

City, OVS Officials Work Out Plan To Open Former Marine Pool To Public

Operation of the Oregon Vocational school swimming pool for public use this summer will be an expensive large scale project for both the city and OVS.

City Recreation Director Sam Smith said today that the city and OVS officials have approved a plan of joint operation of the big plunge, and a written agreement to straighten out final details is being prepared.

Mechanical operation will be the responsibility of OVS, and the city will handle employment of personnel, safety measures and charges.

Biggest worry, Smith said, is the operating expense of the pool.

Heating is a major item, and another large expense is employing lifeguards. The size of the plunge, 75 feet by 165 feet, makes it necessary to have a minimum of three lifeguards on duty, Smith added.

The pool has been repaired sufficiently for use but one pump must still be worked over and other minor jobs done, Smith said. No definite date for the opening is set, but in late May.

No one under 12 years old will be allowed to use the pool which is four feet deep at its shallowest and ranges to nine feet at its deep end. It will be operated on an open swimming basis, with no attempt made at instruction.

As it now stands, admission fees will be as follows:

25 cents—12 to 18 years old.

25 cents—OVS students and their families.

50 cents—Adult townspeople and OVS faculty members.

Everyone will be welcome to use the pool and is encouraged to take advantage of it.

Gate receipts at the end of the season will be tallied and the school and city will share profit or loss on a ratio that is yet to be decided.

The Klamath Union high school pool will be maintained this summer by the city, primarily for instruction work with children under 12 and with non-swimmers, Smith said.

Growers To Elect New Committee

Potato producers and handlers of Central and Southern Oregon and Northern California will meet April 21 and 22 to nominate representatives for an administrative committee to serve in the event a federal marketing order is placed in effect to govern shipments of potatoes by area, grade and size during the 1948 marketing season.

From the nominees selected, the secretary of agriculture will appoint a committee of six grower representatives and three handler representatives, together with a like number of alternates. Operation of the marketing order 59, during any part of the coming season will depend upon marketing data submitted to the secretary of agriculture.

W. J. Broadhead, field representative for the fruit and vegetable branch of the U. S. department of agriculture's production and marketing administration, said producers and handlers will meet at the same time and place, but will conduct separate nominating sessions.

The schedule is:

April 20—District 1 (Crook and Deschutes counties), granite hall, Redmond, Ore., 8 p. m.

April 21—District 2 (Klamath county), high school, Merrill, Ore., 7:30 p. m.

April 22—District 3 (Madoc and Blakely counties), high school, Tulelake, Calif., 2 p. m.

Traveler Is Rotary Guest

Commander Scott, originator of the "Romance of the Highways" radio program, addressed Rotarians in Tulelake Wednesday and visiting Rotary club members from Klamath Falls.

The world traveler said people of America do not appreciate the natural wonders and beauty of their homeland and as tourists are a flop. They jump in a car and drive like mad through phenomenal wonderlands, give five minutes of their attention to some famed cave, spring or park and drive on again.

There is more natural beauty in California and Oregon than anywhere else in the world, in the commander's opinion, but natives of these states spend little time enjoying it.

The speaker told of a cave in Australia where boat rides may be taken on a subterranean river which is lighted by glowing insects. A loud shout will put out the lights, he said.

Commander Scott was introduced by Ross Rafeland.

Payton was convicted of shooting Mamie Dale Goodman at the Sierra entrance depot, a federal reservation.

The defendant had accidentally fired from a gun over which they were scuffling.

The jury was out an hour and a quarter.

Rio Blast Blamed On Communists

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 16 (AP)—Federal police declared today the explosion of an army arsenal, fatal to 23 persons, was intended as the beginning of a communist plot for a "second Bogota" here May 1.

The police said the communists intended to kill the Brazilian war minister, Gen. Cabroeri Pereira Da Costa, who left the vicinity of the arms depot 50 minutes before yesterday's blast.

The official account said Da Costa was saved only by an unexplained delay in the explosion.

Bodies still are sought in the debris of the Desodoro arsenal. The injured are estimated to number 100 to 200.

Twenty-six communists have been arrested so far, the police statement said, and "directly implicated" in the explosion. The plot was attributed to a high leader of the communist party, which is outlawed in Brazil. Police withheld his name, but said his arrest was expected soon.

Firemen still are seeking 12 girl employees who were trapped and possibly killed in a nearby textile mill.

Police said one person was caught carrying grenade caps. Seven women communists were arrested for distributing communist pamphlets immediately after the blast.

Damage was expected to exceed $1,000,000.

Walls crumbled for a mile around and many workers in nearby factories were injured.
