Choral Group Concert Set

The annual concert of the Klamath Choral society will be presented on May 13 in the auditorium of the Oregon Vocational school. This hall has been chosen for the performance because of its ample seating capacity and fine acoustics.

The feature piece on this program will be the colorful Robinson number, "The Lonesome Train." This will be done in costume, and among the individuals starred will be Graydon Broyles as the negro preacher and Phil Hitchcock as narrator.

Net proceeds from the concert will be applied on a benefit fund, the nature of which will be announced within three or four days.

The chorus, a non-profit organization, has a membership of 45 men and women. It is considered one of the outstanding cultural assets of the Klamath community. It is under the direction of Andrew Loney and rehearsals are held every Monday evening. It is not to be confused with high school groups, as it is composed of mature singers living in the Klamath area, who enjoy singing fine music.

Beef Club To Hold Party

Fisherman Fishes Youth From Water

KANSAS CITY, April 27 (AP)—A fisherman rescued an unconscious 18-year-old youth from 30 feet of water by snatching him with a hook and line on a bamboo pole.

The youth, John C. Moses, fell 20 feet from a rock ledge into Indian creek while fishing yesterday. Nearby was Elvin A. Holker, 42.

Holker carefully dropped the fishing hook and line and caught Moses' clothing just back of the rock. Then he towed the youth downstream about 40 feet where he and other fishermen could reach him.

Holker applied artificial respiration and revived Moses.
