Our Home Town
A Tribute To Good Parents
By EARL WHITLOCK

There is a widespread fallacy that democracy starts in the voting booth—at the age of 21. And, I suppose, if democracy were nothing but a political idea, that would be okay. But democracy is more than that. It is a way of life and life starts at the beginning. It starts in the nursery and around the family dinner table.

Too many homes are not democracies; they are dictatorships. Sometimes it is the parents who are the dictators, insisting on instant and unreasoning obedience. In other homes the child is the dictator and rules supreme, making complete monkeys out of mother and dad and subjugating them utterly.

My salute is for the home and for the parents who make the home, where nobody is the ruler, but where each member of the family is recognized as having rights which the other members of the family respect. There is the kind of home which will produce the sound citizens of the future—the leaders in thought and action of generations yet to come.

It takes intelligence, patience, love, judgment, tact, on the part of the parents to produce such a home. But there are enough of them, thank God, to make up for the errors and laziness of the other kind.

Next Saturday Mr. Whitlock of the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home will comment on "May Day."

KU Music Groups Win High Rating

Out of four Klamath Union high school music organizations participating in Southern Oregon district contest Friday and Saturday, three of the groups, the girls chorus, a cappella choir, and concert band, took division 1 superior ratings and the orchestra a division 2 (excellent) rating.

Students were taken to the contest on school buses. The majority of the students returned Friday night and were taken back to Ashland Saturday morning. The contest festival closed with master performance of the combined chorus, band, and orchestras, on Saturday night in the SOCE gymnasium.

The KUHS groups made an excellent showing and were the recipients of congratulations from not only the judges but many of the people in attendance.

On the return trip Saturday night after the concert Andrew Loney, director of music education, arranged with state police to conduct the four school buses and private cars over the Greensprings highway as the fog lay very low late in the afternoon out had greatly cleared before starting the trip over the mountain.

Entire trips, both Friday and Saturday were made without incident. It is hoped that arrangements can be made to take at least two of the winning groups to the state contest in Eugene this weekend. Judges for the events were: Walter Welke, University of Washington; George Kirchner, University of Washington; and Chester R. Duncan, former supervisor of music, Portland.
