

Lower Wheat Rates Sought

PENDLETON, Ore., June 3 (AP)—Oregon's wheat commission has decided to fight for lower freight rates on wheat and flour, chairman Jens Terjeson of Pendleton announced today.

Present rates do not permit wheat and flour produced in Oregon and other Northwest states to be sold to eastern markets on equal terms with wheat grown in other areas, he said.

The commission at its recent meeting here outlined a broad program of research and education for the coming year. It includes a study of various markets at home and abroad where Northwest wheat and flour are sold. This study is expected to point to ways of expanding these markets, Terjeson said.

He said, however, that it would be unprofitable to ship northwest wheat elsewhere in the nation as long as transportation costs remained at present levels.

The commission proposed to study the freight rate problem in cooperation with producers, dealers, millers and others interested in the Northwest wheat industry.

Terjeson said the problem included water as well as rail transportation.

The commission also decided to expand its research program to develop better varieties of wheat and to find new uses for wheat.

All Aboard

A long-awaited trip became a realization for 73-year-old Edmond Allemeech of Chiloquin. After a flight from Klamath Falls to New York last week, Allemeech boarded a plane at La Guardia field for Belgium, his old home and birthplace, where he will visit an older brother whom he has not seen since 1906 when he came to this country. He will be gone most of the summer.

Ashland Plans Big Fourth

ASHLAND, June 2—Plans are already under way for one of the most gala Fourth of July celebrations ever to be held in this city. Henry Enders reports as chairman of the planning committee. The affair annually attracts thousands of visitors from Southern Oregon and Northern California over the holiday.

Ashland's beautiful Lithia park will be the central meeting place for the record number of visitors expected to invade the town over the week-end. Special holiday features will include a baseball game between the Ashland Lithians and Cheney Studs of Central Point, a gigantic parade, special games and contests for youngsters, a rodeo, traditional fireworks and dances.

Each of the special events will be overseen by "Miss Ashland" and her court to be chosen at festivities Friday evening, July 2.

EVAPORATION

In a single hot summer day, as much as 50 barrels of water may evaporate from the surface of the leaves of a large elm tree, says Dr. Curtis May, shade tree specialist of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Mrs. Pawley's Suit Vetoed

MIAMI, Fla., June 2 (AP)—A campaign by his former wife caused the resignation recently of William D. Pawley as U. S. ambassador to Brazil, Circuit Judge George E. Holt ruled in a divorce suit here.

Holt yesterday dismissed Mrs. Annie Hahr Pawley's separate maintenance suit and upheld Pawley's Cuban divorce.

In his 11-page opinion Holt said Pawley is not a resident of Florida, as Mrs. Pawley contended, and that evidence disclosed he gave his former wife $170,000 after his divorce, although the Cuban divorce made no alimony provision.

The court said Pawley "was subjected to one of the most humiliating experiences one in great public life can endure—a vindictive wife—for no reason at all except to satisfy her own impossible desire."

"Her campaign was so successful," the court added, "that he was

(to prevent further embarrassment to the United States government) compelled to resign as ambassador to Brazil, the great and friendly nation to the south of us."
