

Lodges Give Firemen Life Saving Unit

LAKEVIEW, Sept. 2—A combination resuscitator, inhalator and aspirator has been purchased by the local Odd Fellows organization and placed in the hands of the Lakeview Volunteer Fire department for emergency use in Lake county.

The compact, portable instrument was purchased jointly by IOOF Lodge No. 63, Rebekah lodge No. 22, and Lakeview encampment No. 12. In a brief program at the Odd Fellows hall Tuesday night, August 30, the equipment was turned over to the fire department by Alfred Getty, vice grand of lodge No. 63 and accepted in behalf of the fire department and the people of Lake county by E. L. Ackerman, president of the Lakeview Volunteer Firemen's association.

Before the presentation, Getty gave a demonstration of the equipment before a group composed of the IOOF, Rebekahs, Encampment, and the fire department. The three-way equipment was purchased last week at a demonstration before the lodge here.

The E. and J. Resuscitator-Inhalator-Aspirator is a combination of three instruments each of which serves a distinct part in emergency life saving.

Cars Collide, Woman Cited

A police citation was doled out to an elderly Klamath Falls woman and another broke her glasses as the result of a minor two-car accident at Commercial and Elm at 8:52 Friday morning.

Mrs. Jean Porter, 64, was cited for running a stop sign, and Edna Bloom, 63, broke her glasses and received a scratch above her left eye.

City police said Mrs. Porter failed to make the stop when traveling south on Commercial and entered into a car driven by Emmett Leonard Barke, moving west on Elm.

Edna Bloom was a passenger in Mrs. Porter's car. Both women are school teachers, and were on their way to work at the time of the accident. Barke was not hurt.

Dry Forests Bring Appeal For Caution

SALEM, Sept. 2 (AP)—Foresters appealed to labor week-end travelers today to be careful with fires and matches in Oregon's powder-dry forests.

Acting State Forester George Spaur warned that a prolonged drought has left the woods in a highly critical condition. "In the event of an east wind," he said, "a spark on the loose could mean disaster."

He singled out five particularly dangerous spots: Southwestern Oregon, where it has not rained for 94 days; Eastern Oregon, which is the driest it has been in a decade; the Coos area, scene of the catastrophic Bandon fire; Douglas county; and the Tillamook burn and surrounding country.

"This is the worst weather in eastern Oregon since 1933," reported L. C. Moorhead, supervisor of the eastern Oregon fire district. "There has been no general rain since April 1." He said that in moisture tests crews went down 35 to 50 inches into the ground without finding any moisture.

Edward Schroeder, supervisor of the northwest district that includes the Tillamook Burn country, reported the "longest sustained fire here period since 1945—the year of the third Tillamook burn."

Foresters appealed to Oregonians not to start any man-made fires. So far that has been the cause of most of the 500 man-caused blazes out of the total 733 that have started on state and private land. The balance was due to lightning.

Despite the drought, the fire record so far this year has been good: only 12,000 acres of state and private land burned.

Six-Point British Aid Plan Expected

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—A tentative six-point plan for helping Britain out of its financial crisis is expected today from final discussions of American, British and Canadian fact-finding officials.

Representatives of the three governments have been meeting twice daily for the past week to explore the problem. They hope to complete an agenda today that will permit their foreign ministers next week to discuss these points:

1. Reducing further British purchases from the United States and increasing buying in non-dollar areas wherever possible.
2. Streamlining American customs rules to encourage more British exporters to send their goods to the United States.
3. Easing provisions of the 1946 British loan agreement to permit Britain to slow up purchases of American goods in favor of those from non-dollar countries.
4. Boosting American purchases of British commonwealth tin and rubber. The United States has been buying limited quantities to stockpile for an emergency.
5. Increasing American economic help to southeast Asian members of the British commonwealth to ease their demands on Britain's scarce dollar supply. The countries involved are reported to be India, Pakistan, and Malaya.
6. Calling a new tariff cutting conference some time next year to reduce duties on British exports to the United States.

The steps are intended as stop-gap measures to ease the drain on Britain's dwindling reserves. But officials agree they will not by themselves solve Britain's long-range problem. Her inability to earn enough dollars to pay for what it buys from the United States and Canada.

The basic solution to this is believed to be an intensive drive by the labor government to reduce British production costs and thus make it easier for British products to compete in the world market.

Registration In Tulelake Schools Down

TULELAKE, Sept. 2—Pupil registration in all schools that have reported indicate that first day registration, August 29, was lower than last year. Schools which have announced first day attendance are the high school, Tulelake elementary and Carr. Yet to report are Winema and the Grandview school at Newell.

Norman Esser, principal of the high school, announced a total of 118 or 20 below last year. By classes the Sophomores have the edge with 37, freshmen 36; juniors 26 and the seniors 17. This is the lowest first day registration for seniors in several years.

Esser explained the drop is partially due to lack of migrant farm labor in the community.

A class in bookkeeping which was not offered last year is the only change in the academic curriculum. All of the teachers reported for opening of the term except Louise Dusterheit who was delayed because of car trouble between New Hampshire and Los Angeles.

The elementary school registered the largest first day enrollment in the school's history which was 305. Harvey Reed, principal, reported that attendance in his building has doubled in the past three years.

Teachers in this building are Zola Slaughter, kindergarten; Hazel Emily Debelaney, 3rd; Hazel Baker, 4th; Doris Aikens, 5th; Paul Aikens, 6th; Lorraine Burke, 7th; Lucille Coyner, 8th.

