Mrs. Thaler New Tule Police Judge

TULELAKE, May 19—City council business Monday night ranged from the appointment of a new police judge to assuring city residents that there will be ample water for irrigation this summer. Mrs. Victoria Thaler, city clerk, succeeds George Long as police judge. The change was made to speed up processes of law since Long, an insurance man, has been able to devote only part time to the business of "judging." Mrs. Thaler will be available all day at the city hall. City street improvement came up for further consideration, with ex-Mayor A. A. Rodenberger recommending a possible solution to resurfacing Main street at a cost within the city budget. Rodenberger, who supervised the original street surfacing, reported that from past experience he believed the length of Main street from the railroad tracks to the east-west road, a distance of approximately half a mile, can be surfaced for $10,000 if the city buys the gravel and oil, and county road equipment can be used.

Early Sale Seen Word has been received from Secretary of State Jordan of California that state approval of the proposed annexation of a second new addition to the city will pave the way for early sale of the 96 lots south of the last addition.

Confirmation from Washington to the bureau of reclamation is the last barrier to be hurdled. The city is asking that the lots be disposed of for cash in order to make available funds for immediate street work and other improvements in the new area. Otherwise, if sales are made on a basis of one-fourth down and the remainder over a period of three years, new property owners must wait for improvement work.

The new zoning ordinance restricting building will be extended to the new addition. Manager William Shepherd of the Tulelake office of The California Oregon Power company suggested to the council that his company be contacted relative to paying power cables for street lights before any street improvement work is started. Irrigation water rates go into effect May 20, and Mayor W. R. Moore states that with use of the new city well, ample water will be available for taking care of irrigation needs in the city.

Sixteen county officials will be contacted on any plans that may be contemplated for establishment of a hospital here. The meeting adjourned after Rev. Hugh Bronson, pastor of the Tulelake Community Presbyterian church made application for a building permit for the proposed $43,000 building.

Car Prowls Reported

Car prowls are beginning to bother city police again after a lull of a few weeks. There were at least four of them Monday night.

C. V. Karns, 615 Commercial, reported a radio aerial and license bracket, containing Oregon tag 463-563, were lifted from his car while it was parked near the high school on Alameda street, and M. M. Young, 2424 White, had an aerial taken from his car while it was parked on Alameda at the same time. Myron Taylor, route 1, reported that two blankets, one brown and the other green, were taken from his machine while parked at 5th and Klamath.

Someone did some damage to the wiring of a truck parked in the Juckeland Truck Service lot last night, took gas tank caps off two others and apparently spent the night in a passenger car on the lot. The Lowe candy shop, 822 Main, was burglarized Monday night but only about 15 pounds of candy were taken. Money in the cash register was either overlooked or ignored.

Phone Strike Probe Slated WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—President Truman Tuesday created a special board of inquiry to investigate the threatened strike of long lines telephone workers. The president signed an executive order creating the board under the Taft-Hartley act. The dispute involves certain employees of the American Telephone and Telegraph company (long lines division) represented by the CIO American Union of Telephone workers. Mr. Truman said the dispute "threatens to result in a work stoppage imperiling national health and safety."

WHY WE SAY "MONEY"

The Roman goddess, Juno Moneta, inhabited the temple to which the mint was attached. Here the first money ever coined in a mint was produced. It was called moneta in honor of the goddess. Later the spelling changed to money.

Levy Vote Will Determine Recreation Expansion Fate

(Editor's Note: This is one of several articles appearing this week on levy issues to be on the ballot at Friday's election.) An enlarged recreation program or one cut to the barest minimum is the choice to face voters Friday when they vote on the city's 1 1/2 mill continuing levy for recreation, according to Recreation Director Sam Smith.

The city budget committee has two alternate plans to consider in budgeting for the 1948-49 fiscal year, depending on whether or not the levy goes over. Based on the $6405.78 now available for the recreation department from its present 1/2 mill, the city will be able to support the following recreation program this summer: Ewauna park, playground planned for the old high school site at 5th and High, a woodworking class at Klamath Union high school, and a summer swimming project at the high school pool.

Expansion Plan With the $25,625 made possible by the new levy, the city can operate: Playgrounds at Fairview, KUHS, Mills, Pelican and Roosevelt schools, Ewauna park, playground leadership at Moore park, special arts and crafts instruction, baseball, rhythmic activities for small children and an enlarged swimming program at KUHS and at Oregon Vocational school.

