

PTA Formed In Chiloquin On Wednesday

CHILOQUIN, May 26—A Parent-Teachers association was officially organized locally on Wednesday evening during a meeting of interested persons at the high school auditorium. Mrs. Hugh R. Haddock, vice-chairman for the Klamath-Lake district of the state PTA, Mrs. Ronald Fisher, president of Fairview PTA and procedure and by-laws chairman for the county, Mrs. Earl Sheridan, president of Shasta PTA and chairman of congressional publications for the state PTA, and Hugh Haddock, all of Klamath Falls, were present to help with problems of organization.

Lou Kellison, Frank Parker and Mrs. Homer Beatty were chosen as an impartial committee to select this year's winner of the PTA cup, given annually to the outstanding senior on the basis of accumulative points in activities, leadership, scholarship and citizenship. Mrs. Earl Hall was named alternate.

Frank Parker and D. L. Miller will meet with the recreation committee of the city council to promote supervised playground activities and other projects.

The PTA will sponsor a weekly story hour for tiny tots, a weekly teen-age dance, and a 4-H canting I club during the summer. One of the PTA members, Mrs. Gerry Wolff, will teach tap, character, and ballroom dancing. Plans to promote a pre-school age medical and dental clinic are under way.

Temporary officers chosen to serve until fall were Mrs. Gerry Wolff, president; Mrs. Earl Hall, secretary, and Mrs. Fred Pope, treasurer.

It was suggested to the reporter that an explanation of why PTA had not functioned during the winter be included in this summary. Plans last fall were that after the city council had decided what to do about recreation the group would go ahead. Misunderstanding came about as the council believed PTA would decide and the council would go ahead. At any rate, it seems there will be cooperation from now on and all adults are urged to offer their services to provide a worthwhile summer for local children and young people.

War Plants To Stay In National Pool

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—The senate armed services committee Tuesday approved legislation to keep 254 government war plants in a national defense reserve pool.

Defense officials told senators the new law is needed to prevent many wartime plants from being sold or scrapped.

The plants are among 1200 built at a cost of $14,000,000,000 during the war.

Some of the 254 plants have been leased or sold under an agreement that allows the government to take them back within 120 days in case of an emergency of war.

A pool of machine tools from war reserves also would be created by the senate bill.

The last great advance of ice during the ice ages is estimated to have covered one-fifth of the earth's surface.

WHY WE SAY

This slogan was used during World War I. When the United States entered the war, the tank corps chose "treat 'em rough" as its motto. Though grammatically incorrect, it was printed upon hundreds of thousands of posters and displayed in every town in the country.

Archaeological Survey Of Upper Lake To Be Continued

CHILOQUIN, May 26—A continuation of an archaeological survey of the Upper Klamath lake region will be conducted this summer under the direction of Dr. L. S. Cressman, director of the anthropology department of the University of Oregon. University students will make up the members of the field crew.

The group of 22 is expected to arrive in the early part of June and work until the end of July in a further effort to correlate and interpret artifacts in relation to the story of human life of an earlier period. Cressman led a similar group in the Lower Klamath basin eight years ago and last year camped on lower Williamson river. Definite evidence of human habitation in the era before the eruption of Mt. Mazama was found in the area and has encouraged Cressman to continue research locally.

The students will camp on the Wolf ranch on Sprague river, several miles upstream from Chiloquin. Some will do excavating while others may spend the time in contacting older Indians and learning of a culture fast disappearing. Permission of the Klamath Indian tribe was sought by Cressman last year and it was granted as was that of the reclamation bureau and individual Indians upon whose land digging was done then and where it will be continued this year.

land digging was done then and where it will be continued this year.

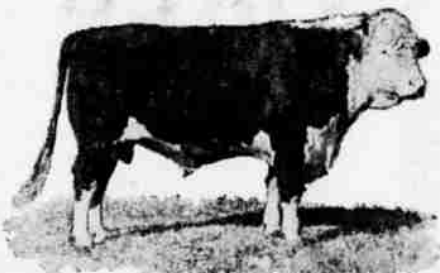

During the ice ages the average thickness of ice over much of the northern part of the world was 10,000 feet.
