

Traffic was a bit thicker than usual in front of the old Lakeside Inn on lower Main street when this Photographic History shot was made in about 1910. Unfortunately, there is no notation to tell just what occasion brought out these buckboards loaded with early-day residents, but it looks as if they might be setting out all together for somewhere—a chamber of commerce tour to Merrill, a picnic, or some other civic occasion.

Those were the days when personal and family prestige was definitely influenced by the spirit and matching of light teams, such as these, which pulled Klamath residents about the town streets and over country roads. Old-timers with an eye for horses could tell us how these would rate. The picture is from the Baldwin collection and is another of a Saturday series that is winning much interest among newcomers as well as pioneers.

14 Nazis To Hang For War Crimes

NUERNBERG, Germany, April 10 (AP)—Fourteen officers of the SS (elite guard) were sentenced today to hang for at least a million killings. The sentences wound up the biggest murder trial in history. The men were leaders of the "Einsatz Commandos." These were special extermination squads sent into Russia to do away with peoples classified by the nazis as racial undesirable. Two other men drew life terms. Another five were sent to prison for lesser terms ranging down to 10 years. The judgment by the American court was the stiffest ever handed down in the Nuernberg war crimes trials. The international military tribunal which tried top Nazi leaders condemned only 12 defendants to death. Sentence was pronounced by Judge Michael A. Musmanno of Pittsburgh, presiding over a three-man court, at the end of a trial lasting seven months. Maj. Gen. Otto Orlendorf was one of those sentenced to death. He admitted in the trial that his Einsatz group killed 90,000 Jews. Maj. Heinz Schubert was another of the condemned. He claims distant relationship to Franz Schubert, composer of the "Unfinished Symphony" and other well known works.

Celilo Indians Ask Changes

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Three Celilo Indian leaders have come to the national capital seeking (1) improved living conditions in their village, (2) independent status for their tribe, and (3) better definition and enforcement of their fishing rights on the Columbia river. Heading the delegation, which arrived here yesterday, is Henry Thompson, second chief. With him are Willie John and John Whiz. They asked help of the Oregon congressional delegation. A memorandum will be prepared by William Zimmerman, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, for Senate Cordon and Morse, and Rep. Ellsworth. It will set forth plans for meeting the trio's request. Morse said he would ask the senate appropriations committee to approve funds to better living conditions in the Celilo village. He said housing and facilities there now are bad. Independent status for the Celilos would remove them from the rolls of the Yakima tribe.

Repeal Of Wheat Stock Law Asked

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Rep. Stockman (R-Ore.) told congress that the law requiring the nation's carry-over of old stock wheat be not less than 150,000,000 bushels should be repealed.

Stockman has introduced a bill to repeal the law and "do away with this shortsighted requirement which is operating to cause the government to create an artificial wheat surplus in this country."

In a statement in the congressional record, he said the nation is growing approximately two bushels of wheat for every bushel consumed in the United States. He said to continue the 150,000,000 carryover requirement would add wheat to the natural surplus when the government stops buying it for foreign relief.

Demand Less He said the improved prospects for a good wheat crop in 1948 and an improvement in winter grain conditions in Europe create the possibility that the demand on this nation's crops this year will be much less than in 1947.

He said that to continue the requirement might cause serious market disturbances rather than make for stability.

"Very likely the brunt of such disturbances," he said, "would be borne by producers who hold a large proportion of the carryover old crop wheat."

Stockman said that under present conditions farmers and the trade "have every incentive to clean out their bins" with futures selling at substantial discounts below the current cash prices.

A truck-car collision at 10:30 Friday morning on Highway 97, near the Shady Pine road badly damaged a 1946 sedan, and the driver, Donald R. Rullmer, of route 3, narrowly escaped injury. State police said that Pullmer's car was parked on the right side of the highway, headed north, when Pullmer turned the machine across to the left side and made a semi-U-turn at the junction of the highway and the Shady Pine road. He failed to see the truck, an Eskley Produce vehicle, driven by James Quigley, of Portland, and the truck crashed into the side of the lighter car, cutting in its side. Quigley said he honked his horn several times, but Pullmer failed to hear it. State police made no arrests in the case.

Dewey Asks Nebraska Farm Vote

OMAHA, April 10 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey played out to the limit today a "swing" his aides claimed has begun in his direction in Nebraska's GOP presidential primary next Tuesday.

Paul Lockwood, the governor's secretary, told a reporter he thinks Dewey has started "a swing in our direction" by vigorous campaigning in the last two days.

Dewey flew to Western Nebraska today to court the farm vote, which Harold E. Stassen, one of the chief contenders, claimed last night he already has taken into camp. Stassen flew to Washington today for the gridiron dinner—an occasion that Dewey decided at the last minute to pass up in favor of more campaigning.

Before he set out, Stassen told newsmen he has been "very much encouraged" by the crowds which have turned out to his meetings. "In my judgment," he said, "I will definitely be in first place in the farm vote." Stassen decided to wait until later to forecast the results of the seven-man race in which the state's GOP voters will designate the man they think the party ought to nominate for president. The stock on Stassen's estimates has gone up since he claimed only 14 delegates in the Wisconsin primary campaign and got 19. But Dewey backers generally disputed the former Minnesota governor's assertion that he will top the farm vote. It represents a large share of the state's ballot total.
