Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

THIS department has never been especially enthusiastic about daylight savings time . . . However, if our neighbors all go for it, there seems no sensible alternative . . . The difference between California and Oregon sections of the Klamath basin is already making some inconvenience . . . Farmers don't like it, for good reasons, especially in the harvest seasons . . . But a lot of our farmers are in areas that have it already.

EPLEY

In a recent Satevepost story, a girl's eyes were twice described as blue as Crater lake when viewed from 10,000 feet up . . . The distant viewing, I assume, is of the lake, not the eyes . . . Lane county voters defeated a county manager proposal at the recent election . . . Charlie Stark, the chamber manager, thinks it's time for Klamath to start after some conventions . . . Not the big kind that overflow our housing facilities and thus embarrass us, but small ones that fit into the accommodations we have . . . The State Elks association will probably come here in 1949 . . . That may tax our facilities, but I'm sure the town will be glad to have the Brother Bills on hand.

There is a revival of talk of using voting machines in Oregon . . . It was tried once in Portland but the public didn't like it . . . Heavy balloting makes counting a long and tedious task, and the state may eventually come to the machines which are used to a considerable extent in the East . . . In the meantime, widespread use of counting boards will help a lot, and it is to be hoped that every precinct of any substantial registration—and that's most of them in Klamath county—will have counting boards at the fall election.

Charter Issue

SISKIYOU county, which considered and rejected a charter plan for its government a year or so ago, is going to have another try at it.

As a result of a petition filed with the supervisors, an election of freeholders to prepare a proposed charter is set for June 1. The results of the work of the freeholders group will be presented to the people of the county for a decision at the general election in the autumn.

Included in the list of candidates for freeholder are W. H. Weitkamp and Ivan Rose of Tulelake, and C. E. Motschenbacher of Dorris.

Because of the tremendous growth that has been made in Eastern Siskiyou county in recent years, it deserves full representation on the board that prepares the proposed changes in the county's government.

It is thus only fair to suggest to residents of all Siskiyou county that the men from Eastern Siskiyou county be elected to the freeholders board.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

COMMUNIST technique, fully adopted by Henry Wallace, is beyond belief. They have now started a terrific propaganda to give the impression that the United States started the cold war. For at least two years, every Soviet official of importance, not only within Soviet Russia but in the United Nations and throughout the world, has been attacking the United States, American institutions and American personalities, including President Truman. When before has any country submitted without reply or reprisal to such attacks as Vishinsky made upon the United States on its own soil loaned to UN?

On the continent of Europe, the cold war was concentrated upon the United States with every weapon of smear, deceit, humiliation. Among the peoples who were eating our wheat and wearing our clothes, to whose children we were sending the chance to survive, the Soviet propaganda machine worked mercilessly to defame and denounce our motives. The billions of dollars in food and commodities were described as the poison of imperialism. Our pity and compassion were denounced as enslavement. Never in all his years of madness did Hitler denounce the United States with equal venom.

The Soviet Dream

OUR objective was peace. At San Francisco, at Potsdam, at the United Nations, Soviet Russia fought every constructive effort toward peace. Foul and wearisome became the repetitious veto, which served no other purpose than to prove to the Russian satellites and the weakened nations of Europe and Asia that the United States was nothing, that the world had to go the Soviet way or suffer Soviet antagonism and perhaps conquest through revolution.

The premise upon which Soviet Russia functions is the "inevitable" collapse of the American capitalist economy. You may recall that no sooner was the fighting war over than Henry Wallace, as secretary of commerce, issued phony statistics to indicate a collapse. "Boom or bust" was made into one of those slogans that captures the eye and stupifies the mind. A series of strikes was encouraged by communist-directed unions and then there was a "second round" and then there was to be a "third round" of strikes and wage increases and economic disturbances.

Meanwhile, all the world was demanding aid from us and we were giving aid. And Soviet Russia was conducting a "cold war" designed to force upon us a huge bill for rearmament; costly for us, yet essential in view of their attitude. Surely, they assumed, no country could stand such a burden and not collapse. We not only did not collapse but we took on aid to Greece, Turkey and China; we took on the Marshall plan; we took on almost a wartime military budget. And although it all hurts and we know that we shall suffer from these costs—we have not collapsed. We are stronger, more united in our purposes than we were even during the fighting war.

• • • •

Who Started It?

SO now they want us to end the cold war. Wallace writes to Stalin and Stalin writes to Wallace, and the American communists and the remaining fellow-travelers shriek: "Stalin has spoken! Tremble and obey!"

But the fact is that we did not start the cold war; we have conducted no cold war. We have pursued a constructive program of building a peaceful world in the United Nations. We have offered economic aid to nations in Europe and Asia. We have even permitted Soviet Russia to buy supplies here, and the Marshall plan calls for East-West trade. We have never sought to deprive a single nation of its freedom. We have even sought to rehabilitate our enemies.

How can we stop a cold war which has been a one-way war: Soviet Russia against the United States? They have been defeated in that cold war. They have been defeated by the resilience of the peoples of Western Europe. They have been defeated by the survival of Western European civilization. They have been defeated by the amazing productivity of the American people.

Instead of recognizing how vile they have been, they turn upon us and ask us to quit fighting them. Is that not the normal conduct of a bully? There can be bullies among nations as in the schoolyard.

The World Today

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The failure of the United Nations thus far to achieve a truce in the Arab-Jewish war is tragic for the Holy Land and it's tragic for the peace organization, since it points to disunity within the UN itself.

