approved by the state board of health.

Papers have now gone to Washington for approval by the government. Funds for the building would be met by one-third from the state, one-third from the government and one-third from Modoc county.

In round figures, the cost of the building to be erected in Alturas is $900,000, with the erection of a building in Cedarville to cost $125,000.

It is the opinion of the state officials that the money will be allocated by the government for the hospital in Alturas this year, but that the money for the hospital in Cedarville will not be forthcoming until 1949.

May 15 Set As CC Trek Date

ALTURAS, March 27 — May 15 is the tentative date set for the caravan to Winnemucca, Nev. by representatives from chambers of commerce in Southern Oregon and Northern California.

Object of the trip will be to gain recognition of the highway from the Nevada city to Cedarville in Modoc county. About 90 miles of the highway is now in good condition.

Interest in the road was started some years ago, the purpose being to construct a road from Winnemucca to Eureka.

Officials of the northern division of the state chamber have signified their intention of making the trip.

At The KUHS Counseling Office

Violet Bennett and Bill Mosby talk with Assistant Principal Wendell Smith about their school courses.

Advisors Carry Big Load In Telling KUHS Students What Courses They Need

By WENDELL SMITH, Assistant Principal in Charge of KUHS Registration (One of a series of articles on education here.)

The problem of advising Klamath Union high school's 1200 to 1300 students concerning the courses most desirable for each in the light of his present interests and possible future is a large one and is shared by several groups of people.

Primary responsibility for this task rests upon a group of people whom we call "the counselors," but some of the work is done by the dean of boys and the dean of girls, and in the case of those interested in vocational work, by the vocational department.

Advice concerning students with physical handicaps or special physical requirements comes from the school nurse.

Office Open

Although the counselors are busy much of the time with routine matters of registration, re-scheduling, and checking records to see that students are meeting state graduation requirements, the counselors' office is open every period of the day throughout the school year for consultation with individual students about courses most desirable with reference to the student's abilities and future plans.

Charts with all subjects available for each grade level are always on display, and a fairly complete set of catalogs from Western colleges and from some of the more prominent Eastern colleges is kept handy.

Many students, especially seniors, seek advice from the counselors on the choice of colleges.

The dean of boys and the dean of girls maintain office hours during five of the seven periods of the day, and while they devote themselves more to the personal than to the academic problems of students, they can give similar advice.

Warner Road Work Slated

LAKEVIEW, March 27—The Inter City Sand and Gravel company of Eugene, successful bidder for the contract of grading and surfacing the Warner Valley secondary highway, is expected to begin work on this project in about two weeks according to J. S. Sawyer, resident highway engineer.

S. J. Moe, president of the contracting firm, was in Lakeview last week-end to confer with Sawyer and to look the project over. His firm got the contract on a bid that totaled $298,294. Work is scheduled to be completed by November 30.

In a letter to the Lakeview Examiner this week, Moe said his firm is now completing a highway job at Crane and will start moving equipment from there almost immediately.

Theft Brings 4-Year Count

Ivan Wilcher, 29, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in circuit court this morning and was sentenced to four years in the Oregon state prison, while his supposed companion in one crime, Ernest Arnold Swartzfager, 19, was given a one-year sentence.

Wilcher admitted stealing a quantity of tools from the site of a house under construction last fall. The tools were located at his residence, 2853 Front. Previously he and Swartzfager had been jointly charged with theft of 20 chickens from the Joe Willis residence on Crescent street in January.

In court this morning Swartzfager admitted stealing the chickens and six rabbits, but declared that Wilcher was not with him in the crime. He refuted a sworn statement he had previously made to the district attorney in which he said Wilcher had accompanied him in the chicken-theft.

Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg said that he came to court with the idea of putting Swartzfager on probation, but his actions in court brought about the prison sentence.

Library Fund Gets Okay

LAKEVIEW, March 27—In special meeting Monday night, the Lakeview town council agreed to include in its 1948-49 budget an item of $1980 for the library, the same as last year; strictly enforce the city's house-numbering ordinance if co-operation of property owners is not forthcoming; and enforce the two-hour parking law beginning April 1.

The council agreed, however, that the penalties for violation of the two-hour parking law which the ordinance adopted October 4, 1938, provides, are too severe. The law provides a minimum penalty of $5, and a maximum penalty of $100 fine and 10 days in jail.

Faller Gets Drunk Fine

George Cory, 37, timber faller residing at 2128 Hope, was fined $50 this morning after a night in the city jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was involved in an automobile accident on Main street near Payne with a car driven by J. H. Lichtenstein, 1320 Pleasant.

His wife, Mrs. Ada Cory, was booked on the same charge and was fined $25.

Other police arrests in the past 24 hours included that of Lloyd Walker, 53, of 2220 Wantland, on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. He was fined $5. Walker is said to have struck an unattended parked car on Mitchell street late yesterday.

Seed Growers Hold Meeting

Representative seed growers and dealers and county agents from seed growing counties in Oregon gathered this week in Corvallis for a state-wide meeting.

The purpose of the conclave was consideration and revision of state seed requirements. It was agreed to increase fees on certification and make requirements more rigid in some respects. Only small seed was considered at the meeting, including such as grain grass and clover and did not include potato seed.

Between 50 and 60 seed growers attended, including three men from Klamath county, Scott Warren, certified barley seed grower; Ed Geary, certified grass and clover seed grower, and Charles A. Henderson, Klamath county agent.

District 7 Budget Up

LAKEVIEW, March 27 — A proposed 1948-49 budget for school district number 7 (Lakeview) was adopted by the school board and budget committee Tuesday night with total estimated expenditures set at $224,886.98, an increase of $21,234.75 over estimated expenditures adopted a year ago in the 1947-48 budget.

Most of the increase was accounted for in increase in salaries. This included estimates for three additional teachers which Superintendent Dave Bates said will be needed next year due to increases in school enrollment, plus cost of living increases granted to present teachers under the district's salary schedule. The increment on the salary schedule, under which about half the teachers have reached their maximum salary, is $60 per year. The school board recently voted, in view of present high prices, to allow each teacher a cost-of-living increase of $240 per year.

An election has been called for April 22 to vote on the matter of exceeding the six per cent limitation.

The taxpaying voters will be asked at that election to exceed the six per cent limitation by $75,206.20. The total levy under the proposed budget is $123,686.98, of which $48,660.78 is within the limitation.
