Board Upholds Miller Axeing

SALEM, Sept. 17 (AP)—The state civil service commission upheld today the dismissal of Dr. Horace Miller, psychiatrist at the state hospital.

Miller, fired on a charge of insubordination, had appealed. A hearing was held in the summer, but the commission's decision was not announced until today. The commission said in a letter to Miller that it could find "no evidence that your dismissal was made for political, racial or religious reasons, nor was your professional competency as a psychiatrist questioned."

The trouble was that "the personality differences between yourself and Dr. Bates (Dr. Charles E. Bates, superintendent of the hospital) were inimical to the best interests of the administration," the letter said.

Elderly Pensioners May Keep Cars

PORTLAND, Sept. 17 (AP)—Two elderly pensioners won the right yesterday to keep their automobiles.

The state public welfare commission, reconsidering an earlier decision, decided that Logan Fields, 78 and one-armed, needed his 1937 model car to visit the doctor at regular intervals. Planes Crash Head-On; 2 Men Killed

DALLAS, Sept. 17 (AP)—Two military planes collided head-on in the air west of Dallas today, killing one man in each ship.

One plane was a two-engine navy P-51 national guard plane. The other was a single-engine P-51 national guard plane.

The P-51 crashed, exploded and burned. The pilot's body still was in the plane.

"Pieces of it were scattered all around the cow pasture where it fell," G. W. Gorman, Irving volunteer fireman, reported.

The man killed in the navy plane crash evidently had tried to parachute.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of kin.

Overdue Plane Sought At Sea

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—Coast guard, air force and Canadian aircraft were thrown into a wide-spread hunt today for a small, single-engine plane long overdue on a projected 200-mile non-stop flight from the Azores to New York City.

The little plane, a Beechcraft Bonanza, reportedly was loaded with fuel for 29 hours of flying when it took off with two Italian aviators from the Azores yesterday. Under normal conditions, its gas supply would have been exhausted at 10 a. m. (EST) today.

The search planes started from American and Canadian bases shortly after dawn, about 19 hours after the plane last made radio contact with shore.

Foot Prints Lead To Frolics Box

Oversize foot prints on downtown streets have aroused considerable curiosity among Klamath people.

The big prints are painted on sidewalks and streets and the more curious have found by trailing them that they lead to the Lions Fun Frolic ticket booth in front of The Gun Store on Main street.