"The levy simply means the difference between one playground in town or seven, and no new development or $6050 for new development," Smith explained. He said the cost of the new levy, based on 18,000 people, is about 2 1/2 cents per person per week.

All money for salaries and office supplies as well as for playgrounds and recreation must come from the recreation fund with no help from any other city money because of the 1/2-mill levy voted for recreation in 1938.

"If the levy doesn't pass, we'll be much worse off this year than last year," Smith said, explaining that because of activities discontinued during wartime, there was a surplus of $4000 in the recreation budget. That $4000 was used to operate last summer's playground set-up, augmenting the 1/2 mill. This year, the surplus has been used up.

Beating Held Death Cause

Violet Lynch Kirk, 31-year-old Beatty Indian woman, met her death Monday morning in a "homicide by beating" . . . multiple stab wounds and brain contusions." Dr. George H. Adler, county coroner, reported after an autopsy conducted Tuesday morning.

An official death certificate to that effect is to be signed. Her husband, Jesse Lee Kirk, 53, is held in the county jail on a federal charge of murder and has requested a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Bert C. Thomas. The hearing may be set for next Monday.

Officers said Kirk has admitted beating his wife at their home near Beatty last Saturday night, but denied using any weapon against her. Before she died she is said to have made a statement in the presence of hospital attendants and officers accusing her husband of beating her.

Since the incident which allegedly resulted in Mrs. Kirk's death occurred on the Klamath Indian reservation, the case is in the hands of the federal government but Dr. Adler performed the autopsy by agreement with federal authorities. The coroner said that brain injury was the cause of death and that a "sharp or pointed instrument was used by the assailant to inflict stab wounds."

Second Law Suit Filed On Johnson

A second law suit, this one for $17,500, has been brought against Paul Johnson, 26-year-old former bookkeeper for Klamath Concrete Pipe company.

Johnson already is named as defendant in a $12,000 damage suit instituted by the pipe company and a felony charge of larceny, all three growing out of his employment with the company prior to last December 7.

On December 7, 1947, the office of the pipe company was wrecked by an explosion of as-yet undetermined origin, and Johnson was the only employee of the company to come to the office that Sunday morning.

The latest damage suit, for $17,500, intimates that Johnson may have had something to do with the blast. It requests judgment against the former bookkeeper because he was in "sole and exclusive charge" of the building that morning and "allowed" the explosion which did an estimated $15,000 damage to the building and another $2500 to records and items of business.

The $12,000 suit is for recovery of that amount in company funds which Johnson allegedly received and did not account for during his term of employment with the pipe company.

The law firm of Farrens and Maxwell, with U. S. Balentine, represents the company in both law suits. Johnson is free on bail awaiting a preliminary hearing on the criminal charge, which accuses him of stealing one check from the company.

Late Political Matter Restricted

The Herald and News has long followed a policy of prohibiting the "last minute" use of letters to the editor on political matters. Letters appearing too late for an answer are considered unfair by those who disagree, and their use has always led to more or less trouble.

Therefore, no letter on candidates or issues will be used later than Wednesday except those which are in answer to others already used. No new letters may be opened in the late letters used on Thursday. The editors reserve the right to judge the fairness of material in any late letter and the propriety of its use under the rule.

Because of legal restrictions on political advertising, none can be used later than Thursday's editions. Advertisements to appear on Thursday must be received at the newspaper office by 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Suit Filed On Equipment

A suit for recovery of a diesel tractor and dual axle semi-trailer valued at $7000 has been brought against Hank Butts, construction contractor, by the Howe Motor company of Klamath Falls.

The suit contends that it has a prior claim by mortgage to the equipment that does Butts, who indicates he is holding the tractor and trailer as a lien on the PWB construction company for money due him.

Rose Motor company has a mortgage on the equipment and the complainant declares that no payments have been made on the mortgage since December, 1947.

Cease-Fire Order Said Violated

LAKE SUCCESS, May 19 (AP)—Israel charged Tuesday that the Arabs had violated a cease-fire agreement by entering the old walled sector of Jerusalem.

The charge was made in a telegram from Moshe Shertok, foreign secretary of the New Jewish state, to the United Nations security council. Shertok reported from Tel Aviv that the Arabs entered the walled citadel of Jerusalem Sunday.
