

Dried Fruit Association Faces Suit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—A complaint charging the Northwest Dried Fruit Association, Portland, Ore., and its members with conspiring to create a monopoly in the sale of prunes has been dismissed by the federal trade commission.

Commissioner William A. Ayres, in an opinion in which the full commission concurred, said the complaint had involved a contract clause designed to protect sellers against delivery obligations. This hinged on whether the crop was unusually damaged because of weather conditions.

Ayres' ruling noted the association comprised virtually all the prune industry in Washington, Oregon and Idaho. The members produce what amounts to the nation's entire output of Italian-type prunes. The case involved the crop year of 1941-42.

The opinion concluded: "There is little to indicate that it would be in the public interest to institute further proceedings at this time to challenge the legality of the agreement by which the respondents adopted the uniform future sales contracts in 1919."

The Oregon Prune exchange, Portland; The Washington Growers Packing corp., Vancouver, Wash., and Rosenberg Brothers and company, San Francisco and Portland, were also parties to the case.

LICENSE CRACKDOWN
LONGVIEW, Aug. 25 (AP)—A crackdown on persons having out-of-state licenses on their cars has begun here. The state patrol already has made 30 arrests. Those arrested were unable to give satisfactory explanations for why they were driving with out-of-state plates. Most of them were from Oregon.

Drunk Takes To Fire To Force Way Out Of Jail

SCIO, Ore., Aug. 25 (AP)—Earl Fred Oakley, Scio, jailed as drunk and disorderly, decided to burn down the jail door and get out.

So he got a wooden box—things are a bit informal in the one-room frame jail—broke it into kindling and set it afire against the wooden door. The kindling burned and so did the roof. The door didn't.

A passer-by in this western Oregon town of 400 turned in the alarm. Fire Chief Fred Bryant turned the hose on Police Chief Howard Jordan and kept him wet down while he unlocked the door.

Oakley, who had splashed water from a cell bucket on himself when the fire backfired, came out under his own power.

Today he's in the sturdier Linn county jail at Albany, confronted by a $154 fine and 60-day sentence on the drunk and disorderly charge. Police Chief Jordan, nursing a burned key hand, said he had asked the district attorney to draw up an arson charge, too.

Ford's theater, where Lincoln was shot, still stands in Washington, although it no longer is used for theatrical purposes.

Steel Face Report Hearing Extended
NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—The presidential fact-finding board in the steel industry labor dispute has extended its hearing through next Tuesday. That is the present deadline for submission of its recommendations to the White House.

The announcement showed that the board would have to ask for an extension of this deadline. Members had indicated previously that the White House would be agreeable to an extension.

However, neither the board members nor the parties at this time expect that an extension will be made in the 60-day time deadline, which is September 14.