The Arabs, while playing for time by calling on the UN to lay down exact terms for a political settlement, wouldn't agree to the truce called for except on conditions which included the demand that recognition of the new Jewish state of Israel be abandoned. This, of course, the Jews wouldn't accept.

DeWitt Mackenzie

So the conflict continues. It swirls about the birthplace of the prince of peace. It rages by the Mount of Olives, which stands for much that is cherished in Christian history—the place where Christ taught the disciples the Lord's prayer. It is proceeding within the walls of ancient Jerusalem, where a small Jewish force has been stubbornly clinging to its hazardous position. Shells from Arab guns continue to batter the Holy City.

No Trend Yet

The war is still too young to disclose its trend. Not so the affairs of the United Nations—a house divided against itself. It is clear that if it cannot find a method of halting this new outbreak, its influence in the eyes of the world may drop so low as to render it impotent.

One of the greatest obstacles to peace lies in the fact that America and Britain are lined up on opposite sides. British Foreign Secretary Bevin told the house of commons yesterday that England will continue to fulfill treaty obligations to furnish officers for the Trans-Jordan Arab legion unless this becomes "inconsistent with our obligations to the United Nations." On the other hand, observers figured that the Arab rejection of the truce was likely to harden the American stand favoring the Jewish state.

The clash between America and Britain is further seen in the question of an American loan to Israel.

As things stand, the fate of the Holy Land depends on how long it takes the great powers to compose their own divergencies and bring the full weight of the United Nations to bear against the rupture of peace in Palestine.

Poppies For Veterans

Carrie Sue Heilbronner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heilbronner, is getting her quota of American Legion auxiliary memorial poppies to sell downtown Saturday. With her is Mrs. Loy Barker, auxiliary poppy sale chairman. Contributions from the sale of the small crepe paper flowers will go toward child welfare and rehabilitation for veterans.

Moose To Take In 18 Members

A class of 18 candidates will be initiated into the Moose lodge at a regular meeting, tonight, Thursday at 8 o'clock.

The initiation will be the last in the current membership campaign which ends today, and honors James A. Davis, founder of Moosehart, home for children, near Chicago. Before his death, Mr. Davis requested that a membership campaign replace floral tributes in his honor.

After the meeting, a Dutch lunch will be served.

Eugene Bus Lines Get Extension OK

SALEM, May 27 (AP)—Public Utilities Commissioner John H. Carkin today authorized Oregon motor stages to extend its Eugene city bus service beginning next Tuesday.

The new routes are:

From city limits of Eugene to Cal oYung route, via Ferry street bridge, Country club road, Willa Gillespie road, Cal Young road, Gilman road, Norkenzie road, Cal Young road, Willa Gillespie road, Country club road, and Ferry street bridge.

From city limits of Eugene to Riverview road, via Franklin avenue, Riverview road, underpass and Franklin avenue.

Carkin said the new routes would serve extensive housing developments.

Ed Osborne and Karl Gentry, Douglas Thomas was program chairman.

One new member, Park, was greeted and W. G. McClymonds was re-instated.

Klamathites Tell Of Trips

Reports from two men who recently represented Klamath Falls at distant events were heard by the chamber of commerce directors Wednesday.

Charles Stark, chamber manager, told of a session of the western convention bureau held at Reno. Stark was named a regional vice president of the organization. He said he feels that Klamath Falls should now undertake the sponsorship here of small conventions.

M. B. Houser of Safeway stores described the recent goodwill flight of a large group of Oregonians to Mexico. He declared that Mexican hospitality was "out of this world."

Land Opening Terminology Explained By USBR Office

In order to clarify a misunderstanding which seems to prevail in the public's mind regarding the forthcoming opening of lands for homestead entry in the Klamath project, the following interpretation applies:

Land Opening Dates—A public notice announcing the opening of public lands to entry, sets the date that starts the period of filing. It does not mean that a public drawing will be held on that date.

Preference Right of Veterans—After the public notice has been issued advertising the land opening, veterans of World War II, who can qualify under the provisions of the public notice, are entitled to a 90-day preference period in which to file their applications.

Public Drawing — The drawing for awards takes place after the filing period has been completed, and all applicants have been notified of the action of the examining board who judged their qualifications. Sufficient time most elapse between the closing date of filing, and the date of drawing, to allow for the clearing of cases involving appeals from the action of the examining board.

A tentative schedule for the forthcoming land opening, indicates that the public notice will probably be available in the early part of July; 90-days of preference period for filing would set the closing date in mid October, and the date for the public drawing in the latter part of December at the earliest.

Copies of the public notice and other necessary forms for making application will be available at the office of the bureau of reclamation at the air base in Klamath Falls. Written requests for the material will be filled as soon as it becomes available. In the meantime, the offices of the bureau of reclamation at Washington, D. C., Sacramento, Calif., and Klamath Falls, Ore., will accept names and addresses for the files of persons wishing to receive the public notice and application forms. Lists of names made in previous years will not be considered.

Motormac Rate Rule Changed

Broken service ratings of motor machinist second and third class will be discontinued as of June 15, 1948, in the U. S. navy.

Vernon Chitwood, navy recruiter for this district, said that on and after June 15, 1948, otherwise qualified "broken service" personnel who were discharged in motor machinist rates will be accepted for re-enlistment as firemen only.

The ex-navy men who were discharged in the above rate and have been out over 90 days, and plan on re-enlisting should call at the navy recruiting office in Klamath Falls in plenty of time to process their enlistment prior to June 15, Chitwood said.
