

Alturas Day Friday; Canby Stop Slated

Friday is Salute to Alturas Day and approximately 30 members of the local chamber of commerce are planning on journeying south to honor their California cousins.

En route the convoy is to stop in Canby for sightseeing and picture taking and to arrive in Alturas about 4 p. m.

Then the local chambermen will stage a dinner at which each member of the group will play host to one Alturas resident.

Transportation for the jaunt will be provided either by bus or by automobile whichever is most convenient. Officials of the honoring committee stated that any local chamber members wanting to take part in the activities should contact the office before Thursday.

Rail, Air Service Cut Meet Topic

Main topic of discussion at the chamber of commerce luncheon tomorrow will be the curtailment of mail and express services resulting from the cancellation of two trains and two planes passing through Klamath Falls.

Southern Pacific railroad has announced cancellation of the West Coast run from Portland to San Francisco, and United air lines revealed recently that they will soon be going on their winter schedule.

Charles Stark, manager of the local chamber, stated yesterday that as many of the general public who wish to express their sentiments on the situation are welcome to attend the meeting.

No Damage At OTI Blast, Blaze

A small explosion and fire at Oregon Tech this morning caused some excitement but no damage as the "hot spot" of a street oiler caught fire.

Equipment was being used to oil roads in front of the campus apartment buildings. The fire was the first at OTI in some time and was quickly extinguished by the campus fire department. No equipment was damaged.

FIRE TAKES GRAIN—A Sunday afternoon blaze on the Cox brothers ranch, west side of Tulelake, destroyed a cargo truck and some 700 sacks of top quality Hannschen barley. Five fire trucks turned out to combat the flames which apparently started from the muffler of the grain truck. (Picture by Dan Crawford).

Council OK's $7200 Job On Cemetery

City fathers gave their approval last night of a $7200 development project in the Fir Grove section of Klamath Memorial cemetery.

Other money matters given approval were two sidewalk paving projects in the Hollister and Klamath addition areas, and payment of a bill due the F. L. Somers Construction company.

Payment on the Upham job had been delayed by the council while a study was being made into the causes of cracks in the curbing. However, after considering reports made by independent engineers on the situation, the council ordered to pay the Somers company provided

Year's County Polio Total 8

Two more cases of polio have brought Klamath county's total this year to eight.

While more than last year, authorities say the number of cases is no cause for widespread alarm.

The two new cases are 3-year-old Karen Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wilson of 2611 Radcliffe, who was moved to Sacred Heart hospital in Eugene for treatment, and the other is 73-year-old Minnie Rogers, also of this city.

Death Comes To Film Star Richard Dix

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20 (AP)—Richard Dix, 54, star of silent and sound pictures, died today of a heart ailment.

A frequent victim of heart attacks, he suffered his fatal attack in Chicago, August 10, while en route here from New York by train.

He later was flown here, but had been sinking constantly in the past few days.

For more than 15 years Dix personified the male type dear to the hearts of screen fans—the virile (and virtuous) outdoorsman. He was the hero of scores of daring exploits in silent films, and survived the transition to sound to reach even greater popularity.

"Cimarron," released in 1931, was his most famous picture and marked the peak of his career.

He remained a top boxoffice attraction until the late thirties.

Dix made a fortune in the palmy days of low income taxes and prudently saved enough to have no financial worries in his late life. He lived in semi retirement for several years on his large ranch near Hollywood.

Segregation In Cemetery Not Decided

burials was a violation of the equal protection clause of the Constitution. He also made mention of a portion of article 14, section 1 of the amendments to the Constitution which states, in part, that "no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

The Berkeley lawyer summed up his arguments by stating that any such division based on color "was an enhancement to the communists in their attempts to promote division among the peoples of the United States."

Mayor Thompson, at the outset of the council meeting, informed the NAACP group that the council and cemetery committee are still studying the problem.

No Hurry

Thompson said "we don't want to be hurried" and also gave as a reason for postponement of a final decision the absence of two councilmen.

Early today City Attorney Henry Perkins informed a Herald and News reporter that "I can't see any legal clause that would prohibit segregation in burials."

"It's a civil rights question that hasn't come before the state supreme court," Perkins added, "although many lower courts have upheld segregation."

Edder stated that he had been working with the NAACP for a year on other matters and had come to Klamath Falls at the request of the local NAACP group.

It was announced that Pearl Lindy, new Modoc county home demonstration agent, is expected for the next meeting. Three books are to be reviewed by Barbara Boyd. Modoc county librarian who is anxious to increase interest in reading. Place of the meeting will be announced later.

Car Turns Over; No Injuries

A car carrying four teen-age passengers, and driven by Arne Seland Matson, 223 Doty, went out of control on Lakeshore drive early last night, and rolled over an embankment. Fortunately, no one was injured.

According to state police, Matson's car failed to negotiate a curve in the highway when the automobile's steering mechanism broke. The car climbed the embankment, rolled over once, and landed upright on its wheels.

Names of the teen-aged passengers were given as Helen Detroit, 13, Ann Schonover, 14, Clydene Schultz, 13, and Edmund Andersch, 15.

The car was traveling east on highway 236 when the accident occurred.

WOCUS, Sept. 20 — Jim Steiner received minor injuries late Saturday when his logging truck was involved in an accident near Lakesview.

The hydraulic brakes on Steiner's truck gave way on a downhill grade and Steiner turned the truck off a big tree before he jumped to safety.

The pine tree crashed directly across the loaded truck, demolishing the big machine. Steiner escaped with torn ankle ligaments.

Mr. and Mrs. Steiner reside on the Frank Hurd place here.

Road Man Ignores Pine Cone Sign

The old wheeze about "lotsa pine cones heep big winter" isn't fading Tom Edwards, Oregon state highway maintenance engineer here, who said this morning he was going ahead as usual getting equipment ready for winter highway operation.

Edwards observed when reminded that the pines and firs and even the cedars are laden with cones, that he'd be ready when the snow fell but he didn't hold much with these time honored prognostications.

instead of spending them here at home.

That's what the British are gunning for.

WILL it work out and put Britain on her feet?

Look at it like this: You get a headache. You take a pain-killer. It eases the pain. But, unless you get at the seat of the trouble, the headache will come back after the effect of the pain-killer wears off.

THE seat of Britain's troubles lies in the fact that her production costs are too high to enable her to compete in the world's markets. Unless she can cure that basic trouble, she's sunk.

Evaluation of the pound is a temporary shot in the arm and it will undoubtedly work TEMPORARILY. But unless Britain can get her costs down and KEEP THEM DOWN, she might as well kiss her old position in the world good-bye.

There is no such thing in the world as something for nothing, and evaluation of currency, which is as old as time, is simply an attempt to get something for nothing. It never has worked permanently yet, and I'm sure it never will.

PARKS NEGLECTED

DETROIT, Sept. 20 (AP)—The U. S. director of parks said today that national parks had been neglected in the past eight years and would require expenditure of $600,000,000 to restore them to good condition.

"Many facilities," said Newton B. Drury, "have deteriorated through lack of proper repair and maintenance."

"Cinch Cake Mix is the finest I have ever used."
