HAPPY WITH A NEW JOB and a new town is John Feldhusen, 28, former Santa Barbara resident, who came to Klamath Falls for additional treatment of a knee condition left by polio, and decided to stay. Feldhusen is a bookkeeper with First Federal Savings and Loan and an example of the job being done by physically handicapped persons in building successful new lives.

Physical Handicaps Being Overcome by Rehabilitation

Work being done by the state rehabilitation commission and veterans administration in urging employment of the physically handicapped is constantly growing in worth as more and more people return to normal well-adjusted lives despite physical handicaps. Locally, the rehabilitation program is carried on through Jack Benner, of the state employment office, as well as through the VA. The job being done by these agencies is overshadowed only by the effort and courage shown by physically handicapped persons themselves.

An example of wholesome readjustment is shown by 28-year-old John Feldhusen, recently of Santa Barbara, Calif., but now residing in Klamath Falls. Feldhusen, a young red-haired ex-marine, was stricken with polio, the first case in Santa Barbara in 1948. Two months of hospitalization were followed by long weeks of recuperation.

Egbert, Bad Bird; AWOL From Church

HEREFORD, England, Oct. 3 (AP) Forty horses went to church here yesterday.

Once year the Very Rev. Hedley Burrows, dean of Hereford, has a service for pets and their owners dedicated to St. Francis of Assisi, patron saint of animals.

Success
"I think the service was a marvelous success," said the vicar of Holy Trinity, the Rev. Leonard Snell. "It will help people to realize their responsibilities toward dumb animals."

The animals got the spirit of the ceremony. No dogs chased cats. No cats ate mice. The cats left the goldfish unmolested. Only a goose named Egbert disgraced his owner. Egbert waddled out just as the service began.
