GRAIN PRICES HOLD STEADY

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Grain prices did not show much change on the board of trade today. A mid-morning rally sent nearby wheat futures up around a cent, but much of this gain was lost later in the session. In contrast, July wheat sank around 2 cents at times.

The mid-morning buying flurry in nearby wheat contracts followed trade rumors the commodity credit corporation had again raised its price for red wheat delivered at Atlantic seaboard ports. Otherwise, there was a dearth of price influencing news for the second straight day.

Wheat closed ¼ lower to 1⅛ higher, September $2.01¾-½, corn was ¼ lower to ½ higher, September $1.22⅝-½, oats were unchanged to ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, September $1.22⅜-½, rye was ¼-½ higher, September $1.44½, soybeans were ¼-½ higher, November $2.45½-⅝, and lard was unchanged to 7 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.50.

Market Takes Downward Dip

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Leading stocks dropped fractions to more than two points today in the largest market decline in more than two months.

Final prices were at the lows for the day in most cases.

Only meager offerings of stock were enough to force the market lower.

Weakness became more pronounced in late dealings when lots of only 100 shares or so appeared on the ticker tape at successively lower prices.

Activity was no more than routine, with turnover in the neighborhood of 800,000 shares for the full session.

The current decline started Friday after the market had climbed to the high point of its summer rally and within least distance of the 1949 peak.
