McKay Delays Hiring Of School Expert

SALEM, Sept. 29 (AP)—Governor McKay instructed the state department of education to hold up the appointment of an expert to make a survey of the state schools.

Yesterday, the board voted to hire T. C. Holy, an Ohio State university professor, to make the survey.

But Attorney General George Neuner ruled that the legislature intended that the survey be made by its interim committee on the school system. Neuner held that to hire an outside expert would be an illegal delegation of power.

After conferring with Neuner, the governor ordered the appointment held up pending further study.

Bob Lenden got an early start in hoping to match his 10 shutouts of 1948. In his second start he blanked the Browns on five hits.
