INDIANAPOLIS, May 26 (AP)—Dr. Lillian Moulton, consultant to the child guidance center at Riley hospital, says schools should abolish report cards, examinations, punishment and criticism of pupils.

She said all four breed fear and anxiety in children.

Dr. Moulton's views were expressed last night at a seminar sponsored by the Indianapolis Parent-Teacher association.

Dr. E. Vernon Hahn, another psychiatrist, differed sharply with Dr. Moulton's opinion.

"Discipline of the right kind is a necessity in developing the social-minded human being," he said.

His ship, the "Q 19," roamed the sea lanes disguised as a rusty old tramp steamer. Investigating enemy warcraft discovered the British navy's White Ensign and a battery of heavy guns when the steamer's false sides dropped away.