Verla Parker will teach band and vocal classes; William Stewart is custodian and Mabel Freeman, Belle Stark and Katherine Neustadt will manage the cafeteria. Davis Ross is general supervisor and Kathleen Johns is health nurse.

M. V. Mitchell, principal at Carr, reports 53 on hand Monday with 19 in the joint 1st and 2nd grades taught by Mrs. Mitchell. Marilyn Mallen's 3rd and 4th grade group total 18 and the 5th-6th-7th and 8th taught by Mr. Mitchell have 16 students.

Few Firms Open Monday

City and county offices, retail establishments, banks, the post office, the state liquor store, city and county libraries and schools will hang padlocks on their doors Monday, Labor Day.

The Herald and News will not publish Monday.

There will be some food stores and entertainment spots open for business.

City and county school children will have their last holiday before settling down to the grind of classes Tuesday morning.

The Mexicans were being taken to Portland by truck.

4 In Court On Bad Check Felony Counts

Bad check passing landed four men and a woman in circuit court this morning, all up for arraignment on felony counts.

The woman, Mrs. LaVerda Maria Collman, 20, pleaded guilty to cashing a forged check for $75 at Montgomery Ward August 3, and was placed on probation for four years by Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg.

She also admitted forging a check for $50 at another local store and said the money would be repaid today.

L. J. Estes, in for revocation of a two-year probationary sentence, was placed on probation for five years on the provision that he make good several checks held against him. He was first placed on probation July 13.

Three men entered guilty pleas to charges of obtaining money by false pretenses, and will be sentenced Tuesday morning. They were James Wilson Havens Jr., a $5 check; Jurgen H. Pryor, a $30 check; and J. R. Powers, a $10 check. Pryor and Powers were arraigned yesterday afternoon.

Also in court yesterday afternoon was Virgil B. Woodrum, indicted on two counts of indecent exposure. He pleaded not guilty to both and is scheduled to stand separate trials October 24 and October 27.

Alfred H. Steiner, charged with larceny by bailee in taking a rented car to Reno, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced Tuesday.

Crowded Jail Doors Opened

EUGENE, Sept. 2 (AP)—All the prisoners arrested by city police on minor charges were at large today. Sheriff C. A. Swarts let them all out of jail yesterday, declaring that his county jail no longer had enough room for city prisoners.

The sheriff said the county jail was designed for eight prisoners; now has 25; and—with city prisoners thrown in, too—has been jammed with an average 35 to 45 during the past weeks.

City Police Chief Keith Jones, who hasn't got any cells of his own, appealed for quick construction of a city jail "to protect the public."

Barden Group Is Disbanded

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The house subcommittee which backed the Barden aid-to-education bill has been abolished.

It was one of four special subgroups dissolved yesterday by Chairman Leinaski (D-Mich.) of the house labor committee. Leinaski said all four sub-committees had completed their work.

The aid-to-education bill, offered by Reps. Barden (D-Mich.) was opposed by Catholic leaders because it excludes parochial schools from federal benefits. They contend church schools should receive aid for such things as bus transportation, textbooks and health.

The resultant controversy blocked all house action on federal aid to education.

How To Play Canasta: 2

Here's What A 'Canasta' Is

By WILLIAM F. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

The principal features of the new game of Canasta are the melding and the forming of Canastas.

Your melds and your partner's are combined, and one of you keeps all of them. You can add one or more cards to the melds of your own side, but not to those of your opponents.

The cards score for you if you meld them; against you if they are still in your hand when a player goes out. The card values are: Joker, 50; aces and deuces, 30 each; king down to the 8-spot, 10 each; 7 down to the 3, 5 each; red threes have a special value of their own.

The first or initial meld by you or your partner must be worth at least 50 points. After your score reaches 100, this minimum goes up to 90. At the 3000-point mark, it goes up to 120 (game is 5000).

After either partner has made a legal initial meld as explained above, either partner may meld by adding one or more cards to a previous meld made by his side or by making any other meld of three cards or more. Each new meld of three cards or more must have at least two natural cards.

You meld your cards by placing them face up on the table for scoring. Each meld must include at least two natural cards. You cannot put down one 8 and a deuce and a joker. You can put down two 8's and either a deuce or a joker, and call it three 8's. As a matter of fact, you can meld two 8's and three wild cards and thus have five 8's; but to complete a Canasta, you must have at least four natural cards and not more than three wild cards.

A Canasta consists of seven of a kind. You do not have to hold your cards until you get seven of a kind in order to score the bonus for a Canasta. You can start off by putting down, let us say, two aces and one wild card (no meld can be made with less than two natural cards). After the first meld you and your partner can add to those aces. Your meld remains spread out on the table until the seventh card is added, which now forms the Canasta.

When a meld is made that completes a Canasta, the Canasta should be gathered together. Before it is closed up, anyone has the right to examine it to make sure that it is a Canasta. After that, it should not be examined by anyone. If it is a natural Canasta (one in which no wild cards are used), you place a red card on top. If it is a Canasta made up of four or more natural cards and the balance wild cards, it is gathered together and a black card placed on top.

If a Canasta is made up of four red sixes, for example, and three wild on top, then, when the first black six is discarded, exchange it for your red six.

After a Canasta has been formed, you may add to it. Slide the added cards to the bottom of your Canasta. Added cards do not increase the bonus for the Canasta, but merely add points for the added cards. A natural five-spot would add five points, while a joker would increase the value by 50 points.

Be careful not to add a wild card to a natural Canasta, because if you do, you now have a mixed Canasta, and you will be entitled to the 300-point bonus, but not the 500-point bonus.
