Thirteen per cent of all veterans training in schools and on-the-job GI bill and Public Law 16 are taking institutional on-farm training and other agricultural courses, the veterans administration reports.

A recent study of the principal courses and employment objectives of 2,535,385 World War II veterans in all types of training showed that 340,874 were farm trainees.

Institutional on-farm training, available to eligible veterans, combines organized group instruction in agricultural and related subjects with supervised work experience on the farm.

While in training, veterans may receive monthly subsistence allowances, varying with the number of hours of instruction received. Maximum allowances are from $65 to $87.50 for those with no dependents, from $90 to $93.75 for those with one dependent, and $90 to $97.50 for those with more than one dependent.

Question of the Week

Salesmen In England Get Instructions

BRIDLINGTON, England (AP)—The buyers' market has returned to England. But, say most merchants, it was gone so long most salesmen have forgotten how to sell.

To teach salesmen how to say something to customers other than "sorry, we are all out of that item," the local chamber of commerce has issued these 12 tips.

1. Always be neat.
2. Greet customers pleasantly because people just naturally avoid a sourpuss.
3. Be courteous instead of nosy, gossipy or too friendly.
4. Refrain from flattery and go easy on the "soft soap."
5. Make friends with children and pets.
6. Be alert and anticipate the customer's needs.
7. Sell, don't high pressure customers.
8. Do your best and don't kid yourself that you are getting by the easy way.
9. Make friends by promptly handling complaints.
10. Always be cheerful.
11. Be sure your sales story is sincere, but don't make it sound like a recitation.
12. Don't carry gossip. The customer reasons "if he gossips about other customers he probably will gossip about me."
