How To Play Canasta: 11

Canasta Goal: 'Get The Pack'

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

The chance of making a canasta is obviously better if you have 20 cards than if you have 11. Paradoxically, your chance of getting rid of all your cards is also greater. The more different sets you can meld, the greater the chance that you will be able to get rid of your last few cards by laying off.

The effect here is double-acting. In drawing from the stock, the abstract chance is better to get one of, say, five ranks, than one of two ranks. At the same time, your five different melds limit the opponents' safe discards more than do two melds.

The more melds you have, of course, the more points you score. But a word of warning: do not exaggerate the importance of this reason for wanting to "take the night." But in canasta, the point values of the melds (usually under 300) weigh relatively little against the big scores—the canasta bonus (800 or 500), the net gain by going out before the opponents have made a canasta or before they have melded at all.

Sometimes, as we shall see, the chance of hooking a big score is better served by not melding. The

His weed patch is on the Huntington college campus where he is director of one of the largest botanical gardens in the mid-west.

Blind Youth 'Sees' Bullfights

MURCIA, Spain, (AP)—Luis Mendez, a 17-year-old youth who has been blind since birth, "sees" all bullfights held here.

Only son of a rich Murcian, Luis attends all the fights with his father, who keeps up a running description throughout.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., (AP)—Robert A. Leflar is a busy man. He's:

2. President of the Southwest Athletic Conference.
3. Associate Justice of the Arkansas supreme court.

Leflar recently was appointed to fill a vacancy on the high court bench. If you are at a loss on how to address him, call him "doctor." He has a D.J.S. degree from Harvard.
