

SOCIETY

By Joan Faulon

MRS. HUGH O'CONNOR, (above, left) reigned over the Flower show as its chairman Thursday. The odd shaped fungus that Mrs. O'Connor is holding is bracket fungus, which she secured on the O'Connor ranch. This type of fungi is rarely found and is highly sought by chemists.

THIS IS A GOGGLY-GEE (center) that Gail Reinhart is holding. Gail won first prize in the junior division with this little animal. Lynette Kohn smiles with Gail over the clever creature. Goggly-gee is Gail's interpretation of a fictitious childhood pet.

ANY YOUNG LADY would be happy to announce her engagement, and Mary Robertson is a picture of a happy bride-to-be. Shown with Mary is her cousin, Helene Fischer, as she takes one of the heart-shaped announcements which told of Christmas holiday wedding plans.

Mary is a cousin of Mrs. George Fischer of Tulelake, with whom she has been making her home. Mary's fiance is Ransom Buck Turner of Rupert, Idaho. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Bates Turner of Idaho City.

A DEFT TOUCH was used in creating these corsages (shown above, left) which Mrs. Will Wood and Mrs. Horace Getz are holding. Mrs. Wood was chairman in charge of the corsage tree which is shown to her left.

THE ROADSIDE STAND (shown top, right) was one focal point of interest at the Klamath Flower show held Thursday at Fremont school. Shown viewing the stand are Mrs. Eric Majors, who chairmanned the building and arranged the stand, and Mrs. Olive Swinford.

GOLDEN TOPPED Jean Ledbetter (top, center) is as sunny as the over-sized sunflower she is watching. Little Jean was snapped as she stopped to explore the huge specimen.

TWO SISTERS (above, right) Mrs. Howard Graham and Mrs. Harry Boivin, comment on the corsage tree which received many compliments during the afternoon. The corsage tree was a tree of many colors with its branches covered with all shapes and varieties of summer blossoms.