Gems Belabor Santa Rosans For 19-1 Win

Pittsburg Keeps Pace By Edging Redding Brownies

Back on their friendly home grounds, the Klamath Gems turned everything into runs last night but failed to gain on the Pittsburg Diamonds in their tandem race for the Far West league's first place. The Gems whacked Santa Rosa 19-1 and Pittsburg edged the Redding Browns 6-5.

The Diamonds hold a game and a half lead.

Southpaw Niles Jordan had an easy time marking up his eleventh win of the season, although he had to do considerable pitching with men on base. Jordan struck out 11, walked nine and gave up five hits.

The Gems took advantage of the erratic tossing of three Santa Rosa pitchers to score 19 times on just 14 hits. In the third frame they got six runs on one hit, five walks, one hit batsman and one error. Milt Lloyd was the victim.

Seven runs came almost as easily in the fifth, on four hits and four walks. Morrie Nordell tripled with the bases loaded in that frame and in the eighth he got another three-bagger with two aboard.

Talmadge Barron followed Lloyd to the hill and Bob Blengino came in from the outfield to finish the game.

REESE RELIEVED

During the course of the game First Sacker Bill Reese had to be relieved because of a sore knee, and Butch Faller played first the latter part of the game. Faller has been laid up with a charleyhorse in his leg and Jack Buick is holding down second base.

Joe Nicholas is nominated to pitch for the Gems tonight in the second game of the series, and he will face Santa Rosa's Don Kornahrens.

In other Far West league games last night, the third-place Willows Cardinals negotiated five double plays in downing Vallejo 7-1 and the Medford Nuggets hung up a league record of 11 errors in giving a 17-12 match to Marysville.

Britons Drive Sulkies Over Hamburg Track As American Trotting Goes Over

HAMPERED—Butch Faller, regular second baseman of the Klamath Falls Gems, is hampered now with a sore leg and Jack Buick has taken over his place in the infield. Faller, however, got into action last night against the Santa Rosa Cats with a two-inning stint at first base.

HAMBURG, Germany — The American sport of trotting, imported to Germany, has become a favorite with British soldiers.

A number of Britons are driving sulkies over the Hamburg track.

Maj. L. Evelyn Jones of Frinton-on-Sea, England, president of the Anglo-German Trotting club, is credited with reviving the sport after the war.

Trotting came to Germany early this century when an American trotter called Peter the Great was imported. Today his descendants are trotting on the Hamburg track.

The Farmsen track in Hamburg was a displaced persons camp after the war. Major Jones, then adjutant of the London Welsh regiment, experimentally took a sulky around the track. "From then on I was an addict," he says. He organized a regimental meeting from which developed a British trotting club. Later it was merged with the old German club and now is a big business, handling meetings at which large sums of money pass through the tote.

Many of the British soldier-drivers have earned good reputations on the German track. They are even known to German punters by nicknames such as "Flash" and "Speedy."

Master Sgt. John Rogers of the Royal Berkshire regiment, has had a particularly successful two years. He's from Hetton-le-Hole, County Durham.

A founder-member and successful rider is George Sims, of Kensington, London, now with the control commission. Although he took up trotting only recently, Harry Barrett, an Ipswich horse dealer before the war, has had several wins.

Getting back his form again is Lawrence Murphy of Broad Green, Liverpool. He was in the hospital four months after being thrown from his sulky. With his favorite horse, Eva Challenger, he has placed seven out of nine times. He is also a British soccer referee and in 1938 he refereed the northern amateur cup final.

At Farmsen there are now about 400 horses owned by about 40 stables. A win is worth between $2400 and $3000 and second place about $1400.

But for the soldier drivers the only reward is the thrill of the sport and perhaps a small gift like a cup or cigarette case from the owner. Club rules forbid acceptance of money.

From 8 To 80, They Flock To The Forest Hills Traps

FRANCONIA, N. H. (NEA)—The universal appeal of trapshooting was demonstrated at the annual five-day registered tournament of the Forest Hills Association here.

Prize winners included a 75-year-old veteran whose daughter competed; a mother of eight and grandmother of 14 who outshot her husband, and a 12-year-old boy who won more trophies than his father, a professional.

Contestants from 11 states entered the only combination competitive and vacation shoot in the country.

J. L. Flagg, 75, of Mawah, N. J., won the veterans' and the Class C crown.

Mrs. Edith Lanterman of Morristown, N. J., took the women's honors for the second straight year. She has eight children, 14 grandchildren.

Dick Baldwin, 12, will rank among the nation's best.

Other shooters included W. B. Parmer, 74, of Newburyport, Mass., who is president of the Forest Hills Trapshooting Association, and a father-son team of J. H. Hughes Jr. and J. H. Hughes III of Fall River, Mass.

Young Hughes missed the all-around championship by one bird, with 672 out of 700 after the five days. Shaughnessy won a 30-target shoot-off with a perfect score as Hughes missed one.

They're never too old or too young to trapshoot.

LaBrucherie Will Tutor Engineers

LOS ANGELES, July 20 (AP)—Bert Labrucherie, who tutored the UCLA Bruin football team into the Rose Bowl, January 1, 1947, will coach the Caltech Engineers of Pasadena.

Caltech, strong on scholarship but generally weak on the gridiron, is a member of the Southern California conference.

Labrucherie resigned from UCLA, under pressure, last year and was succeeded by Red Sanders of Vanderbilt.

Portland Netman Advances

SEATTLE, July 20 (AP) — Play in the Washington state tennis championship moved into the third day today with only one seeded performer missing from any of the divisions.

That was Seth Peterson of San Francisco, top-seeded in junior boys' singles. Peterson was eliminated yesterday by unseeded Jim Demas of Sacramento, 10-8, 6-4 in second round play.

Jack Shoemaker of Los Angeles, sixth-seeded in men's singles, had a narrow squeak before getting past Les Patton of Seattle. Shoemaker finally won out 12-10, 8-6.

Emery Neale, Portland, making his first start at No. 1 seeding in men's singles, easily measured veteran Mel Drango of Seattle, 6-4, 6-4, and his principal competitor, Glen Bassett of UCLA lost only one game in downing Charles Raymer of Seattle, 6-1, 6-0.

The eastern timber wolf once ranged east throughout the Atlantic states as far south as Georgia.

SUPPORT

PORTLAND, July 20 (AP)—The first price-support federal purchase of potatoes this year was reported today.
