

Speed Urged For Flower Show Entries

Juniors who are planning to enter exhibits of posters and bird houses and feeding stations in the coming flower show Thursday, August 25, are urged by the committee to be at work on the projects, particularly the posters which are to be displayed prior to the exhibit in windows of business houses. Mrs. H. L. Stone is chairman of the junior division and may be contacted for any information needed.

There will be five junior classes, bird houses, posters advertising the fall show, collections of weeds which are correctly labeled, animals or birds made from vegetables or fruits and miniature arrangements not over six inches high.

Cash prizes will be given.

Mrs. Stone announces the following point scoring for the two projects which should now be under way: posters—design, 20 points; originality, 20; advertising appeal, 20; and decorative quality, 20, which add up to 100.

On the bird houses and feeding stations—design, including scale, 40 points; suitability for the object, 20; features for protective measures, 20; wind shelter and food salvage, 20.

The flower show, sponsored by the garden group of the Klamath Falls Library club has planned this year's exhibit from 2 to 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Fremont school.

All juniors up to 17 years of age are eligible to compete in this division.

PORTLAND, Aug. 11 (AP)—The huckleberry season will start soon on Mount Hood, for a mecca of pickers each year at this time.

Foresters said bushes were well-loaded, and the berries should be at their prime by the middle of next week.

AT LAST! Science Solves Many "Bad Skin" Problems!

The Skin and Its Enemies

NEW SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH SHOWS HOW ENCA CHECKS GROWTH OF GERMS IN SKIN

These technical facts are for those interested not only in what ENCA does, but how ENCA works and why it is so effective.

YOUR SKIN. This scientifically accurate micrograph shows how a cross-section of your skin looks in the microscope:

Note the top surface of the skin is not smooth, but rough and scaly. "Germs"—bacteria and fungi—of externally caused skin troubles lodge in this scaly outer layer of the skin where they grow and multiply—sometimes infecting the hair follicles, pores, sebaceous glands and tissues.

THE "GERMS" pictured below are only a few of hundreds of different kinds occurring in skin troubles:

Bacteria	Fungi
STAPHYLOCOCCUS PYOGENES —usually present in pimples of acne and acne-like lesions.	TRICHOPHYTON GYPSEUM and PITYRIASIS VERSICOLOR —fungi often present in so-called "athlete's foot."
STREPTOCOCCUS (Short Chain) often occurring in dermatitis, impetigo, and pyoderma.	MICROSPORUM LANOSUM —fungus found in extremely infectious smooth-skin ringworm.
STREPTOCOCCUS (Long Chain) frequently occurring in dermatitis, and pyoderma faciale.	MICROSPORUM AUDOUINII —small spore fungus found in ringworm of glabrous skin.

Laboratory tests prove ENCA gently exposes germs by keratolytic action, safely checks germ growth with its germicidal and fungicidal ingredients, then helps heal skin lesions present in surface skin disorders.
