It's Spring Again!

And May Day, too! It's the month dedicated to the young fry and this page boasts a likely looking bunch of youngsters with their mothers. Mrs. Dick Reeder and her three, Andrea, David and Stephen, live at 229 Washington. The boys go to Riverside.

Mrs. Alvin E. Macartney and her son David and daughter Carol, make their home at 2825 LeRoy.

The Frank Drew family recently moved to 1991 Van Ness street and here is mother with David and one-year-old Greer.

Mrs. Philip S. Hitchcock and her threesome, Martha Marie, 6, Philip Jr., 4, and Stephen, 5, (seated), reside at 330 North First street.

These three keep Mrs. Robert F. Ellingson of 2839 Del Mora, more than busy. Young Peter is six months old, Robert is five and Kathryn is four.

PTA's GUESTS IN KLAMATH

The town was in a flutter this week with the three-day session of the 35th convention of the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers. It was our privilege to work with two Portland newspaperwomen, Freda Mowrey of The Oregonian, and Elinor Pillsbury of The Journal, sent here by their respective bosses to cover the session.

Both are well known in Oregon, working nicely together, and appeared to thoroughly enjoy Klamath Falls. It was too bad we couldn't do something about the weather and give convention delegates a little of our famous sunshine, but Old Man Winter has been as tenacious as a rebuffed lover, and he sat it out the whole time.

We didn't have time to comment on two points concerning the Wednesday night banquet at OVS where, seems such a short time ago, marines filled the big mess hall with their clatter of metal cups and trays. Andy Loney's a cappella choir brought a standing ovation as they sang and sang. Around us were women from all over the state and could Andy or the youngsters have heard the praise, they would blush with pride. We did!

And then the matter of decorations. "The World At Our Doorstep," theme of the convention, was used with little dolls dressed in clothes of all nations, interspersed with miniature globes. Mrs. Arthur Reinhart, with members of her committee from Roosevelt school, had charge of this phase of the convention and came in for a great many compliments. Mothers were busy putting the figures in their purses to take home to their own youngsters.

Going and coming: Dr. and Mrs. Leslie W. Peate sent us a jumbo picture postcard from Sun Valley, Ida., where they are attending a session this week. Les is sitting in on the Northwest conference in dental medicine. Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Curran back Sunday from Victoria, B. C., where he attended the Western section of the American Urological association of which Hugh was recently made a member.

SUNDAY MORNING'S THE TIME

It's really worth a buzz around the block on Sunday morning, watching all the harried fathers dashing the youngsters to Sunday school, some with upturned collars hiding pajama coats, others dressed for a day's gardening, golf or church.

We don't know the percentage of young people who are enrolled in everything from "cradle roll" to the young ladies' class but about 9:30 every Sunday morning there is a heavy run of traffic right down Main street and going to both sides where Klamath churches are holding forth.

It would do your heart good to see all the starched skirts and be-ribboned bonnets, and scrubbed little boys with their hair in place for this once-a-week occasion. Doesn't seem like the world is so bad on Sunday mornings.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Bubb have just returned from a jaunt up north where they saw a number of former Klamath folks. They went first to Newport to visit Mrs. Bubb's brother, Dr. Paul M. Noel, who is now practicing dentistry in the Oregon coast town. Mr. Bubb came on home but she stayed on in Portland and saw the F. E. Drake family, the Louis K. Porters, Hazel and Roy Orem and others. While at dinner they ran onto the J. Fred Flocks, now of Eugene, and also Mrs. Karl C. Cummings, who has been north visiting daughter Margaret. (Mrs. Dick Reeves), at Lebanon. Mrs. Cummings will stay on in the valley for a week.

Mrs. Bubb reports that Warren H. Peete is now on the commercial staff of Pacific National Advertising Agency in Portland. Louis K. Jr., is the proud papa of two children and also makes his home in Portland.

Disappointed, that's what the Bubb's are. They expected visits from their daughters and families but things have been postponed. Lt. and Mrs. Robert David Payne (Virginia Bubb), and two young daughters, Tyana and Nyna, were due to leave their home at Middletown, Pa.,
